G.O.P. LEADERS PLAN TO MEET HOOVER'S VETO

Veterans' Bill Embodying Legion Program to Be Offered.

SCHEME WILL BE AID TO 29,000 DISABLED

Pension System Would Add to $33,000,000 in New Measure.

COST FOR ONE YEAR SET AT $60,000,000

Question Arises Whether Senate Will Accept House Action.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

House Republican leaders showed the iron hand yesterday in groping their way out of one of the worst dilemmas they have been in for sometime, with indications that the cost to the country will be $50,000,000 or $60,000,000 regardless of the outcome.

They are confronted with the problem of out "Democrating" the Democrats in the matter of World War veterans' legislation and in such a way that the President will stand for it.

The plan they have in mind seems to be generally agreed to be a more sensible one; one that the President would not call discriminatory, subterfuge and founded upon falsehood, but the estimates are that the cost will differ so little from the bill around which all the fuss has been raised as to be imperceptible.

Pass Veterans' Bill.

The first step in what the Republicans call the "return to sanity," a move that came incidentally after one of the most ringing denunciations ever heard from a President, was taken yesterday.

The House effected final passage of the $74,000,000 veterans' bill which the President denounced, by acceding to Senate amendments. This procedure was adopted in the full knowledge that today Mr. Hoover will veto the bill and it will come back to the House where the veto will be sustained and the new plan then started upon its way. This action was agreed upon at House Republican caucus Tuesday night.

The new bill is, first of all, to take in the original American Legion program, all that the organization has asked for this year. It will give governmental assistance to 29,000 veterans who contracted certain constitutional or chronic ailments prior to 1925. These are veterans who have not heretofore enjoyed Government assistance, but they are the so-called marginal cases, of which the President spoke in his denunciatory statement and whom he said the Government should provide for.

Original Johnson Bill.

Now this was the original veterans' bill prepared by the Legion and sponsored by Representative Royal Johnson, chairman of the House veterans' committee. Its estimated cost is $33,000,000 a year.

When it got into the House, the leaders heard so much grumbling from members who, faced with campaigns, wanted to do something for the veterans on their own that they decided to open the bill up for amendments. This proved their undoing. The Democrats, headed by the fighting Mississippian, Representative Rankin, remembered for the time he threw an inkwell at Frank Hogan, got control of the bill and ran away with it to such an extent that Representative Johnson refused to let his name remain on it.

The Senate toned the bill down considerably, and it was in this considerably modified form that it went to the White House yesterday. It retained, however, the features which Mr. Hoover described as more objectionable than the cost.

Plan to Add Pension Scheme.

Now, in this legislative clowning, the veterans' ante has been boosted so high that in order to get out of the mess, the Republicans, in retracing their steps with their faces hanging in shame in the light of the President's statement, plan to add to the original $33,000,000 scheme a pension system, introducing it for the first time in connection with World War veterans.

This additional feature, briefly, would give a pension ranging from $10 to $40 a month—maybe those will not be the exact figures—to veterans who have incurred, and who in the future, incur disabilities not connected at all with the war. Authoritative, though not final estimates of the cost of this begin at $50,000,000 or $60,000,000 for the first year. The main thing is that a policy is being embarked upon to which there is no end. Some 200,000 veterans will be affected the first year.

Civil War veterans, beginning with a pension of $3 a month, finally ran up an annual cost of $135,000,000 a

Missing Pilot's Fight In Storm Recounted

Wrecked Plane Identified as Craft Flown by Maurice Graham.

Cedar City, Utah, June 25 (A.P.).—Mute evidence of the attempt of Maurice Graham, Los Angeles-Salt Lake air mail pilot, to fight his way to safety when he crashed on a plateau in a blinding snowstorm southeast of here on the night of January 10, last, was found today by a party which reached his wrecked plane.

A brief search of the vicinity, however, revealed no trace of Graham, who, it is believed certain, perished in the storm while seeking to make his way to shelter on foot. An organized wider search will be started tomorrow. The plane, located yesterday by two sheep herders, rests at a spot 25 miles from here on the west side of Crystal Gulch.

Indications were the pilot was not seriously injured in the smashup of his plane, but a handkerchief found in the cockpit bearing faint blood-stains gave evidence that he had suffered cuts.

The cargo of mail was found intact in a locked compartment.

The fellow pilots who viewed the wrecked plane today read a story of how Graham, bewildered by the storm, had attempted a landing among thick oak brush or else had flown too low to the ground and had come to disaster.

Some five gallons of gasoline remained in the tank—enough to have carried him back to his course and to possible safety at an emergency landing field near New Meadows.

LINGLE MARKET OPERATOR WITH HEAD OF POLICE

Slain Reporter in Joint Account With Former Commissioner.

$700 TO $10,000 SENT TO BANKS EACH WEEK

Russell, Captain, Holds Paper Profits Stayed With Brokers.

SUM, INSISTS LAWYER, RAN UP TO $100,000

"Machine Gun Jack" Found Guilty of Carrying Gun; Second Such Case.

Chicago, June 25 (A.P.).—Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter slain June 9, carried a joint stock market account with former Police Commissioner William Russell, the State's attorney's office revealed today. At one time the account represented a $100,000 pool, it was announced.

Russell, who resigned his post as commissioner as a result of public clamor after the Lingle slaying, admitted his market partnership with Lingle when questioned today for the second time in 24 hours by Chief Investigator Patrick Roche and others.

When the market crashed last fall, the account, which had been started with the original sum of $10,000, was wiped out, Russell said, according to his interrogators.

Denies Taking Profits.

Russell, now a police captain, said that neither he nor Lingle ever withdrew any money from the account. He denied he and Lingle had engaged in any other dealings together, asserting that they were only friends, playing the market together, it was said by Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun, of the Tribune law firm, appointed to handle legal phases of the investigation into Lingle's death.

"I am not in a position to say what significance Capt. Russell's information regarding the market partnership will have in solving the Lingle murder case," said Attorney Rathbun, "nor do I wish to embarrass Russell needlessly. However, we are still working, day by day and step by step, gathering data which we hope will eventually solve the mystery."

"Machine Gun Jack" McGurn, reputed marksman for "Scarface Al" Capone, was convicted tonight of a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

McGurn is one of the best-known gangsters in Chicago and was once arrested as a suspect in the Valentine's Day massacre of last year, when seven followers of George (Bugs) Moran were slain. Charges in this case were dropped as they were in several other instances. Today's verdict, returned after 2 hours and 40 minutes' deliberation, was the first con-

ATLANTIC FLIERS ARE POISED FOR NEW YORK HOP TODAY; CAPITAL WIRES TRIBUTES

Sir Ronald Lindsay Will Fly to Metropolis for Reception.

TELEGRAMS CARRY OFFICIALS' PLAUDITS

Captain, Aids Expected to Be Presented to Hoover.

CABLE TO AUSTRALIA IS SENT BY STIMSON

Lindbergh Worried Over Quartet's Safety, Reveals Ambassador Morrow.

In the Fokker plane sent down by the City of New York and Grover Whalen, the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, and the Charge d'Affaires of the Irish Free State, William J. B. Macaulay, will fly to Roosevelt Field today to welcome Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and his companions of the Atlantic flight, and to take part in New York's reception to the airmen. The Fokker arrived at Bolling Field, the Army air station here, last evening.

With the two diplomats will go Wing Commander L. J. E. Twisleton-Wykeman-Fiennes, air attache at the British Embassy. Mr. Macaulay expects to bring back to Washington with him Capt. J. Patrick Saul, navigator of the Southern Cross, who bears a letter from President Cosgrave, of the Irish Free State, to President Hoover.

Enthusiasm in Capital.

All during the day enthusiasm and interest in the great flight was keenly Hoover down to the page boys in the Senate, published reports of the flight were scanned. Ambassadors Morrow, to Mexico, and Dawes, to Great Britain, took time from their conferences with the President and Secretary of State Stimson to wire congratulations and best wishes to Capt. Kingsford-Smith and his associates.

Among the telegrams sent to him from the Capital were these:

Secretary of State Stimson—Heartiest congratulations to yourself, Capt. Saul, Stannage and Van Dyk on your splendid flight and safe arrival.

Ambassador Lindsay of Great Britain—May I extend to you and your gallant crew my congratulations on your successful flight and my best wishes for its continuation.

Acclaimed by America.

Ambassador Morrow — Best wishes and heartiest congratulations on your splendid achievement.

Ambassador Dawes—Congratulations on your splendid achievement which will become history. Our whole country is acclaiming it.

Acting Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke—The American Navy extends its congratulations to you and your gallant crew. Your courageous feat of crossing the Atlantic and land-

Flier's Fiancee Plays Bridge to Allay Fear

Australian Girl Thrilled as Kingsford-Smith Lands Safely.

Melbourne, Australia, June 25 (A.P.).—Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith's pretty fiancee, Mary Powell, was the happiest girl in Australia today. She had faced bravely the difficult task of waiting for news of the safe arrival in America in the Southern Cross of her adventurous husband-to-be.

"Isn't it wonderful?" she exclaimed. "My mother insisted that I spend last evening playing bridge to keep me from worrying," she said with real British cheerfulness. "Oh, but what terrible things I did at bridge."

Waiting for the flight to start, she added, had been almost as hard as waiting for it to end.

Miss Powell was radiant with happiness. She had been receiving occasional radio dispatches from Belfast, the first reaching her yesterday morning in which her fiance said he was 500 miles out. Finally came the news that the plane had sighted Newfoundland and she felt sure of her hero's success.

"I could not refuse to let him make the attempt," she exclaimed. "It was the only big thing left for him to do in aviation. It would always have been there, nagging in the corner of his mind, if he had not done it.

"So I thought it was the best thing to let him get it over with. He promised that once the Atlantic flight was done he would not undertake any other big flights. Our marriage is fixed for September."

Mary had a 20-minute chat with Amy Johnson, London-to-Australia flier, and promised to visit Amy in England.

FOG, FUEL SHORTAGE GROUND STURDY SHIP

Four Gallons of Gasoline Left as Craft Alights in Newfoundland.

SAN FRANCISCO TRIP TO END WORLD TOUR

Ocean Spanned in 32 Hours, Despite Thick Weather, Compass Troubles.

Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, June 25 (A.P.).—Signifying his intention of hopping off for Roosevelt Field, N. Y., at 2:30 a. m. (E. S. T.) tomorrow (5 a. m. Newfoundland daylight time), Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith tonight supervised the refueling of his faithful Southern Cross and endeavored to enjoy with his three-man crew a much needed rest after their successful battle with the hazards of the westward crossing of the Atlantic.

With favorable winds forecast for tomorrow, Capt. Kingsford-Smith expects to make the trip down the coast in twelve or fourteen hours, which would mean that the Southern Cross would complete its journey between 2:30 and 4:30 (E. S. T.) tomorrow afternoon.

The veteran pilot received dozens of requests from airports along the Atlantic seaboard to have the plane stop there. He regretted declining the invitations but said he had decided to go directly to New York.

All four of the crew retired at 11:30 local time for a few hours.

Landed Short of Goal.

The great plane that thrilled the world with a record breaking flight over the Pacific, fought a bitter battle with fog above the grand banks and along the coast of Newfoundland as the gasoline supply that carried the ship from Ireland ebbed away to the danger point.

Then at 6 a. m., (E. S. T.), still a thousand miles short of New York, its goal, and with barely enough petrol to wet its tanks, it dropped through the fog bank to the field here, the second airplane to negotiate the treacherous east-west flight of the north Atlantic and the first ever to land undamaged and able to continue.

Tired But Well.

As it rolled to a stop here, 32 hours after soaring away from port Marnock, Irish Free State, the quartet that had piloted it on its long flight climbed out.

There were Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith, the pilot, and Evert Van Dyke, copilot; J. Patrick Saul, navigator, and John W. Stannage, radio operator.

They were tired, but in good condition and within a few minutes Capt. Kingsford-Smth announced his intention of taking off within 24 hours for New York. From there, he said he would continue to San Francisco and thereby complete a globe-circling flight that began two years ago when he set out across the Pacific.

Battle Through Fog.

To fog and compass trouble may be attributed the failure to surpass the distance record of the Bremen, the German plane which first successfully negotiated the westward flight only to meet disaster on Greenly Island in St. Lawrence Bay.

These conditions and the poor visibility caused by the fog reduced the fuel supply on the plane to a point that the flyers were forced to land here.

For hours the plane fought its way through the fog guided by radio stations in its quest for a safe landing

CONTEMPT CITATION FOR BANKER, JUROR

TALK ON SUIT ALLEGED

Justice Frederick L. Siddons, in District Supreme Court, yesterday issued a rule requiring Frank Owings, former vice president of the Bank of Commerce & Savings, and Fred W. Jones, of 3811 Beecher street, to show cause why they should not be adjudged in contempt of court. The rule requires them to appear in court on July 2.

Justice Siddons' citation is based on affidavits furnished by five members of a jury panel of Circuit Court No. 1, in which the justice presides, in which it is charged that after the case of Charles D. Kenney vs. The Bank of Commerce & Savings had been given to the jury the body stood 11 to 1 in favor of the plaintiff. Jones, one of the jury, it was alleged, was seen talking with Mr. Owings, who is said to have represented the bank at the trial. Kenney had sued for $1,400 under his trade name of the Washington Electric Co.

The other affidavits are alleged to support charges that Jones admitted to the four other jurors that he had

Porter Relatives Called to Bedside

Pennsylvania Member of Congress Is Reported Sinking Rapidly.

Pittsburgh, June 25 (A.P.).—Representative Stephen G. Porter, ill at the Allegheny General Hospital here, was reported as sinking rapidly tonight and relatives were summoned to his bedside. He is suffering from cirrhosis of the liver.

Mr. Porter, who has represented his district here since 1910, was stricken two months ago while on shipboard returning from London. He entered a hospital in Washington, but was removed to Pittsburgh June 11.

He has been chairman of the House foreign affairs committee for years, and has taken an active part in opposing traffic in narcotics.

ALTERED BROOKHART BILL PASSAGE URGED

Civil Service Committee to Ask Acceptance of Amendments.

WOULD INSURE ADOPTION

In order to insure its enactment into law, the Senate civil service committee will ask the Senate to accept the amendments to the Brookhart civil service pay bill, Chairman Dale announced late yesterday.

The bill, which will distribute $2,875,000 in belated raises among between 40,000 and 45,000 Government workers, 12,000 or 13,000 of them here in Washington, passed the Senate about two months ago and was sent to the House.

Now the House also has passed it, but in doing so has added two amendments to it.

The Senate either must disagree to the amendments and ask for a conference, or else accept the amendments and let the bill go to the White House for the President's signature.

Chairman Dale said yesterday that, so far as he is concerned, he will recommend the latter course in order that the bill may become a law.

He said that if Senator Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, the author, returns in time, he will turn the bill over to him; otherwise he will ask the Senate to accept the amendments. He will wait for the Iowan, he said, until tomorrow.

Of the House amendments, the most important is the one which kills the retroactive provision in the bill. There also is an amendment to give the Personnel Classification Board the authority to revise allocations.

The bill was drawn up to correct the inequalities in the Welch salary act of 1928. As a result of the interpretation of this measure, many employes failed to get the raises that Congress intended they should get.

The Brookhart bill would give to those employes who received only a $60 raise a $120 raise, and to those who received only a $100 raise a $200 raise.

Senator Brookhart provided that these raises should be retroactive to July 1, 1928, when the Welch act took effect, but Chairman Lehlbach, of the House civil service committee, amended the bill so as to eliminate this retroactive feature. Obviously, this makes the bill much less expensive.

House Acts to Insure District's Finances

Resolution to Continue Part of Last Year's Fund Expected to Pass Today as 1931 Budget Plan Is Still Deadlocked.

A resolution to continue a part of the 1930 appropriation for the District, which was favorably reported by the appropriations committee yesterday, probably will be adopted by the House today and sent to the Senate.

The resolution is designed to provide enough money to maintain the local government in case the 1931 appropriation bill fails to pass.

The resolution would provide between $34,500,000 and $35,000,000, about $10,000,000 less than is carried in the 1931 bill. The loss of this $10,000,000 would halt many building and improvement projects and would throw hundreds of men out of work.

The 1931 bill still was deadlocked yesterday, with no sign of a truce on either side of the Capitol. The House conferees still insist upon a Federal contribution of $9,000,000, and the Senate conferees upon a contribution of at least $10,000,000.

Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, chief Senate conferee, introduced a resolution proposing still another commission to determine what the Federal contribution should be, but he said that this had nothing to do with the present deadlock.

Representative Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska, chief House conferee, threatened to ask for the appointment of a House committee that not only would study the fiscal relations problem, but which would recommend a much more drastic taxation system than now prevails here.

The committee, the Nebraskan said, would consider the advisability of an inheritance tax and an income tax such as are assessed in the States; a gasoline tax and an automobile license tax on a par with those in Maryland and Virginia, a tax on intangibles that are now exempt, and also a corporation and a franchise tax such as the States have.

"If we revised the taxation system along those lines," said Mr. Simmons, "you would have so much money in the Treasury that there would be no further talk of an increased real estate tax or an increased Federal contribution."

Commenting on the stand taken by the Senate in insisting on $1,000,000 more from the Federal Government, Mr. Simmons declared that a point that has been overlooked is that this additional sum would not be used even if it were made available, for the reason that there already is sufficient money to the District's credit to meet the various items in the 1931 bill.

Although the 1931 bill appears to be dead, Mr. Simmons steadfastly refuses to pronounce it as such.

In a recent speech in the House he said that he had "personal reasons" to believe that the bill would pass, and yesterday he reiterated that

PACT RESERVATIONS PLANNED IN SENATE

Opposition to Center Its Strength on Provision for Cruisers.

HOOVER FIRM ON ACTION

(Associated Press.)

Several reservations are being drafted to be proposed to the London Naval Treaty in the forthcoming debate in the Senate.

The opposition to the pact will concentrate its strength on a reservation declaring that the treaty provision dividing cruisers into 8 inch and 6 inch gun ships does not constitute a permanent surrender of the previous position by this country that it has the right to build any kind of cruisers adapted to American needs.

The American Navy General Board at the hearings before the Senate committees protested most vigorously against this provision. The Navy has contended that the 6-inch-gun cruisers favored by Great Britain are unadaptable to American fleet needs.

Treaty Program Aggravated.

Information that reservations are being drawn aggravated the treaty program considerably. While advocates of the London pact continued confident last night of its ratification without reservation, many persons believed that the new move of the opposition means a long contest.

Meanwhile, President Hoover and advocates of the pact are standing firm for prompt disposition of it despite the petition of 24 members for a postponement of the treaty debate until November 17.

Two other reservations are contemplated. One would be a declaration that under the so-called "escape" or "escalator" clause, this country would have the right to build the type of ships she desired if Great Britain or

JAMES K. VARDAMAN DIES IN BIRMINGHAM

WAS ALSO GOVERNOR

Birmingham, Ala., June 25 (A.P.).—James Kimball Vardaman, former Governor and United States Senator from Mississippi, died here today, after a long illness. He was 68 years old.

For the last five years he had made his home with his two daughters, Mrs. A. L. Fairley and Mrs. W. T. Ratliff, here. About five years ago Mr. Vardaman suffered a nervous breakdown and had been in ill health since. Funeral services will be held in Jackson, Miss.

Mr. Vardaman, editor, lawyer, governor and senator, had been closely associated with the political life of Mississippi for nearly half a century.

He first began practice of law in Winona, Miss., in 1883 and was successively editor of the Winona Advance, the Greenwood Enterprise and the Jackson Issue.

He was a member of the Mississippi House of Representatives from 1890 to 1896. He was governor from 1904 to 1908 and was elected United States senator in 1913, serving until 1919.

He was a characteristic figure while in the Senate life at Washington, being known as the "White Chief" through his habit of wearing his hair long and flowing.

He was a Methodist, Mason and a Knight of Pythias.

He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. A. L. Fairley and Mrs. W. T. Ratliff, of Birmingham, and a son, James K. Vardaman, jr., of St. Louis.

Girl, Drowning in Potomac, Rescued by Bank Cashier

Russell Hauser Swims to Midstream, Saving Cramps Victim.

Seized with cramps while swimming in the Potomac River near the Three Sisters yesterday afternoon, a girl who gave the name of Helen Wise, 18 years old, was saved from drowning by Russell Hauser, 7611 Thirteenth street northwest, an assistant cashier of the Park Savings Bank.

Hauser, who was swimming with friends near the Virginia shore, saw the girl in distress in midstream and going to her aid managed to get her to shore.

She was removed to the Potomac Boat Club. The Fire Rescue Squad was called and gave first aid. Later the girl was removed to Emergency Hospital.

After being treated at that institution for suffocation, Miss Wise left

...ace. Slowly it circled the airport here for what to the flyers seemed hours before it landed.

Although fatigued by their many hours of flying and the mental strain provided by the final few hours, the aviators were in good condition. They were happy in the thought that they at least had conquered the Atlantic but did not hide their disappointment at their failure to reach New York.

Plans were immediately formulated for resuming the flight. Authorization for taking aboard 400 gallons of Petrol and 12 gallons of oil was asked from the company sponsoring the flight and plans laid for the take-off tomorrow. With a start at daybreak it is hoped to reach New York tomorrow night. There the plane will be refuled and then continue on to San Francisco for the last lap in a "round-the-world" flight.

The first thing sought was warm food and then beds. The men were up, however, in time to complete the plans for refueling and to discuss the take-off in the morning. Kingsford-Smith said the plane would be landed at Roosevelt field.

Fly Blindly 20 Hours.

The story of the flight as told by the airmen was a story of danger. A few hours after leaving Dublin the Southern Cross encountered bad weather and the visibility became poor. For 20 out of 24 hours the men flew blindly in their quest for the eastern shores of North America. Their distance-finding apparatus did not prove satisfactory. They turned to their compass for guidance, and when this deserted them, to the messages from ships and radio stations. It was only by the aid of the ever-watchful radio operators on the ships and at the stations that the navigators were able to establish their position.

For hours this condition continued, the fliers said, yet satisfactory progress was made. But the elements were against them and 500 miles off the Newfoundland coast the plane entered a fog bank that destroyed all sense of direction. Sticking doggedly to the trail straight ahead they finally sighted land and made for it. They knew it must be Newfoundland, and started a search for Harbor Grace.

"Hooray, See Land!"

The exact time the fliers found the coast was set at 4:43 a. m. (E. S. T.) by Capt. David W. Bone, master of the steamship Transylvania, who said his ship had been in communication with the Southern Cross and at that time received a message saying, "Hooray, see land at last!"

Flares were burned at the field here during the early hours, but it was the beam wireless at Belle Isle and the radio messages from Cape Race that finally guided the fliers here. Slowly the plane circled the field and then slid easily down through the vanishing mist to land safely.

"All we want is a good smoke," was the greeting the fliers gave the airport officials and the small group of people gathered to meet them. Van Dyke's salutation was: "We had a terrible night and I'm deaf all over."

The men said the trip was not a bit monotonous, adding smilingly that there had been plenty to think about.

As soon as it was learned the Cape Race radio station was talking with the plane the officials here invited the aviators to land here. The invitation was refused at first, but later accepted. It was after making this decision that the Southern Cross went into the last fog bank and those gathered at the field could hear the plane roaring overhead, but completely hidden from sight.

When it landed there were only 4 gallons of fuel left in her tanks.

Praise Radio Assistance.

That the Southern Cross was experiencing difficulty during the latter part of its flight was assumed by those supplying her with information. At 2:26 a. m., Eastern standard time, the Cape Race station said they had determined that the plane had been circling the southeastern tip of Newfoundland for hours. It was then that the station took up the work of directing the plane to the field here.

All of the crew said the steady drone of the motors had temporarily impaired their hearing. They were too tired to go into the intimate details of their trip, but Kingsford-Smith said:

"Only for the wonderful wireless radio we would never have been able to land here. We had a rotten night. We flew over this territory almost all night waiting for a chance to land. We were in the air more than 32 hours and experienced very foggy weather and trouble with the compass. These caused delay."

New York to San Francisco.

"We will leave for New York at daybreak tomorrow after refueling. We were hoping to reach New York without a stop, but shortage of gas prevented this. We will fly to San Francisco after reaching New York, thereby completing an around-the-world flight."

Reports from Nova Scotia carried a possibility that during the time the plane had been lost she had hovered over the coast of Nova Scotia. Early morning workers at Sydney reported that at 3 a. m. a motor was heard circling over the city. While the fliers did not definitely know their position they hardly believed they had traveled that far.

Congratulated by Byrd.

Reminders of previous transatlantic flights were evident in the circumstances surrounding the trip of the Southern Cross. Weather officials said that the experience of the fliers was similar to that of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd when he crossed the Atlantic from the West to the East. He found good weather conditions during the first few hours, but ran into heavy fog off the coast of Europe. It was also outstanding that the Southern Cross landed today at the place from which Commander Grieve and Harry Hawker, the English airmen, hopped off in their first attempt to span the Atlantic.

News of the arrival here spread throughout the world and meseages of congratulatic - came throughout the day. Rear Admiral Byrd was one of the first to send his congratulations and his message was closely followed by one from Anthony H. G. Fokker, who designed and built the Southern Cross at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., five years ago.

NEW YORK PREPARES WELCOME TO FLIERS

Radio History Will Be Made in Broadcast of Event; Fields in Feud.

SAUL TO VISIT CAPITAL

New York, June 25 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Gotham late tonight put finishing touches on preparations for its gala welcome to Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and his crew of three aboard the Southern Cross when they arrive in town sometime tomorrow afternoon or night.

Both Roosevelt and Curtiss Fields on Long Island want to be hosts to these newest of air heroes. Among the first offic ally to welcome them on the completion of their transatlantic hop will be the mayor's committee, headed as usual by Grover A. Whalen, and accompanied by the numerous diplomats and Government officials who are privileged to be among the first to grasp Capt. Kingsford-Smith and his companions by the hands. This party will leave the municipal building by automobile tomorrow two hours before the flyers' scheduled arrival.

Three hundred of Chief Abraham Skidmore's strong Nassau County policemen are now on duty ready to hop to either Curtiss or Roosevelt Field when the flyers approach. Radio history will be made out of the welcome, too, for the Columbia Broadcasting system has ten men assigned under the direction of Harry Bonzell to broadcast the actual landing of the Southern Cross in a coast-to-coast hook-up.

To carry out this newest of radio feats a portable transmitter attached to a truck will be used. Capt. Kingsford-Smith and his crew will each say a few words into the microphone.

Newspapermen Make Ready.

Tonight the Garden City Hotel at Garden City, Long Island, was about ready to hang out the "standing room only" sign, as hordes of newspapermen, cameramen and movietone operators and their various pieces of apparatus lumbered into the hotel—the half-way mark between the two fields. This morning a miniature crowd—faint preface of the hordes that are due tomorrow—rolled out on Long Island, but disappeared when word came that the fliers would not continue to New York until tomorrow.

Private planes also were cruising above the fields.

Capt. Kingsford-Smith and his men will switch to an amphibian plane as soon as they land on Long Island and will be brought to the foot of the Statue of Liberty, where the city tug Macom will bring them to the Battery and Manhattan. Just before docking they will salute the city and reply to their early welcome through personal messages over the Macom's new short-wave transmitter.

Because of the lateness of the flyers' anticipated arrival, the mayor's committee on receptions announced tonight that the aviators would be received at City Hall at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon by Mayor Walker.

Both Fields Claim Fliers.

Roosevelt and Curtiss Fields were both claiming the fliers tonight, and the odds seemed to weigh in favor of Curtiss. The sponsors of the flight said that the Southern Cross would land at Curtiss, where a bulletin service was being received and press quarters reserved. This was notwithstanding the fact that J. Nelson Kelley, in charge at Roosevelt, received a radiogram from J. Wilcox, telegraph operator in Harbor Grace, announcing that the Southern Cross "will leave early tomorrow for Roosevelt Field."

Charles S. ("Casey") Jones, president of the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service, was just as pronounced in his affirmation that the fliers would land on his field in Valley Stream, instead of on his rival's at Mineola.

Mr. Whalen announced tonight that in addition to the British Ambassador, Wing Commander L. J. E. Twisleton-Wykeman-Fiennes, air attache, and other members of the British Embassy staff, Michael McWhite, minister to this country from the Irish Free State, and the three assistant secretaries for aeronautics of the War, Navy and Commerce Departments, F. Trubee Davison, David S. Ingalls and Col. Clarence Young have been invited to fly to the aviators' reception. A special invitation was also forwarded to Herbert Brooks, commissioner general for Australia in the United States.

Saul Coming to Capital.

Mr. Macauley, the Irish Free State charge d'affaires, expects to bring back to Washington with him Capt. J. Patrick Saul, the navigator of the Southern Cross, who bears a letter from President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State to President Hoover.

Among the crowds at the two flying fields tonight were many noted flyers, all of whom had glowing praise for the Southern Cross. At Roosevelt Field, Roger Q. Williams, transatlantic flyer, was enthusiastic in his praise of Capt. Kingsford-Smith. "I can appreciate the difficulties of a westward flight," he said, "from my own flight eastward."

Police Maintain Guard Over Phone Operator

Police last night maintained their guard over Miss Catherine Bailey, young telephone operator at Gallinger Hospital who has been repeatedly threatened with violence by a man for whom the authorities are conducting a diligent search.

Miss Bailey was guarded during her trick of duty both Tuesday night and last night. A former employe of the hospital, recently discharged and who is said to blame his discharge on Miss Bailey is the man on whom police hvae placed their suspicions.

AMBASSADOR TO FLY TO WELCOME FLIERS

Lindsay and U. S. Diplomats Send Congratulations to Intrepid Crew.

LINDBERGH HAD FEARED

ing safely against great odds has aroused the admiration of every officer and man in the naval service.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics David S. Ingalls—I congratulate the transatlantic fliers on accomplishing an outstanding feat in aviation. The flight over the Atlantic from East to West is a most hazardous undertaking. Great credit is due to the organization, courage, skill and fortitude of the crew which made it possible.

Radio Aid Cited.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics—Capt. Kingsford-Smith is deserving of the highest praise and commendation on his successful flight across the Atlantic. His preparation, his darling and his successful landing at an airport in the Western Hemisphere demonstrates his skill and ability. The last hours of his flight again demonstrates the necessity for radio control and radio beacons to guide planes flying in fog-bound areas to airports. I wish to again congratulate Capt. Kingsford-Smith and his gallant crew.

Senator Hiram Bingham—Your remarkable western flight across the Atlantic has brought the certainty of regular transatlantic air schedules between Europe and America a step nearer. The Army round-the-world fliers paved the way with their refueling flight from England via Iceland and Greenland to Labrador. The Bremen fliers, in 1928, almost achieved their goal before they were forced down on Greenley Island but to you goes the honor of making a signally successful nonstop flight from Europe to North America.

May I extend my heartfelt congratulations, together with the welcome of the National Aeronautic Association?"

Secretary Stimson also sent this cable to John H. Scullin, prime minister of Australia: "Personally and in behalf of the Government, I extend to you and the Australian commonwealth heartiest congratulations upon the splendid flight and safe arrival of Capt. Kingsford-Smith and his daring companions.

Hoover Reception Planned.

"To my mind, a fact of greater portent to the friendly relations of our two countries and to international air transportation is that Capt. Kingsford-Smith by the flight not only accomplished a difficult westward passage of the Atlantic, and is about to complete the circumnavigation of the world, but has joined our two countries by air via a different route."

Plans already are being formed for the reception of the fliers in the Capital. It is believed that Capt. Kingsford-Smith and his companions will be received by President Hoover at the White House, and in the Senate and the House of Representatives. There is a possibility that the National Geographic Society may honor the fliers in some way.

Lindbergh's Anxiety Bared.

That Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was "extremely worried" about the fate of Capt. Kingsford-Smith and the Southern Cross as it was blindly cruising around in the fog Tuesday night was told by Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, his father-in-law, in a talk with newspapermen yesterday after a conference with President Hoover.

"Lindy was extremely worried because of the condition of the weather," the Ambassador said. "He thinks Kingsford-Smith is one of the greatest of fliers. In Lindy's estimation Kingsford-Smith's flight over the Pacific to Hawaii, 'hitting a little island dot,' was one of the greatest feats of air navigation performed."

MORROW CONCEALS NAME OF GRANDSON

"Ask Parents," Says Envoy; Invites President to Pay Mexico Early Visit.

HAS TALK WITH DAWES

(Associated Press.)

Preparing to return to their diplomatic posts, Ambassadors Morrow and Dawes yesterday conferred with President Hoover and Secretary Stimson about the London treaty and found time for a few remarks about such varied topics as the new Lindbergh baby and the Chicago exposition.

In addition, they took time out from more weighty matters to send messages to Capt. Kingsford-Smith, of the Southern Cross, congratulating him and his crew upon their daring transatlantic flight.

Mr. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico and grandfather of the celebrated Lindbergh baby, declined to enlighten newspapermen about its name. His only comment was:

"You will have to ask the immediate parents about that."

Gen. Dawes, the outspoken Ambassador to England, quoted Mr. Morrow as saying that Col. Lindbergh was greatly concerned Tuesday night about weather conditions for the flight of the Southern Cross. Col. Lindbergh was said to have telephoned frequently to obtain news of the flight.

Questioned about the Chicago exposition, which occasioned his trip to the United States, Gen. Dawes shifted his famous underslung pipe from one corner of his mouth to another, and pronounced the exposition in a satisfactory condition.

"Satisfactory," he said in his vigorous manner. "I should say so. I get 'em the money as fast as they need it during my leave of absence."

The Ambassador is chairman of the finance committee of the exposition which will be held in 1933. He said he did not believe his duties would require his return to Chicago for at least another year.

Ambassador Dawes also found time for a visit to the Senate over which he presided for four years as Vice President of the United States.

Fresh from a political victory in New Jersey, where he was named Republican nominee for the Senate, Ambassador Morrow said he planned to leave for Mexico City Saturday, after a day or two at his Englewood, N. J., home. He announced he would remain in Mexico until September, submitting his resignation as Ambassador probably in that month.

While at the White House Mr. Morrow strongly urged President Hoover to visit Mexico before he himself resigned as Ambassador there. He added Mr. Hoover had taken the invitation under advisement.

Gen. Dawes, a White House guest, said he planned to sail for England Saturday aboard the steamship Majestic. He said he wanted to insure arrival in London before July 4, so he could attend the celebration at the embassy there.

Navigator's Story of Flight Stresses Fog Difficulties

Trip Often Looked Hopeless to Argonauts, Who Flew Blind, Except for Radio Bearings, Seven Hours, But Adventurers Finally Landed, Chilled.

Harbor Grace, N. F., June 25 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—The most vivid single account of the Southern Cross' successful but almost disastrous flight was given here today by Capt. J. Patrick Saul, the Irish navigator of the plane, as follows:

"For boisterous weather, fog, shifting winds, cold and difficulties in navigation, this flight surpassed all my experiences.

"Visibility was never good at any time, and we were in fog for 23 of the 31 hours we were up. It really was quite harrowing, for when we tried to climb above the fog, going up to 6,000 feet, we ran into a cloud bank so heavy that it turned day into night, and, then, when the compasses went wrong we flew absolutely blind, except for occasional radio bearings, for seven hours.

"We must have lost all sense of direction and flown in circles, for at daybreak we were inshore, flying over wooded country, farm land, and, finally, one little village. We turned east then and finally made out Harbor Grace, but were unable to make out the landing field until after circling for a time we made out the signal flags.

"Never before have I had such an experience as those hours during the night and early morning. At times it looked hopeless that we should ever make a safe landing. Gas was running short. We didn't just know where we were, and we were chilled to the bone. No one was ever happier than I when we made a safe landing."

TOWNLEY RUNS THIRD TRYING COMEBACK

North Dakota Primary Reports Give Gov. Shafer Ample Lead.

STATE VOTE IS HEAVY

Fargo, N. D., June 25 (A.P.).—A. C. Townley, founder of the Nonpartisan League, who is attempting to stage a "comeback" in State politics, tonight was running third in the race for the Republican congressional nomination from the Third district.

Thirteen precincts out of 860 in the Third district gave Representative James H. Sinclair, incumbent, 955 votes. Staale Hendrickson had 589 and Townley 269.

Returns from 26 out of the State's 2,228 precincts gave Gov. George F. Shafer 2,932, and E. H. Brant, league candidate, 986 in the race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Indications were that at least a normal vote was cast today, with many of the cities reporting a heavier vote than at the last primary.

With virtually all Democratic candidates without opposition, interest centered on the perennial fight between the Nonpartisan League and the Independent Voters' Association factions to nominate their respective candidates on the Republican ballot.

All but one of the candidates for State offices on this ticket carried indorsement of either the nonpartisan or independent faction. Gov. George F. Shafer, indorsed for renomination by the Independents, headed the ticket.

The State's three representatives in Congress were candidates for reelection with the outstanding contests in the Third District, where A. C. Townley made his fight. The league, however, had indorsed Represnetative J. H. Sinclair for renomination.

The Independents indorsed Staale Hendrickson. Both Townley and Hendrickson have expressed opposition to the prohibition laws.

The State's other two representatives, O. B. Burtness in the First District and Thomas Hall in the Second, both Independent-indorsed, faced opposition of nonpartisan candidates.

The only contest on the State Democratic ticket is for the gubernatorial nomination. Pierce Blewett, Jamestown, indorsed by the State convention, was opposed by Fred L. Anderson, of Minot, and F. O. Hellstrom, of Bismarck.

Six State issues, including one to increase the gasoline tax from 3 to 4 cents, and another to repeal the bank guaranty fund act were on the ballot.

The polls closed at 7 p. m.

Births in Nation Decreased in 1929

Lower Figures From All 43 States Which Reported, Except Arizona.

(Associated Press.)

The number of births in the United States last year, with the exception of five States, showed a slight decrease from the figures for 1928, while the number of deaths was almost identical for the two years.

Last year, Commerce Department figures show, there were 2,142,124 births in 43 States, which represented a decrease of 78,083, or 3.6 per cent, from 1928. At the same time, 1,356,882 persons died, which was practically the same as for the previous year. The compilation did not include Nevada, New Mexico, Utah, South Dakota and Texas, for which comparative figures were unavailable.

The greatest decrease in the number of births was reported for Pennsylvania, which dropped from 200,769 to 189,524. Decreases were reported for all the States except Arizona, which advanced from 8,945 to 9,599. The greatest decrease in the number of deaths was reported by Illinois, which dropped from 90,195 to 87,788.

Juarez Declared Chihuahua Capital

Governor Flees Palace as Candidate's Aids Kill State Policemen.

El Paso, Tex., June 25 (A.P.).—Gov. Francisco Almada late today declared Juarez, the state capital of Chihuahua, and established the capital in the city hall, taking over part of Mayor Gustavo Flores' office.

Gov. Almada took the action following an announcement that followers of Manuel Prieto, candidate for Governor of Chihuahaua, were in power in Chihuahaua City, whence Almada departed hurriedly by airplane this morning after an attack on the government palace by alleged supporters of Prieto in which three state deputies and the chief of the state police were killed. Abigal Caraveo, state treasurer, moved his offices into the city hall here also.

Mexico City, June 25 (A.P.).—The Department of the Interior tonight was inclined to minimize the reports of an uprising in Chihuahua City and a report that the Governor of Chihuahua had declared Juarez the state capital.

Code Fails as Clew To Maniac Killer

New York Police Find Youth With Cryptic System Not Man Wanted.

New York, June 25 (A.P.).—The cryptic code which today caused the arrest of a Chicago youth as a suspect in the search for the mad killer of Queens has proved a worthless clew, police announced tonight.

The suspect, who said he was Clarence James Pratt, 21, was taken to Long Island City, where police said he did not answer the description of the slayer of Joseph Moyzynsky, College Point delicatessen dealer, and Noel Sowley, Brooklyn radio salesman.

He was arraigned on a vagrancy charge, however, and held for a hearing tomorrow.

Air Line Asks Bankruptcy.

Atlanta, Ga., July 25 (A.P.).—The Davis Air Lines, Inc., operators of a daily commercial flying service between Atlanta and Birmingham, filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy in Federal court today. No schedule of assets and liabilities was filed. Dou Davis, widely known Southern pilot, is president of the company.

Razor Inventor Operated Upon.

Los Angeles, Calif., June 25 (A.P.). King C. Gillette, 76, inventor of the safety razor, was in a hospital here today after a minor operation. King G. Gillette, a son, said his father's condition was not serious.

HOUSE QUIZ SOUGHT ON STOCK JUGGLING

Dickinson Resolution Filed as Several New Lows Are Hit in Street.

LATE RALLY SAVES DAY

(Associated Press.)

An investigation by a special House committee of fluctuations in prices of securities in Wall street was asked yesterday in a resolution introduced by Representative Dickinson (Republican), Iowa, who recently won the Republican nomination for senator.

He proposed that the committee be directed to determine whether stock manipulation is practiced by short selling or block sales for the purpose of benefiting a limited number of investors, but against the interest of the general public.

The committee also would be directed to ascertain to what extent the New York stock exchanges have been utilized by manipulators for the purpose of influencing legislation or exercising an unfavorable influence on legislation pending in Congress.

Scope of Resolution.

In a statement Mr. Dickinson said the resolution would permit the committee to review the controversy between New York financiers and the Federal Reserve Board in their effort to prevent "the extensive speculation that has proven so disastrous to so many investors."

New York, June 25 (A.P.).—The badly battered stock market weathered another flurry of selling today with better success than it has of late. The storm was not as severe as some of its immediate predecessors, largely because professional short sellers seemed more cautious and more inclined to cover their tracks on the first appearance of support. Prices fluctuated with extreme irregularity and, thanks to a late rally, numbers of prominent shares were able to show moderate net advances.

Rail Stocks Hard Hit.

Rail stocks took another lacing. More than 30 issues in this important group were hammered to new lows for the year or much longer before the pressure relaxed. There was some improvement from the lows of the day; but most of the carrier issues, including many gilt-edge shares, closed lower.

The market's old war horse, U. S. Steel, was ridden hard by the bears as they strove to drive it to the $150 level attained last November. The best they could do, however, was $151.62, a new 1930 low, and the stock thereafter hopped back to $155.25, where it closed for a $2.75 gain.

The day's list of new lows, most of which were made in the early afternoon, included such favorites as American Can, Johns-Manville, Western Union, North American, Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery Ward and Kennecott Copper, in addition to the long list of rails. Atchison, for example, broke $5 a share to $194 before rallying to $198.75 for a net loss of only 25 cents. New York Central was off to $150.75, but closed at $153.50, up $1.37. It was one of the few rails to finish higher.

American Can at New Low.

American Can went to the new low of $108.25, but closed at $113.25, up $3. American Telephone's low for the day was $201.50, and its final price $204.37, up $1.12.

Radio closed at $2.12 higher after coming within a shade of its year's minimum. Westinghouse was up $3.62 and General Electric 75 cents.

American Tobacco "B" stock closed $6.75 higher in antisipation of splitup and extra dividend announced after the close of the market.

Heat Wave to Continue In Capital, Is Forecast

No immediate relief from the most oppressive heat wave of the year is in sight, the Weather Bureau said yesterday in announcing the day's official high reading as 91, only 6 degrees lower than the 1930 record of 98, registered Tuesday.

The Pennsylvania avenue kiosk recorded 96 at 4 o'clock, and a humidity of 42. Thundershowers breaking late Tuesday afternoon were expected to bring lower temperatures, but after dropping to 73 Tuesday night the mercury began soaring again yesterday. At noon it stood at 85, and by 4 o'clock had risen to 91.

Today is expected to be fair, with little change in temperature.

Threat of Filibuster On Boulder Dam Passes

(Associated Press.)

Threats of a filibuster on Boulder Dam such as that which surrounded the original legislation at the end of the last Congress disappeared in the Senate yesterday, and sponsors of the second deficiency bill carrying $10,660,000 to start work on the big power project on the Colorado River will endeavor to reach a vote on the bill before adjournment today.

Chairman Jones, of the appropriations committee, in charge of the measure, withdrew his petition to invoke cloture on the bill after being assured by the two Arizona senators, who are opposed to the initial Boulder appropriation, that they would not prolong the debate.

Reds Storm City Hall In Riots at Winnipeg

Winnipeg, June 25 (A.P.).—Communist unemployed rioted today at Winnipeg's city hall. Three hundred jobless, refused a hearing by Mayor Ralph H. Webb, rushed police who barred their entry into the building. Several were injured slightly.

James Battle, 6-foot leader of the Communists, was arrested after having battered aside a trio of policemen.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 5:45 p. m. to 11:00 a. m. today.

Passed 117 miscellaneous bills and resolutions, most of them for the relief of private citizens and firms.

Senator Watson, Republican leader, announced that he would approve a motion to begin debate on the London naval treaty as soon as the Senate disposes of the pending business, the deficiency bill and the motor bus regulation measure.

Defeated an attempt by Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, to block consideration of the deficiency bill.

Passed the House bill creating an additional judgeship for the Southern District of Florida. The measure now goes to the President.

Agreed to the resolution granting dial telephones to Senators who want them.

Senator Black (Democrat) Alabama, introduced a resolution to have Muscle Shoals power sold to municipalities.

Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, announced that he had been informed by the superintendent of prisons that one of the new Federal prisons would be located near El Paso, Tex., and that opposition to its location had been withdrawn.

Passed and sent to the House a joint resolution to establish a commission for participation by the United States in observance of the 300th anniversary of the founding of the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

Senator Jones (Republican), Washington, withdrew the cloture petition to limit debate on the deficiency bill, filed Tuesday, after receiving assurance from the two Arizona senators that they would not delay action. The Boulder Dam item will be voted on at 4 o'clock today.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 5:18 p. m. to noon today.

Without a record vote approved Senate amendments to the Johnson World War veterans' relief bill. This completed congressional action, and the bill now goes to the President.

Passed and sent to the Senate the Bachman bill to provide an additional Federal judge for the Southern District of Texas.

Judiciary committee approved the Wagner bill to establish a nation-wide system of State employment agencies under Federal aid to combat unemployment.

Interstate commerce committee amended its redraft of the Senate railroad consolidation resolution, to forbid consummation of the proposed merger of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific Railroads until after March 4, 1931.

Representative Dickinson (Republican), Iowa, introduced a resolution asking an investigation by a special House committee of the fluctuations in prices of securities in Wall street.

Secretary Mellon appeared before the banking committee and expressed opposition to the McFadden resolution to prohibit purchase of the German reparations bonds by American banks.

Passed and sent to the Senate the Crail bill to authorize $4,500 for expenses of American participation in an international conference on lighting of coasts, to be held this year in Lisbon.

Passed the Brookhart-Lehlbach bill to give the Government workers the raises they were intended to get under the Welch act. It now goes back to the Senate for concurrence in amendments.

Appropriations committee reported out a resolution to continue the 1930 appropriation bill for the District of Columbia and also a resolution to make available immediately the raises authorized for police and firemen of the District of Columbia.

Adopted a resolution to pay the Washington Navy Yard workers for the pay they lost on Inauguration Day and sent it to the White House.

Military Training Held as Optional

Students Need Not Elect Army Course at Land Grant Colleges.

(Associated Press.)

Whether land grant colleges shall require their students to take instruction in military tactics was held yesterday by Attorney General Mitchell to be optional with the institutions.

In an opinion transmitted to Secretary Wilbur, the Attorney General upheld the ruling of the Interior Secretary that the University of Wisconsin had the right to place military education on an optional basis if it desired. The department, in making the opinion public, said it held that "the student need not take military training unless he desires to do so." Later it revised the statement.

In its revised statement it said instruction in military tactics at land grant colleges is not required under the law creating those colleges. It quoted the Attorney General as saying, "The statutes nowhere specifically require that the offered course in military tactics must be compulsory."

Philadelphian Missing From Baltimore Ship

Baltimore, Md., June 25 (A.P.).—When the steamship Marsodak arrived here today from San Francisco by way of the Panama Canal, Thomas Scott, 62, said to be of Philadelphia, was reported by ship's officers to be missing. He was last seen at 2:30 a. m. today when the vessel was in Chesapeake Bay.

Officers said Scott appeared despondent, recently having spoken of stock-market losses, and expressed indifference as to whether he got to New York, his destination.

Lindbergh Baby's Name Not in Data

Birth Certificate Asserts Flying Is Vocation of Mother.

Englewood, N. J., June 25 (A.P.).—The Lindbergh baby's birth certificate was filed with the department of health today, but the world will have to keep on calling it just the Lindbergh baby for a while. Lots of other facts were given, but the line headed by the printed words "full name" was left blank pending the outcome of domestic consultations.

The certificate stated the baby was a boy, that it was born at 1:15 p. m. on June 22, that the father was Charles Augustus Lindbergh and the mother Anne Morrow Lindbergh and that the home of both parents is in St. Louis.

It recorded that the business of the father is "technical aviator" and that the mother's vocation is "flying." In answer to the question how long Mrs. Lindbergh had been engaged in her present occupation, there was the notation "one year," approximately the time she has been married.

Professor of German At Harvard, 74, Dead

Cambridge, Mass., June 25 (A.P.).—Dr. Kuno Francke, professor emeritus of German at Harvard, died at his home today. He was 74 years old.

Born at Kiel, Germany, September 27, 1855, the son of Judge August Francke of the Danish supreme court and Katherine Marie (Jenson) Francke, he was graduated from the Kiel Gymnasium in 1873. He was given a Ph. D. at the University of Munich in 1878; an LL. D. at the University of Wisconsin in 1904, and a Litt. D. at Harvard in 1912. Starting as an instructor at Harvard in 1884, he became professor emeritus and honorary curator in 1917.

PATIENTS WITH LEGS BROKEN WALK OFF

Medical Association Section Hears Doctor Boehler Give Talk on Method.

QUIT OPERATION AFOOT

Detroit, June 25 (A.P.).—Specialists held the center of the stage today during the third session of the eighty-first convention of the American Medical Association.

Following a series of general meetings, at which addresses were delivered, legislative matters discussed and resolutions adopted, the doctors settled down to listen to purely technical matters.

The convention split up into fifteen special sections, representing the scientific assembly of the association. These special sections dealt with all manner of ailments, treatments, and methods.

At each section physicians and scientists who had done special research work read papers. These group meetings will continue for the balance of the convention.

Of interest to the layman today were discussions regarding heart disease, eye troubles, cancer, dietary problems of children, and various methods for the reduction of fractures and treatment of paralysis.

One of the most interesting papers, on orthopedic surgery, was read by Dr. Lorenz Boehler, director-in-chief of the Vienna Accident Hospital. Dr. Boehler described methods of reducing fractures which he had employed with astonishing results. Under his treatments, he said, patients have frequently been able to walk away from the operating table with neither canes nor crutches, even though they may have suffered a broken leg.

"For my treatment," Dr. Boehler said, "I would insert a rustless wire through the broken bones, reduce the fracture and into the plaster cast, which I used without padding, I incorporated the wire.

"I discovered that patients were able to move their muscles and when the break was below the knee the patient would generally walk away. If it were the ankle joint, the patient could be discharged from the hospital at the end of two or three days and would walk without the aid of a cane or crutch."

Jail-Break Admitted By Robbery Suspects

Gadsden, Ala., June 25 (A.P.).—Leon Hunnicutt, alias Daniel Garvin, and Cliff Williams, alias Cliff Harman, who were arrested here yesterday charged with a robbery at Guntersville, admitted to police today that they and four others escaped from the North Carolina State Prison June 16.

Hunnicutt attempted to flee when officers approached them yesterday and was shot and wounded. At first it was thought he was fatally wounded, but today doctors said he would recover. Williams said he was serving a sentence of ten years in the North Carolina prison on a burglary charge, and Hunnicutt said he was serving ten years for attacking a girl.

BRITAIN WILL BUILD 21 NEW-NAVY SHIPS

$45,000,000 to Be Spent in Next Three Years for Fleet Additions.

CRITICISM IS FORECAST

London, June 25 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—First Lord of the Admiralty Albert Victor Alexander told the House of Commons this afternoon that the British naval construction program for 1930 will be three 6-inch-gun cruisers, one destroyer flotilla, comprising a destroyer leader and eight destroyers, three submarines, four sloops, one net layer and one target-towing vessel—a total of 21 ships to cost about $45,000,000 over a period of three years.

A supplementary estimate for the small sum necessary to begin construction will be introduced into the house before summer adjournment in July; but construction will not be begun until the last quarter of the present financial year.

Alexander said he wanted to emphasize that these ships are required for replacing others which would have passed the age limit "to enable the royal navy to carry out its current duties in time of peace, and the program had no relation to those of other powers."

One of the three submarines, it is understood, is to be of the big fleet type. When debate on the supplementary estimates takes place, the government will be criticized by certain Labor members for undertaking any new building in advance of ratification of the London Naval Treaty by the powers concerned and before it is seen whether the American Congress is going to appropriate enough money to build the United States fleet up to treaty strength during the life of the treaty.

One Labor critic of this afternoon's announcement said he believes the British Admiralty has forced this program on the government at this time for fear that later it might become evident that the United States did not intend to build up to treaty strength, in which event the admiralty would have greater difficulty in persuading the government to agree to this building.

PRESIDENT ADHERES TO PLANS FOR PACT

White House Advices Are That Present Program Will Be Unaltered.

CONFERS WITH ENVOYS

By ALBERT W. FOX.

President Hoover will not be deterred from his plan to secure speedy ratification of the London Naval Treaty by the signed petition of senators seeking postponement until the fall nor by other senatorial appeals designed to delay action on the pact.

Consideration of the treaty before the regular session adjourns would be welcomed by the White House, but Mr. Hoover does not propose to change the program he has outlined for the Senate to follow. Information to this effect was conveyed to the Senate yesterday after the President had conferred with Ambassador Dawes, Dwight Morrow and Senator Borah, chairman of the committee on foreign relations.

Opponents of the treaty took notice of the President's stand and Senator Hiram Johnson made reference to it in discussing the legislative jam on the Senate floor.

Statement by Johnson.

Explaining that there was no rush about getting the legislative program disposed of, Senator Johnson said:

"There is a God-given instrument, a sacrosanct document, to be delivered here.

"Let us dispose of our own business before we go ahead with that which we are ordered to consider. Why quibble over little things when we are stuck with the summer heat anyhow?"

Senators Moses, Robinson, of Indiana; McKellar and others who will wage a fight to a finish on the treaty did not appear to be disturbed by the program of action decided upon by the White House. Senator McKellar last evening delivered a radio address in opposition to the treaty. The speech was in reply to a recent speech by Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania.

"If it were not for the fact that Senator Reed, of Pennnsylvania, and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, helped to negotiate this treaty," said Senator McKellar, "there would not be a corporal's guard in the Senate in favor of it."

Economic Ruin Foreseen.

Asserting that the treaty meant the economic ruin of the United States in the event of war, the senator said:

"At most our Navy will be able to protect our trade along the east coast of North America to a line running north and south from Newfoundland to Venezuela.

"As long as we have competition in commerce with Great Britain and Japan, as long as we are a great exporting nation—and we can not be a great nation without foreign commerce and trade—we must have a navy to protect the commerce and trade."

Contending that America is always the victim in international conferences having to do with arms limitation, Mr. McKellar said:

"It is quite remarkable that in the 1922 agreement when America had the advantage in battleships she did all the sinking and now when America has all the advantage in destroyers and submarines again America does all the sinking without any return. And in that class of vessels where Great Britain had a great advantage, namely, cruisers—54 to 13 Great Britain does not scrap."

Objections Are Summarized.

Stating that Great Britain refuses to permit America to build battleships of the Nelson and Rodney class because that would establish battleship parity, Senator McKellar summarizes his objections to the treaty as follows:

"Instead of providing for parity 'brimful and running over,' as Mr. MacDonald declared, it provided for a great inequality in naval fleets.

"It provides for enormous naval building by America, by Great Britain, and by Japan.

"It will impose tax burdens on the American people of more than a billion dollars.

"It prohibits America from building before 1936 more than fifteen 10,000-ton, 8-inch cruisers, when her responsible naval experts, with one or two exceptions appointed by Mr. Hoover, all declare that these ships and guns are for the best defense of America.

"It requires us to build ships of a kind and size that Great Britain is willing for us to build. It prohibits America from building the kind and size of ships and guns that America thinks is best for her own defense.

American Rights Restricted.

"It deprives America of the right and power to build a navy that will defend American possessions in the Far East, notably the Philippine Islands. All of our experts agree that we can not defend the Philippine Islands on the basis of this treaty.

"It prevents America from defending the greater part of our foreign trade on the high seas.

"Yet it leaves Great Britain the power to protect her commerce practically everywhere.

"It also gives to Great Britain the power to put economic pressure on America equivalent to business ruin.

"Again, our maritime commerce is nearly $15,000,000,000 in value every year and yet we deprive ourselves by this treaty of the right and power to defend that enormous commerce wherever it may go.

"Because the kind of ships that Great Britain will permit us to build under this treaty are not large enough and do not have guns large enough to protect our commerce.

"It does not refer to Great Britain's great superiority in naval stations, having them not only in every part of the world but even surrounding the coasts of America itself.

"It does not provide for the freedom of the seas and it denies to us the power to maintain that freedom for ourselves.

"And yet it leaves to Great Britain the power to assure that freedom of the seas for herself.

Rejection of Treaty Urged.

"This treaty ought to be rejected, because the treaty was negotiated in secret. It will be remembered that I protested publicly against secret sessions of this conference.

"Again, this treaty ought not to ratified, because the facts upon which it was negotiated have never been transmitted to the Senate of the United States, although, under our Constitution, it is coequal with the executive negotiating and approving treaties. Yet in this case the President of the United States refuses to give to the Senate the facts upon which this treaty was negotiated. The Senate owes it to itself, owes it to the American people, to maintain its rights and have all the facts before it before it ratifies this treaty.

"Again, the President has no right under the Constitution to select two Senators of the United States and give them the right to know what is going on and withhold the facts from the other 94 members of the Senate.

"Again, this treaty ought not to be ratified because it gives Japan the absolute control of the East, and let me say right here that what this means to the American people is shown by the fact that our trade with the East amounts to more than $2,000,000,000 a year."

Chinese May Evade Chair By Giving Self to Science

Physicians, Who Need Human Being for Trachoma Experiment, May Go to Governor for Permission to Allow Santa Fe Convict to Choose.

Santa Fe, N. Mex., June 25 (A.P.).—Woo Dak San, a Chinese sentenced to be electrocuted for murder, may be given the alternative of offering himself as a subject for experiment in science's efforts to combat trachoma.

Dr. Polk Richards, of the United States Indian Health Service, at Albuquerque, and Dr. S. I. Proctor, noted oculist of Boston, have discussed with Attorney General M. A. Otero the possibility of obtaining the man's consent for such an experiment in return for commutation of the death sentence.

The physicians were referred to Gov. R. C. Dillon, who will decide whether permission shall be granted to approach the condemned man on the subject.

Dr. Richards said today that if the Chinese consented to inoculation with a germ, which has been isolated and is believed to cause trachoma, an eye disease, he probably would suffer no permanent effects. Dr. Richards said trachoma is not fatal and results in blindness only when treatment is neglected.

While experiments have been made on monkeys with the isolated germ, Dr. Richards said, science needs a human specimen to obtain absolute proof as to whether inoculation will produce trachoma.

The disease is prevalent among some Indian tribes of the Southwest.

SENATE WILL FACE PACT RESERVATIONS

JOHNSON FIGHTS HASTE

Japan should decide that armaments by other countries force them to build beyond the terms of the treaty.

Attitude of Watson.

Another reservation under consideration would be one stating the contention of this Government that under the replacement clause Great Britain would have the right to replace her six-inch gun cruisers with ships only of that category. There already has been an exchange of notes among the powers agreeing to this construction of the treaty.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, who has agreed to the program for prompt disposition of the treaty, announced yesterday he would look favorably upon a motion to take the treaty up at this regular session if there was any delay over adjournment after action is taken on the motor bus regulation measure and the second deficiency appropriation bill.

However, late developments yesterday indicated that the Senate would be busy enough with its legislative program until adjournment and it was generally agreed that the treaty would be laid over for the special session.

Johnson Protests Pressure.

Senator Johnson (Republican), California, a leader of the treaty opposition, protested vigorously in the Senate to the plan to force immediate disposition of "this god-given instrument that has come down to us from London."

"Let us have the independence and manhood to determine for ourselves," he implored the Senate, "whether we must go ahead in special session."

Senator Moses (Republican), New Hampshire, sent the petition to the White House urging President Hoover to defer the special session until November.

It was made known at the White House that the President did not intend to answer the petition. He previously had stated publicly that he would call a special session.

Borah at White House.

The President called Chairman Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee to the White House to discuss the treaty situation. Senator Borah deplored that the pact should become involved in a row over procedure and made it clear that it was immaterial to him whether it was taken up now or in the special session.

"I will say," he commented later, "that so long as the Senate will stay in session after it takes up the treaty I will keep the treaty before it."

Assurances were given to the President by some of the Republican Young Guard leaders that more than 30 members had signed a round robin petition pledging themselves to stay in session this summer until the treaty is ratified.

Senators Vandenberg, of Michigan, and Allen, of Kansas Republicans, said they were confident that the treaty would be disposed of before the Senate went home.

Optimists Hold Outing At Dr. Rogers' Home

The Washington Optimist Club held its annual outing yesterday at the country home of Dr. Joseph D. Rogers, at Galesville, Md., on the bay. The members fished, went boating and swimming, and staged various contests.

Headed by W. B. Williams, president, the club group left the Capital at 11 o'clock yesterday morning escorted to the District limits by motorcycle police.

POPE BUSY, DESPITE ILL HEALTH RUMORS

Official Communique Cites Activity of Pontiff in Past Few Days.

RETICENT ON SICKNESS

Vatican City, June 25 (A.P.).—In the face of widespread reports that Pope Pius was suffering from an old bladder disorder, the semiofficial Daily Vatican communique today stressed how active the pontiff has been the past few days, although it made no denial that he was troubled with the disease.

Neither did it make formal admission that physicians had been consulted and that an operation was possible, as had been reliably reported.

The communique instead cited ceremonies the Pope has attended lately and speeches he has pronounced as proof of his vigor, asserting that "Pius XI not only has changed nothing in his habitual regime of a life extraordinarily intense and full of occupations," but "in this last period has notably multiplied his activities."

Pope's Appearance Cited.

Stressing that the Pope did not feel the least inconvenience from last Sunday's long function of canonization and apparently showed no sign of fatigue, the communique said all those close to the pontiff at the end of the ceremony and when he returned to his apartments in the Vatican noted that he seemed even more fresh than in the morning, when he descended into St. Peter's.

The document then recalled that on Monday, besides his regular routine of audiences with cardinals and other prelates, Pope Pius received two pilgrimages—in all totaling 2,000 persons—speaking at length in each case.

In addition to those pilgrimages, the communique continued, the Pontiff received at least 300 persons in a collective audience, his official day not ending until 6:30 p. m.

Spends Busy Day.

Yesterday, the document says, the Pope gave audience to 500 laymen collectively and then 200 Filippini sisters, speaking to the latter, "with uncommon vivacity and joviality."

The document added that yesterday afternoon, before taking his accustomed walk in the Vatican gardens, the Pontiff visited the old apartment of the Vatican major domo, now transformed into the office of the special administration of the Holy See, created after the Lateran treaties to care for funds paid by Italy in execution of those accords.

Turning to this morning, the communique said Pope Pius began work at 8:30 a. m., receiving special reports from four prelates, and at 10 o'clock began regular audiences, receiving Cardinal Laurenti, prefect of the Congregation of Rites; the Spanish Ambassador and his family; Mgr. Faisandier, Bishop of Trichinopoli, India; Prince George of Bavaria; the canon of St. Peter's Chapter; the Polish Artist Trojnowski, and later about 400 in collective audience.

Operation Is Discussed.

Other sources said, however, that several Roman doctors had been consulted because of the possibility of an uremic crisis, and added that possibility of an operation had been discussed.

They said those close to the pontiff in the canonization ceremonies Sunday noticed that he was slightly distressed and perspiring profusely, but that otherwise he was firm of step and voice. They also pointed to the ending of yesterday's audiences at 6 p. m., when normally they continue to 9.

With those things in mind, they were inclined to take the Vatican denial as "diplomatic" in character, intended to quell apprehension.

HOPE OF PADLOCKING RITZ-CARLTON DROPS

Dismissal of Similar Case Against Hotel Manger Seen as Precedent.

GUESTS POST $500 BAIL

New York, June 25 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—At the Central Park Casino and the Ritz-Carlton Hotel—these two stamping grounds of the bon vivants—it will probably be business as usual for some time to come.

The hope of the Federal authorities who raided both last night, seizing alleged liquor from tables and arresting employes, that the doors might be padlocked, received a dash of cold water this afternoon when Federal Judge Knox dismissed the Government's application for a padlock for those parts of the Hotel Manger where liquor was seized several months ago.

The case against the Casino is similar to the charges brought against the Manger, namely selling "set-ups" to guests. It is considered improbable that the Government will attempt padlock proceedings against the places. The Manger decision, following that of the Cornish Arms case yesterday shows that the Federal courts are unwilling to close a hotel on the charge of "maintenance of a nuisance" when it can not be proved that the management was actually engaged in promoting the sale of liquor.

The prohibition enforcement office does not claim to have evidence of this in the case of either the Ritz-Carlton or the Casino.

Judge Knox did grant the Government an injunction against the management of the Manger, which leaves any employe who violated the prohibition law in any way in the future open to sentence for contempt of court.

Most of the patrons and employes arrested in the raids last night were arraigned before United States Commissioner Cotter this morning. The six of the nine guests who appeared were released on $500 bail each. Employes had bail set at $1,000. Among them was Sidney Solomon, Casino manager.

If the charge of maintaining a nuisance against Solomon should stand up, the city would find itself in the embarrassing position of owning a speakeasy, since it owns the property.

Park Commissioner Herrick was asked whether he intended to invoke that part of the Casino lease which makes it voidable if the management violates the law.

"I have not yet seen any evidence that the management has violated any laws," Commissioner Herrick said, "and I will not take any action until I do."

Cross-Eye Treatment Explained by Doctor

A method of straightening cross eyes through an instrument known as the optospoon was described to the District of Columbia Optometric Society last night by Dr. R. W. Bennett, of Indianapolis.

The optospoon achieves its results by a massage of the eyeball. The instrument is used while the lids are closed, the lids acting as a cushion, Dr. Bennett explained. The treatment has been especially effective in treatment of squint eyes in children, he said. Dr. Bennett illustrated his lecture with lantern slides. The meeting was held in the Oak Room of the Raleigh Hotel.

Proposed Ban Upon German Bonds Unsound Policy, Secretary Says.

COMMITTEE HAS HEARING

(Associated Press.)

Unqualified opposition to the McFadden resolution to prohibit purchase of German reparation bonds by American banks was expressed yesterday by Secretary Mellon on the ground that it was unnecessary and that Government interference with private capital would not be "sound policy."

Appearing before the House banking committee, the Treasury head described the measure as "meaningless" because Federal reserve banks have no authority to purchase such bonds, national banks are limited to the purchase of "marketable" securities under regulations prescribed by the Comptroller of Currency, and State banks are governed by State law.

Mellon said "good, sound foreign bonds are beneficial to the country," because the "world is getting closer every day and international loans are essential to international trade."

Holds Bonds Illegal.

The German reparation bonds are to be issued by the international bank of settlements under the Young plan, and Chairman McFadden, of the committee, contended repeatedly that the bond issue is illegal and that neither the Government nor private capital should be involved in the reparation problems.

Under questioning by McFadden and other committee members, the Secretary said his department had made no study of the legality of the bonds, since it had not been called upon to pass on that question. He asserted the Government or the Federal Reserve Board had not participated in any way in the formation of the international bank, which is to act as collecting and disbursing agent for reparation payments. He added, however, that officers of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York had been consulted in the negotiations.

No Defense, McFadden Says

McFadden said no defense of the validity of the bonds or the security back of them had come from any source since he raised this question on the floor of the House several weeks ago.

He read into the record newspaper articles, some of which cast doubt upon the legality of the securities. Others purported to quote Treasury statements dealing with the bond issue.

The Secretary replied that no statements had been issued by the Treasury and that he could "not be responsible for newspaper s[illegible]lation."

Ogden Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury, sat beside his chief and twice interrupted the hearing to protest against the questions on the ground that they have no bearing on the bill under consideration, or that they should be directed at the State Department and not [illegible]ury.

Does Not Manage Banks.

In support of his position against the resolution Mellon said "the Government doe[illegible] undertake to manage the banks and the wisdom of placing upon them the responsibility for their investments, with proper safeguards can not be questioned.

"There is, in my opinion, no more reason for Congress to say that a national bank should not purchase a reparation bond than to say that it should not purchase a specific railroad or industrial bond," he added. "to do so would place our Government directly in the bank's management. It is unsound and unnecessary."

BANKER AND JUROR IN CONTEMPT CASE

questioned Owings as to the bank's duties in the matter in controversy and that he inquired if the bank was insured against such losses. In his suit Kenney sought to recover for checks of customers which it was alleged had been cashed by the bank on the indorsement of an employe of the plaintiff who was not empowered to make such indorsements.

The case is the second of a similar nature in the past few weeks. The other case involved a criminal prosecution wherein a juror told Justice Hitz, while citing no one for contempt, ordered a mistrial in the case just after the Government had rested.

The attention of Justice Siddons to the alleged actions of Jones and Owings are said to have been reported to him by Attorneys Francis W. Hill, jr., and F. B. Hoffman, representing Kenney.

STEEL TUBE TO BIND GULF STREAM, SINKS

opening the cocks in the 120 tanks of compressed air which kept it afloat.

As they opened the tanks at the extreme end of the tube, nearly a mile out to sea, that end started to sink. A terrific pull was placed on the two 1-inch steel cables which ran the length of the tube and were fastened to shore.

Each cable possessed a tensile strength of 150,000 pounds per square inch, but one of them ripped loose, and the end of the tube started swerving with the current. Then the other cable parted, and Prof. Claude and his assistants saw the results of their handiwork slowly submerge into 700 meters of water.

The tube had been built with infinite care. It was constructed of heavy corrugated steel sheets, insulated against heat by a covering of canvas and packing, and solidly riveted and welded at the joints.

It had an inside diameter of 1.7 meters and was calculated to be large enough to furnish twenty times the volume of cold sea water Professor Claude deemed would be necessary to condense the steam he intended to produce by submitting water of warmer temperature to vacuum.

Three months of hard work on the part of Claude, his chief assistant, Dr. Enrique Daime, of Paris, and more than 100 laborers, had been devoted to its completion. The estimated value of the tube was in excess of $1,000,000.

The 60-year-old scientist, in whose inventions more than $150,000,000 in American capital have been invested, hoped to be able to revolutionize industry with his project.

Tea Taster Kills Wife, Daughter, Self With Gun

Lynbrook, Long Island, June 25 (A.P.).—Charles Harry Waters, 60, a tea taster out of work, his wife Minnie, 58, and daughter Helen, 24, were found dead today in their home here, with bullet wounds in their temples.

Police said Walters had shot the women and then killed himself.

Pilot in Crash Faces Manslaughter Charge

Trenton, N. J., June 25 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—Charged with manslaughter, Walter Reidner, 21, of Kingston, whose airplane crashed there last night, killing William Corless, 22, of Princeton, was arrested today in the Princeton Hospital. He will be arraigned when he is able to leave the hospital, where he is suffering from shock, cuts and bruises about the body.

Reidner, who piloted the plane, took Corless aloft yesterday. When about 300 feet above the ground the plane went into a tailspin. It landed on a fence near Reidner's home.

Corless was thrown out and struck his head against the fence. He died instantly.

REBELLIOUS TROOPS TAKE BOLIVIAN TOWN

Officers Order Men Out for Ostensible Drill and Capture Orubo.

34 ARE REPORTED KILLED

La Paz, Bolivia, June 25 (A.P.).—An official communique said tonight that the Camacho regiment of troops in Orubo had taken over the city and that it now was cut off from the rest of the country.

In a telegram to the prefect at La Paz, the officers named four men as their choice to form a new government in Bolivia and asked for cooperation in the revolt.

The council of ministers issued the communique and said it had been conferring with Gen. Kundt, commander in chief of the army, as to the action to be taken. The ministers added that the movement was purely local, saying that military garrisons in other parts of the republic were firmly supporting the government.

It was said that the revolt began with the officers ordering their men out for an ostensible maneuver. Then they worked out their plans and named the four men—Alblanco Galindo, Jose Lanza, Mariaca Pando Osnorio and Julio Sanjines—as their selections for a new administration.

The council ministers is in charge of the government following the recent resignation of the president, Dr. Hernando Siles.

The importance of the movement was minimized in the communique.

The Oburo attempt followed the seizure last week of Villazon, on the Argentine border, by Roberto Hinojosa and a small force.

Hinojosa, a former Bolivian diplomat noted for his radical views, took over everything in the town and apportioned the money and other things captured in a sort of a communistic fashion.

He was driven out last Friday, but was said to have taken about $36,000 from the customs house when he fled.

Bolivia has been in a disturbed state since Dr. Hernando Siles resigned the presidency recently.

Buenos Aires, June 25 (A.P.).—Dispatches from Arequipa to La Nacion today said that travelers returning from Bolivia told of police killing 34 persons Sunday after a joint demonstration by students and workers.

The travelers said some of the victims were women and children, and the corpses afterward were exhibited in the streets by demonstrators.

The public was greatly excited, the travelers said.

Rum Smugglers Shoot U. S. Border Policeman

Laredo, Tex., June 25 (A.P.).—Ambushed in chaparral brush on the banks of the Rio Grande, Robert W. Kelsey, United States border patrolman, was critically wounded by liquor smugglers here early today.

A trail of blood leading 20 feet to the river gave evidence that Kelsey wounded at least one of his attackers. Fellow patrolmen believed the man tumbled into the river mortally wounded. Near the scene, five sacks of Mexican liquor and two revolvers were found. Edwin M. Brown, who was with Kelsey, escaped uninjured.

RUSSELL'S ACCOUNT WITH LINGLE BARED

viction against McGurn, although his name has been mentioned in most of the big gang slayings of the past two years.

McGurn was the second gunman convicted of carrying concealed weapons in two days. Anthony (Red) Kissane, quoted as telling arresting officers he "worked for Jake Lingle," was sentenced yesterday to one year in jail and fined $300—the maximum penalty. McGurn, subject to the same penalty as Kissane, will be at liberty on $10,000 bail until his motion for a new trial is argued July 3.

The investigation into Lingle's financial dealings started shortly after he was slain, when rumors spread that his association with Chicago's gangland were not entirely reportorial in nature.

The Tribune said it would push an investigation until these rumors were definitely proved or disproved.

Big Deposits Weekly.

That Lingle deposited sums of money ranging from $700 to $10,000 weekly over a period of years in one Chicago bank was revealed by investigators from the State's attorney's office.

Records of the bank disclosed also that these sums were withdrawn regularly and at Lingle's death a check showed that his estate was less than $5,000. Investigators are trying to learn the source of these funds as well as to whom they were disbursed.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson later issued a statement declaring that "from information furnished us by former Commissioner Russell and other sources we are convinced that Lingle ran an account of a few thousand dollars into paper profits amounting to well over $100,000 at the time when the peak was reached."

Death Motive Sought.

"It is possible, on further analysis, that they may even amount to more than this," continued Swanson. "So far as moneys drawn out of this account or put into it are concerned, these matters are being investigated in an attempt to ascertain whether or not they shed any light upon the motive for the killing of Lingle.

"It appears from our investigation that Lingle traded rather extensively in stocks and was able to do this because of the large paper profits which accumulated to his credit during the time the market was rising. The investigation of Lingle's stock transactions and bank accounts will be completed within a few days."

NATIVE BALTIMORE WOMAN GIVEN VISA

Mrs. Schneider, Mother of Nine, Straightens Out Passport Tangle.

MATE WAS NATURALIZED

After experiencing more trouble with the United States immigration authorities than most immigrants, Mrs. Elizabeth Schneider, 48 years old, a native of Baltimore, has finally straightened out her tangle and is eager to become an American citizen again by naturalization.

Her husband, a native of Westphalia, Prussia, who later became a naturalized Canadian citizen, is now in this country with a visa as an expert agriculturist, and three of her nine children are American citizens by virtue of being born in Baltimore.

The other six children were born in the Canadian province of Saskatchewan, where Mr. Schneider was naturalized in 1916. Four years ago the eleven of them came to the United States and settled near Collington, Prince Georges County, Md., without troubling to obtain visas.

Immigration authorities have insisted that they return to the Canadian port, and the Schneiders have continually fought to remain. Finally, Mr. Schneider made the trip and obtained a visa, and last Friday Mrs. Schneider and her six children did likewise.

The case is said to be the only one of its kind ever encountered by the Washington authorities.

Nation May Join Firemen's Parade

Move to Create Interest in Annual Fete Is Told by Marshal.

Plans to make the firemen's Labor Day parade in Washington national in scope were outlined last night at a meeting of prospective judges of the parade by Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, parade marshal.

Sergt. Bargagni announced that if time did not permit this year to create national interest in the event he hoped this wider scope would be made possible by 1931 and during the year of the George Washington bicentennial, 1932. If a favorable Nationwide reaction is received between now and September, President Hoover will be asked to speak over a Nationwide hookup as well as review the parade, Sergt. Bargagni said.

All organizations in the District, as well as those in nearby States, will be asked to participate in this year's parade and governors of half a dozen States will be invited to attend. The Modern Woodmen of America are planning to hold their annual encampment in Washington at the time of the parade and expect to contribute a delegation of 700 uniformed men to the event, Sergt. Bargagni said.

Trinidad Citizens Ask Land Purchase

Adopt Resolution Urging That Tract Near Proposed Park Be Bought.

The Trinidad Citizens Association last night adopted a resolution urging the National Capital Park and Planning Commission to purchase a tract of land south of the proposed park in Northeast Washington for use as a suitable approach to the park and as a site for an athletic field.

The tract is bounded by Florida avenue and Fifth street northeast and the western boundary of Gallaudet College. The resolution was drawn up by a committee headed by Dr. Percival Hall.

Complaints of parents whose children have been transferred from the Wheatley to the Blow School were aired. Seven new members were admitted. George J. Cleary presided.

COLLEGE FUND LOST, WOODY CASE SHOWS

Agreement Reveals Ryder, Broker, Repaying Bailey More Than $2,000,000.

SCHOOL GOT SUM BACK

New York, June 25 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A photostatic copy of an agreement between Frank Bailey, Brooklyn financier, and Harold Russell Ryder, involved partner of the insolvent brokerage firm of Woody & Co., introduced in evidence before Referee Henry K. Davis, today showed that Mr. Bailey allowed Mr. Ryder to handle stocks belonging to Union College, of which Mr. Bailey is treasurer, with the result that Mr. Ryder failed to deliver $300,957.50 worth of an original $619,812.50.

Mr. Bailey made the amount good to the college, the agreement showed, and held Mr. Ryder responsible for it.

This led to the agreement by which Mr. Ryder promised to pay Mr. Bailey $25,000 a week. It was produced today at the second of a series of hearings at which it is hoped to determine the assets of the brokerage firm which failed for $2,000,000.

Mr. Ryder, scheduled to go on the stand tomorrow afternoon in the same hearing room, was placed in the position of having actually owed to what Mr. Bailey described as "my little Freshwater College" something like $619,000, while, last year, he was being hailed far and wide among the Alumni of the institution as the college's benefactor to the tune of something more than $225,000.

The agreement also says that Mr. Ryder owed to Mrs. Marie Louise Bailey, wife of Frank Bailey, $518,857 on undelivered stock, and that he owed Mr. Bailey $1,205,330, which, with the money due Bailey for the college, amounted in all to $2,025,144.

Preceding Frank Bailey on the stand was Frank P. Stoltz, president of the Stein Cosmetic Co. He produced a copy of his agreement with Woody & Co., whereby he put in $200,000 and Mr. Ryder $100,000 to form a pool and operate in Stein Cosmetic stock.

Mr. Stoltz has been described as a potential source of several hundred thousands of dollars of assets believed to be recoverable.

Pair's Romance Goes From Courts to Altar

A romance that blossomed in Baltimore courts several months ago culminated Tuesday when two Maryland attorneys were married at the Chev Sholom Synagogue in Washington by Rabbi Julius T. Loeb before a few friends, it was learned yesterday.

The honeymooners are the former Miss Grace Rebecca Gerber. Hagerstown's first and only woman lawyer, and Simon N. Silverberg, an attorney of Baltimore.

Mrs. Silverberg sought the Republican nomination for the Maryland House of Delegates several years ago, and has been mentioned recently for the post of State's attorney. She is a graduate of Western Maryland College and Valparaiso University, Indiana.

LOST PILOT'S FIGHT FOR LIFE RECOUNTED

after his landing, was found on the seat of the machine. His heavy boots and leather flying suit, it was assumed, had been considered protection enough against the storm and the overcoat had been left as an unnecessary handicap to his progress through the snow and heavy brush.

Discarding about half a bottle of coffee, the ill-fated pilot had taken his lunch. He also took an electric flashlight. Two flares were missing. One of them was found about a month ago some 15 miles south of the spot where he landed, apparently where he had thrown it from his plane in an effort to get his bearings.

The machine itself, which had continued for 50 or 75 feet after it struck the ground, was badly wrecked. Both wings were torn loose and the left one was turned back parallel with the fuselage. The right wing had collided with a tree, turning the machine at right angles to its course. It is supposed Graham took a downhill course when he set out from his wrecked machine, which would have led him eventually to a tributary of the Virgin River and into the Zion Canyon country.

ELECTRIC LEAGUE'S 1930 OUTING HELD

Ella Bowie Winner of Prize for Beauty Contestant at Chapel Point.

EVENT ATTENDED BY 500

Approximately 500 Washingtonians attended the annual outing of the Electric League of Washington at Chapel Point yesterday. A silver loving cup, prize in the bathing beauty contest, was won by Miss Ella Bowie, of 216 Maryland avenue northeast, an employe of the Potomac Electric Power Co.

Another feature of the festivities was the baseball game between the contractors and the jobbers-manufacturers, won by the contractors in the fifth inning, all scheduled to be played. Bancroft T. Foley captained the winning aggregation.

Many novel contests, for adults and for children, who formed a large part of the crowd, were staged. Barbara Barnes, Alice Lanham, Dorothy Souder and Frances Schulte were winners in the rope-jumping trials. A bean race was won by Reese O'Neal and a ball and spoon race by Betty Ann West. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith won the prize waltz, and Barbara Barnes the junior dance contest. Dorothy Cook, of 643 A street southeast, was runner-up in the bathing beauty parade. Two shoe scrambles for boys and girls were won by Joseph Boscoe and Catherine Kirchner, respectively, while Frances Schulte and Robert Kinney took the prizes in a ball and spoon relay for older boys and girls. All the resources of the resort were thrown open to those wearing a league ticket.

INDIA TUBERCULOSIS MENACE EXPLAINED

Meeting Tonight Will Plan Campaign to Reduce Annual Toll.

MANY SPEAKERS HEARD

Plans for a campaign in the United States to prevent further spread of tuberculosis in India will be formulated at a meeting of the India-foreign committee of the Tuberculosis Association of Bengal at the Roosevelt Hotel today.

This meeting was announced following a session at the United States Chamber of Commerce last night at which it was brought out that there are 1,000,000 deaths annually from tuberculosis in India and that 500 of every 1,000 deaths there are caused by that disease, as compared with 5.9 of every 1,000 deaths in New York.

Mrs. Ernest R. Grant, chairman of the committee, presided last night. Conditions in India today were revealed by Mrs. George F. Becker, secretary of the committee and wife of a British army officer who has spent many years in India.

Tuberculosis was declared to be one of India's greatest problems by Dr. Robert H. H. Goheen, director of the Union Mission Sanitarium of South India, who explained that although heretofore malaria has been feared as the greatest menace, tuberculosis actually accounts for about 60 per cent of the total number of deaths from all causes there.

Stressing the lack of facilities for fighting the white plague in his country, Dr. Goheen explained that his sanitarium has only 200 beds, "and yet it is the finest institution in all India for the treatment of tuberculosis."

Dr. Kendall Emerson, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association, of New York, discussed the significance of tuberculosis from its standpoint as a world problem, and emphasized the urgent need for immediate and comprehensive corrective and preventive measures.

Senorita M. de Arostegui y Santa Ana, daughter of the Marquesa de Ana y Santa Maria, of Madrid and Washington; Miss Doris Gasque, daughter of Rep. Allard H. Gasque, of South Carolina; Miss Janie McSwain, daughter of Rep. John J. McSwain, of South Carolina, and Miss Margaret Elam, of Washington, acted as pages and took charge of contribution pledges at last night's meeting.

Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee, who was to have addressed the assemblage, was unable to be present because of the pending District bill.

Among members of the India-Foreign committee who will confer today are, in addition to Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Becker, Howard S. Reeside, treasurer; Sir Ronald Lindsay, Ambassador of Great Britain; Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior; Senator Capper; Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York; and Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon general, United States Public Health Service.

Dr. H. H. Bunzell

says: "Colgate's is made from the most effective cleansing agents . . it is to be preferred"

For years Dr. H. H. Bunzell studied dentifrices under a fellowship in a great eastern university. His findings, now published in a series of scientific bulletins, have shed much light on a common question of the day: What can a dentifrice really do?

DR. H. H. BUNZELL knows what a dentifrice should do. And so he approves Colgate's. For Colgate's action is totally different from sluggish, pasty dentifrices.

Different because of its superior power to penetrate the tiny crevices where decay starts. Different because the penetrating foam flushes away the food particles which collect in these hard-to-reach places where sluggish toothpastes never reach. Thus Colgate's leaves the hidden as well as exposed surfaces healthfully and thoroughly clean.

Dr. Bunzell's statement is the result of his scientific tests in which he proved that Colgate's is made primarily from the most effective cleansing agents.

Agreeing with him are such eminent authorities as Dr. Hardee Chambliss, Ph.D., Johns Hopkins University; Dr. Shirley Wynne, Commissioner of Health of New York City, and scores of others equally well known who have been retained to make analytical tests and to render their expert opinions. On dental advice more people use Colgate's today than any other dentifrice.

Dr. Bunzell says:

"A dentifrice whose sole object is to clean the teeth, such as Colgate's, and which is made primarily from the most effective cleansing agents, is to be preferred to one which relies on ingredients put in to affect other objects such as the attempts to correct the acidity of the saliva.

"No relationship can be found between the condition of the teeth and the degree of acidity found in the saliva."

25c The price is important—but the quality—not the price—has held Colgate leadership for 30 years.

REAR ADMIRAL DIES OF HEART AILMENT

Charles W. Parks, Retired Navy Engineer, Was Ill Four Months.

TO LIE IN STATE TODAY

Rear Admiral Charles W. Parks, 67 years old, retired naval engineer, died yesterday morning at the Naval Hospital of heart disease following an illness of about four months. He resided at 1829 Minwood place northwest.

For his service as wartime chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, Navy Department, Admiral Parks was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal by the United States and was made a commander of the Legion of Honor by France.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Martha Frear Parks, and three brothers, Granville H. Parks and Karle E. Parks, of Washington, and Albert F. Parks, of South Norwalk, Conn. The body will lie in state at the residence this afternoon and evening and tomorrow morning from 10 o'clock until noon.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Church of the Covenant, Eighteenth and N streets northwest. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery with full naval honors.

MRS. M. A. M'CULLOCH DIES

Widow of Colonel Stricken in Cumberland; to Rest in Arlington.

Mrs. Mary A. McCulloch, 60 years old, widow of Col. Champ Carter McCulloch, U. S. A., died suddenly yesterday at Cumberland, Md., according to word received by Col. and Mrs. F. H. Woolven, of 2022 Columbia road, at whose home she had been a guest. She had been visiting in Cumberland.

A native of McLennon County, Tex., Mrs. McCulloch was before marriage Miss Mary Azalete Gurley. She had been active in the Daughters of the American Revolution, Colonial Dames and other patriotic organizations.

Surviving is a son, Roderick R. McCulloch, of Baltimore, and two daughters, Mrs. Mary G. James, of Panama, and Mrs. Sara Champ Powis, of Montreal. Funeral arrangements have not been made, but burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

William Barnes, 64, Once Leader, Dies

Man Who Sued Roosevelt for Libel Dominated New York G.O.P.

New York, June 25 (A.P.).—William Barnes, former Republican leader of the State, died at his home in Armonk today after a week's illness of pneumonia. He was 64 years old.

He published the Albany Evening Journal for a number of years and was a member of the Republican State committee from 1892 to 1914, and its chairman from 1911 to 1914. From 1912 to 1916 he was a member of the Republican national committee.

During the campaign of 1912 former President Theodore Roosevelt, presidential nominee of the Progressive party, in a speech referred to Mr. Barnes as a "corrupt leader." Barnes sued Col. Roosevelt for libel. The trial ended in a verdict for Mr. Roosevelt. Shortly afterward Mr. Barnes moved from Albany to New York. Unable to dominate party affairs while absent from Albany, his power began to wane, and in 1921 it was broken when, after 22 years of uninterrupted control, the Republican administration in the city was overturned by the Democrats, who have since continued in power.

MERGER WAR OPENS WITH FRAUD CHARGE

Formidable Array of Lawyers to Fight Youngstown Court Battle.

STEEL GENIUS DEFENDED

Youngstown, Ohio, June 25 (A.P.). Charges of intentional fraud and dereliction of duty were made today as a formidable array of attorneys fired the opening guns for and against the $1,000,000 merger of Bethlehem Steel Corporation with the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

The battleground is Common Pleas Court of Mahoning County, renovated for the occasion. The objective of the offensive is a permanent injunction to prevent the merger. The indicated length of the battle is three weeks or more.

Principals in the battle lines are Myron C. Wick and the Continental Shares Corporation as stockholders of the Youngstown company opposed to merging, and the Youngstown company, its directors, and the Bethlehem corporation as defendants. The reputed chief figure against the merger, Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland millionaire, does not appear on record in the case.

Charges Last Two Hours

Luther P. Day, of Cleveland, generalissimo of the legal talent fighting the merger, opened the drive with a barrage of accusations and challenges that lasted for more than two hours.

Newton D. Baker, of Cleveland, former Secretary of War, retaliated for the force defending the merger and took his opponent to task for alleging fraud against "a genius of steel," namely, James A. Campbell, head of the Youngstown company.

Day alleged a plot on the part of the Bethlehem Corporation and what he termed "the management" of the Youngstown company whereby the former would consume the latter on "unfair terms." He recited the history of the negotiations leading up to the meeting of the Youngstown directors on March 12, this year, and the meeting of the stockholders on April 8, this year. At both of these meetings the merger of Youngstown with Bethlehem on a 1½-share Bethlehem to 1-share Youngstown basis was approved. Day charged both meetings were illegal, null and void.

Deliberate Fraud Claimed.

He charged further that "the management" of the Youngstown company was guilty of "fraud, intentional fraud, dereliction of duty, and intentional dereliction of duty." This he based on the alleged failure of certain officers of the Youngstown company to furnish stockholders with pertinent information before their meeting of April 8 last.

Mr. Day also attacked the method of the proxy committee in obtaining proxies for the April 8 meting and declared that more than 250,000 shares of stock were illegally voted.

Attorney Baker entered a general denial of Mr. Day's charges and charged that Mr. Eaton is the real opposition to the merger. "We will show," he said, "that Ohio has enacted a law which will clear up the question raised by my opponent and make those points as clear as the path to the village church."

WHO'ZIT?

("WHOZIT?" is a test of your knowledge of history and current events. The statements below describe a character whom you should be able to identify. Match your knowledge and memory against those of your friends.)

1. He was an American who held high rank in the Continental Army during the American Revolution.

2. He was noted for his reckless bravery, but was continually in trouble because of monetary difficulties and a hot temper.

3. Following a reprimand by Gen. Washington he conspired to surrender an important American stronghold to the British.

4. Although the plot was unsuccessful, he was rewarded with money and a commission in the British Army.

CAPITAL GAINS 4,500 IN CENSUS RECHECK

490,000 Population Shown by Revised Tabulation of Tally Chief.

NEGLIGENCE IS DENIED

The final check of the 1930 census for Washington is expected to show a population of 490,000 instead of 485,716, as was first announced, it was revealed yesterday by J. Sterling Moran, supervisor of the District census.

This final figure, which will be 4,500 in excess of the preliminary one, will not alter Washington's position as fourteenth in the census count of cities, Mr. Moran said. Neither will there be any likelihood of the population of the National Capital being brought closer than 10,000 to the 500,000 mark, the District census supervisor pointed out. This latter figure was the expected census goal for Washington for the new census.

Defending his enumerators against charges of carelessness, Mr. Moran said that a recheck has revealed that a large number of persons who claimed they had not been enumerated had been tabulated. When the final count is announced the number of persons living in Washington who vote will also be made known.

The preliminary census count for the District showed an increase of 11 per cent over the last census. The final count will raise this percentage slightly, Mr. Moran said.

Smoot Departs For Needed Rest

Utahan Has Been Absent Only 9 Days in 28 Years in Senate.

(Associated Press.)

Saying he had been absent but nine days in 28 years of service, Senator Smoot, veteran chairman of the finance committee, rose in the Senate yesterday and told his colleagues he was going away for a rest.

He left his vote with Senator Watson, the Republican leader, and said he hoped senators would not charge him with neglect of duty. The 68-year-old legislator and great-grandfather said he felt he ought to have a change.

Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, bitter opponent of Smoot in the tariff contest but a warm personal friend, assured the Utahan that he was entitled to a rest.

"I know that no senator is entitled to it more than he," he said. "The senator can have my pair any time I am on the other side of a question."

Senator Smoot left for Salt Lake City last night. He is considering a trip to Honolulu next month.

Man Is Recovering From Crash Hurts

J. R. Devereux, Jr., Treated by Doctor-Father After Hitting Street Car.

John Ryan Devereux, jr., 28 years old, of 3 Bradley Lane, Chevy Chase, Md., was recovering yesterday from injuries received when he ran headlong into a southbound Capital Traction street car on Connecticut avenue, near the main entrance of the Zoo, Tuesday night. Despite concussions of the head and body bruises, he was resting well last night, his father, Dr. Devereux, said.

Fourteenth Precinct police, who had difficulty getting a complete report on the accident Tuesday night, said last night that the case was to be turned over to the corporation counsel's office. The street car suffered $50 damage and the auto $500.

While traffic was tied up on Connecticut avenue for half an hour, friends took Devereux home, where he was treated by his father. Policeman R. W. Carroll assisted the youth from the wreckage. Clarence Fox was the motorman. Devereux told police he had tried to dodge an auto as it came from the curb when he struck the street car.

Women to Divide Estate.

Mrs. Mary C. Hunt and Miss Eleanor Brent Hunt, of 2018 Hillyer place northwest, are to divide evenly the residuary estate of their late aunt, Mrs. Cornelia Ridgley Newton, according to her will filed in New York City yesterday. Mrs. Newton, who died in Washington, June 3, left an estate valued at "more than $10,000."

SENATE SHOULD NOT YIELD.

The House has assumed that the Senate in the end would back down, as it has in years gone by, from the position it has taken with respect to the fiscal relationship clause in the District appropriations bill. But the Senate, by a vote of 54 to 5, approved the stand of its conferees. The first effect of this unusual show of spirit on the part of the Senate was evidenced in the conference. House conferees offered to accept as a compromise a $9,000,000 appropriation with a provision for a study to consider the advisability of adjusting the Federal contribution. The Senate conferees, however, refused to accept such a compromise.

A large majority of the House are on record as believing that $9,000,000 is an ample appropriation, but an equally large majority of the Senate believe that that sum does not measure the Federal responsibility for the financial well-being of Washington. Presuming that the membership of both houses has studied the needs of the District carefully, the fact that a divergent opinion exists is the best possible argument for an increase in the Federal appropriation.

The Senate conferees should stand firm for a Federal appropriation of $12,000,000. If the House will go no further toward a compromise than the acceptance of the inadequate $9,000,000 lump sum, the bill should be dropped. The District will be able to struggle along under a continuing resolution, and in the end the House will be compelled to approve a fiscal relationship study which, if it is fairly conducted, will result in upward adjustment of the Federal contribution.

EQUALIZING CLERKS' PAY.

The Welch bill, intended to readjust the pay of certain Federal employes, was defective. Following its enactment some classes of employes benefited to a greater extent than Congress intended, while others received only half the pay increase that Congress intended to give. This state of affairs necessitated the introduction of the Brookhart-Lehlbach bill, which was approved by the Senate some time ago, and which now has been approved in substance by the House The Brookhart-Lehlbach bill undertakes to correct the errors in the Welch act.

The bill affects 40,000 to 45,000 Federal employes, of whom between 12,000 and 15,000 are stationed in Washington. It grants salary increases totaling in the aggregate $2,875,000 a year. Most of the increases will be $60 or $100 a year, $60 increases going to those who were stepped up but $60 a year under terms of the Welch act, and $100 increases to those who were stepped up but $100 under the Welch act.

Congress has approved legislation during the present session that will throw a heavy burden on the Treasury. It is the desire of the President and the people that, so far as possible, no further appropriation-bearing legislation be enacted. But the Brookhart-Lehlbach bill is an equalizing measure. It authorizes salary increases that were presumed to have been authorized with the enactment of the Welch bill. The minor differences between the bills as approved by the House and the Senate should be ironed out forthwith and the measure sent to the President for his signature.

A WORLD WITHOUT WORK.

"I am going to tantalize you," said Sir Arthur Eddington, noted British astronomer, speaking before the world power conference, "with a vision of vast supplies of energy far surpassing the wildest desires of the engineer—resources so illimitable that the idea of fuel economy is not to be thought of. This energy exists abundantly in everything we see and handle, only it is so securely locked away that for all the good it can do us it might as well be in the remotest star." Sir Arthur speaks of subatomic energy, which is, he adds, for engineers still a Utopian dream, for physicists a pleasant speculation, but for astronomers already a practical subject of investigation.

There are two hypotheses attempting to explain how subatomic energy is produced. One is that by a process of annihilation of the hydrogen atom by its proton and electron rushing together in head long collision powerful forces are released, and the other is that a process of transmutation whereby a helium atom is formed of four hydrogen atoms produces the energy. To tap large supplies of this energy, says Sir Arthur, it is necessary to heat matter up to 40,000,000 degrees celsius. This high temperature has never been attained even in the laboratory, but there is no reason to believe that it can not be.

Once man learns how to produce subatomic energy, huge power plants as they are known today will no longer be needed. Coal will not be mined; waterfalls will be returned to their natural state of beauty, and machinery will supply the needs of the world, leaving mankind with no work to do. But since man, as yet, has shown little evidence of ability to utilize his leisure to advantage, it is perhaps just as well that the development of subatomic energy should remain a matter for many years of research and experiment. In the meantime man should study himself, and find out why he goes to pieces when he is released from toil.

KINGSFORD-SMITH'S FLIGHT.

Capt. Kingsford-Smith and his companions on the airplane Southern Cross demonstrated once again that crossing the Atlantic from east to west is far more dangerous than flying from the United States to Europe. The winds above the Atlantic move eastward. They assist the east-bound flier on his way, but they retard the progress of a west-bound plane. Moreover, the part of the Atlantic that lies northeast of the American mainland is generally shrouded in fog, so that at the very time the west-bound traveler needs most to see his way he is apt to run into impenetrable murk. Kingsford-Smith came down safely at Harbor Grace, but the landing was a miraculous escape from the clutches of fog.

The airplane has been developed to a point of practicability for sporting eastward flights across the Atlantic. The Lindbergh trail has been followed with comparative ease by others. But the westward trail has never been negotiated in its entirety. The late Baron von Huenefeld flew from Europe to Newfoundland, where he wrecked his ship in a forced descent. The Kingsford-Smith flight, in that it ended in a safe landing, may be considered more fortunate. But Kingsford-Smith failed to reach the American mainland, and until some one does fly from a European airport to an American field it can not be held that the airplane is suitable even for sporting transatlantic flights.

The Southern Cross will be flown on to New York, where its crew will be hailed as heroes. Theirs will be the first plane to have taken off from a European airport and set down on an American field after having negotiated the entire distance under its own power. This, of course, constitutes a remarkable achievement, but because it is extra hazardous it serves to emphasize the several flights of the Graf Zeppelin which, under the command of Dr. Eckener, flies nonchalantly back and forth across the oceans, adhering closely to schedule and carrying passengers and pay-load.

PATENT ABUSE BY TRUSTS.

When the United States Government issues a patent to an inventor, there should go with that special privilege an equal obligation not to use that patent to violate the laws of the Nation. Surely such a concession deserves, at the hands of the recipient, a decent respect for the Government which grants it.

To enforce this obligation, Senator Dill, of Washington, has introduced a bill which would make patents unenforceable so long as their owners are using them to violate the antitrust laws. As a result of the testimony concerning the operations of various so-called "patent trusts" the Senate committee on patents, headed by Chairman Waterman of Colorado, made a unanimous report to the Senate, favoring the passage of the Dill bill. In that report, the committee says:

> This statute is intended to protect not only independent competitors of patent combinations that are illegal, but also those who are independent inventors in the arts. At the present time independent inventors often find it almost impossible to secure a market for their inventions. They must either sell their patents to an existing monopoly on whatever terms it decides to fix, or they must find capital that will not be intimidated by the fear of having to fight a firmly entrenched monopoly, and to carry on defensive litigation to prevent that monopoly from destroying the new invention.
> The very fact that the Government has issued a patent to an inventor, an exclusive privilege, a monopoly, granting him the right, for seventeen years, to exclude any one else from manufacturing, using, or selling his invention should put upon such a patentee the burden of a scrupulous observance of the laws of the United States. It is particularly iniquitous if the holder of such a privilege should use it to violate the antitrust statutes or any other laws.
> It has been charged that legislation of this character threatens to break down the patent system upon which our industrial progress has been largely founded. This is not true. The destruction of the benefits of that patent system will be inevitable if those who abuse it to create illegal monopolies are permitted to continue to protect their infractions of the law under pretense of patent rights.

As Chairman Waterman, of the committee puts it, the bill requires patent owners "to come into court with clean hands." No patent owner should object to such a requirement. According to its proponents, the bill does not propose to confiscate patents. It merely provides that a patent owner can not enforce his rights while he is violating the antitrust laws. All he needs to do to restore his full patent privileges, is to stop violating the law.

INTERNATIONAL ROAD CONGRESS.

The State Department has notified the organizing commission of the International Road Congress that approximately 45 nations have accepted invitations to the congress which will convene in this city in October. It is expected that further invitations will be accepted, and that practically every civilized country will be represented at the gathering.

J. Trueman Thompson, professor of civil engineering at Johns Hopkins, has been appointed manager of this, the sixth, International Congress, which is expected to attract leading highway engineers, administrators and economists from all over the world. Prof. Thompson has served as a specialist in highway research for the Bureau of Public Roads during the last nine years. His studies have included the measurement of motor truck impact, the determination of stresses in highway pavement slabs and structures and stress investigations conducted upon model highway bridges. The results of these studies have been published from time to time, and will form the basis of the discussions of the congress, which will be conducted in French, German, Spanish and English.

The October meeting in Washington will be the first gathering of international highway experts in the Western Hemisphere. The five previous meetings were held in Paris, Brussels, London, Seville and Milan. The congresses are under the general direction of the Permanent International Association of Road Congresses, of which M. LeGavrian is secretary general.

Owing to the universal interest in the building and maintenance of highways it is expected that in addition to the foreign visitors many experts in the United States interested in highway construction will attend the congress. Meetings will be held in the building of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, where ample facilities are afforded for group sessions as well as for larger assemblies.

FARM PRICES.

The announcement that the slump in grain prices and cotton will decrease the farmers' income $1,125,000,000 this year as compared with 1929 is staggering in its import. This figure, apparently authentic, is based on present prices for the staple farm crops of wheat, corn, oats, rye and cotton compared with those of 1929.

Wheat, quoted at around 90 cents a bushel, a price comparable to the low marks at the outset of the World War, is practically 30 cents below last year's price: corn is 17 cents lower; oats, 8 cents; rye, 34 cents, and cotton, $27 a bale. Hope for upward trends is not roseate, because it is estimated that the crops for this year, now beginning to be harvested, will be unusually large, thus augmenting the present oversupply, which has been the cause of depressed prices.

Increased stability in industry at large and manufacturing in particular, which should be the tangible result of the Smoot-Hawley tariff, appears to be the rock of security to which the Nation will tie to attain increased prosperity.

Unless there is a rebound in the price of grains the Federal Farm Board, which several months ago bought wheat at around $1.25 a bushel in an effort to bolster the market and is now faced with big losses, will again become the target of criticism by its detractors.

American barns, says a critical observer, are fast disappearing. Most of 'em have become either tea rooms or antique shops.

The desolate loneliness of Antarctica, of which Admiral Byrd wrote, probably seems a little more glamorous now than it did a few months ago.

FINANCING WASHINGTON

Senate Debate in Congressional Record, June 24.

Mr. GLASS. For six years now, in utter disregard if not in contravention of the substantive law on the subject, which provides a proportion of 60 and 40 per cent for the District and for the United States Government, the conferees of the other branch of Congress have arbitrarily insisted upon a lump-sum appropriation for the District of Columbia; and they have arbitrarily named the amount in utter disregard of research and of facts and figures, and have persistently refused even to consider anything else.

I have hitherto pointed out that if $9,000,000 six years ago, when we were appropriating but $26,000,000 for the District government, was a fair proportion to be borne by the Federal Treasury, $9,000,000 now, when we are appropriating $43,000,000 for District purposes, is totally out of proportion.

Mr. BINGHAM. Mr. President, I realize that there has been very little opportunity to explain why we believe that the amount of Federal contribution should be $12,000,000; and we are asking practically for a vote of confidence in the conferees. The reasons, I may say to the Senate, why we believe $9,000,000 is not sufficient are as follows:

In the first place, $9,000,000 was adopted as a result of a compromise some five years ago, when the total bill amounted to about $33,000,000. The total bill as it came over from the House this year amounted to about $44,000,000. If $9,000,000 was fair for $33,000,000, it certainly is not a fair share of $44,000,000. That is perhaps the fundamental reason.

In the second place, the number of things which the Federal Government, through the Congress, is asking the District to do is increasing very rapidly. We are asking the District to build a very large municipal center. We are asking the District taxpayers to buy four squares in the heart of Washington, at a cost of something over $6,000,000, and on this to erect appropriate monumental buildings, which will match the buildings erected by the Federal Government on the other side of Pennsylvania avenue. No city of this size would think of condemning four city blocks in the center of the city and building a monumental project, to cost 25 or 26 million dollars, and ask the taxpayers to pay it out of the current revenue. That is one reason why we need additional contributions from the Federal Government—to help the District make the municipal center adequately beautiful and monumental.

Another reason is that recently we have asked the District to greatly extend its park system. There is no city in the United States that has anything like the park system, in proportion to its population, the District of Columbia has. In many cities the proportion is somewhere in the neighborhood of 1 acre to every 300 or 350. In Washington it is considerably less than 200. The taxpayers of the District, if they had their say in the matter, in view of the very large parks now in the city, larger than in any other city of the United States, would not burden themselves with a new project running up into something like $16,000,000, putting it on their own shoulders, to be paid for out of taxes at the rate of $1,000,000 a year. We are doing that for the purpose of beautifying the Nation's Capital. * * *

Mr. PHIPPS. I will inform the senator, if I may, who paid for the acreage acquired for park purposes in the lower Rock Creek Valley, extending down the valley from the Million-Dollar Bridge to the Potomac River? Who paid for it? The senator speaks of the Federal Government having contributed.

Mr. HOWELL. I am not informed as to who paid for it.

Mr. PHIPPS. I will inform the senator. The $600,000 paid for that property about five years ago came entirely out of city funds.

Individually and Collectively.

Up the Ladder.

Kansas City Star: Well, we see that Walter Liggett, who fell down so woefully on his repertorial assignment for Plain Talk regarding the prohibition situation in Kansas and elsewhere, has been made editor of that magazine. It frequently happens that about the only thing to be done with a bum reporter is to promote him to an editorship.

Also for the past six or seven years, ever since the adoption of the so-called Brandegee act, as I believe it was termed, which authorized expenditures up to a million dollars a year for the acquisition of property for park purposes, the bill having been passed with the understanding that it represented 1 cent per year contributed by every citizen of the United States, appropriation bill after appropriation bill for the District has carried the figure of $600,000 for park purposes, property purchased and not administered alone, charged entirely to the District fund. All of the cost of the operation of those properties is included in the District appropriation bill. It is not paid by the Federal Government, and yet the parks, such as that containing the Federal Zoo, are called Federal Government parks.

Every time a large improvement has to be made here it is paid for by the District Government. For instance, it is proposed to rebuild the Connecticut Avenue Bridge over Klingle road. That can not be a mere piece of steel work. It must be made a monumental structure. It will cost two or three times as much as the ordinary city would expend to replace such a bridge. The same is true of the bridges down in the Southeastern section of the city on Pennsylvania avenue. Those have to be paid for out of the District revenues. That is the fact.

ON MARRIAGE.

Unless she takes a man for life
She'll never make a patient wife,
Unless he weds for life, then he
A fickle husband's sure to be,
For people quickly move away
Who feel they're not obliged to stay.

Think you a woman would submit
To any husband's cranky fit
And patient be with every whim
If shortly she'd be rid of him?
I fancy bitter things she'd say
If he were soon to go away.

And likewise he, if she should scold,
Would pack his grip and quit the fold,
And say: "No sense in this I see!
Thus nagged no longer will I be.
You have a tongue that's never still.
It's time to change and change I will."

'Tis only those who wed for life
Can get along as man and wife.
They find the patience and the wit
And love to make the best of it.
Since they together long must dwell
They learn to do it very well.

It Is Bad Medicine If Only Half of Those Who Take It Lose Their Wits.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

SOME weeks ago a prominent clergyman, accused of speculating in stock, made public acknowledgment and asked forgiveness of his brethren.

The incident resurrected an ancient controversy and caused millions of people to ask again: "Is gambling wrong? And if it is, what makes it wrong?"

A sufficient answer is the verdict, inspired by the age-long experience of civilization, that gambling is a vice.

A vice is any practice, whether harmful or harmless in itself, that in common experience leads to vicious excesses and harmful results.

Gambling is the risking of money in the hope of unearned gain—the effort to obtain a profit by chance, without giving value in return.

The excess that makes gambling a vice is prompted alike by the winner's greed for greater profit so easily gained and by the loser's desperate need of recovering his losses.

There is a natural economic law, plainly moral because it is plainly just, that reward must be the result of effort.

Whether the reward is sought by a fowl gathering seed, a jungle cat chasing a deer or a man planning a harvest, the law requires a just expenditure of energy to win it.

When man conforms to the law, his reward is a normal state of mind—a sense of security, an untroubled conscience, a freedom from alarm and frenzy.

He is in tune with the way of the universe.

When he violates the law—whether by theft, or by gambling, or by finding a creek bed full of diamonds—he loses his normal mental balance, his sense of values, and in many instances his sense of honor.

"Easy money" inspires abnormal excesses.

Some men can gamble as others can drink, without loss of mental balance; but as any man who drinks may get drunk, so any man who gambles may be victimized by fortune and led to ruin by the hopes of regaining what he has lost.

The market crash revealed scores of embezzlers.

The majority of those who steal money entrusted to their care are gamblers, risking everything in the desperate hope that luck will change.

Because heavy losses trouble their minds and make them unfit, ball players are forbidden to shoot craps.

Because unbearable losses tempt men to steal, no bank will employ a young man who gambles.

There is a sufficient answer.

When hard-boiled business men condemn a practice because of its inherent capacity for evil, there is no need of further testimony by the moralists.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ELMER TWITCHELL ON THE GOLF TEE TARIFF.

"Well," said Elmer Twitchell, "I see that the tariff bill takes golf tees off the free list and puts a duty on 'em. This makes America safe for the ten-for-a-quarter golf tee manufacturer and blights any hope on the part of a golfer that he might get a break in the matter of golfing costs.

* * * *

"If there is any business in the United States that is sitting pretty it is the golf tee industry. Boy, there's a game where there's plenty of profit!" continued Elmer.

* * * *

"You may think shingles, fence posts and pickets are expensive, but you have no idea what high prices can be obtained for lumber until you buy wooden tees. The manufacturers get 25 cents a box for them and they average about twelve to the box.

* * * *

"That much money for that much lumber would cause a public uprising in any other field of endeavor or sport, but the golf fanatic planks down his quarter and takes his 2c worth of tees without a protest.

* * * *

"Celluloid tees cost a little more. The last box I bought ran about 3c per tee, which is more money than celluloid can produce in any other form known to science.

* * * *

"And now Congress is giving the native tee maker protection from any competition that might force him to give honest weight. I wouldn't be surprised if we had to pay a nickle a piece for golf tees by midsummer. Even today you will find as many golfers looking around for lost tees as you find looking for lost balls. As a result of this new tariff I am thinking of using repainted golf tees from now on.

* * * *

"I know of no item in the Hawley-Smoot bill that will be more resented by the golfers of America. It may even cost the Republican party the golf links vote, which is getting bigger and bigger in this country.

* * * *

"I'll say this for the Democrats," concluded Mr. Twitchell, "they have made many mistakes, but they never for a minute got it into their heads that the manufacturer of wooden tees wasn't being properly protected against loss in this country today!"

National Ambulance Week.

"Carol Divorce Annulled," headline. Life with King Carol has been one round of annulments since his return. Any act, edict or decree executed in his absence and now found distasteful to him has been rescinded with pleasure. Now, if a way can be found to annul any possible love letters to Magda Lupescu everything will be lovely.

The tariff bill isn't so bad. Violins, violas, violoncellos and double basses made previous to 1880 are put on the free list.

And the levy on dandelion roots is left unchanged.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann sat at President Hoover's right at the recent dinner to the President-elect of Brazil. This official recognition of the lady as Vice President Curtis' official hostess kept Mr. and Mrs. Longworth from attending. As the score now stands Mrs. Gann has them bogey.

A paved boulevard between New York and Boston with no cross traffic is proposed by the New York State Legislature. The idea is presumably to make it possible to get to a Yale-Harvard football game by automobile before the end of the first period.

The rediscount rate has been cut, but the operation may be too late to save the patient.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Review of James Buchanan's Career—He Did Well and Could Not Have Stopped the War by Violence.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The statue of James Buchanan, now draped in readiness for its dedication today in Meridian Hill Park, is notable as a memorial which tardily assigns to his proper niche a President too often pictured as a weakling by historians, who, in reference to his administration, seem strangely biased.

Among the political leaders of our country few have been better fitted than Buchanan for the management of governmental affairs. With seasoned scholarship, tolerant outlook, well-balanced mentality, as well as by diversified official training, Buchanan sized up to the requirements of the Presidency.

Born in a Pennsylvania log cabin, the son of an Irish immigrant, as a boy he gave promise of a distinguished manhood by graduating from college at the head of his class. Achieving early success at the bar, with the substantial income of $12,000 a year in evidence thereof, he served in the State legislature, was a member of the House of Representatives for ten years, was three times elected to the United States Senate, sat as Secretary of State in the Cabinet of President Polk, and had represented the United States as Minister to Russia and to England before he became President.

In passing judgment on his administration it is unfair to slur the circumstance that his term of office was drawing to a close as the positive threat of civil war developed. The election of Lincoln was the direct cause of the political commotion in which the fateful statecraft of Buchanan's administration was involved.

In the proper order of events the crisis was one in the settlement of which the Lincoln administration was primarily concerned. But the presidential campaign of 1860 had been the most exciting in our history, and the political pot instead of cooling off continued to boil until, in the following winter and spring, it became a witches' cauldron.

On the 20th of December the convention of South Carolina unanimously adopted its ordinance of secession. In the consequent vociferous development of events President Buchanan was blamed in the South for what he did and in the North for what he did not do.

The fact that he stood firm against distracted politicians and extremists North and South is sufficient proof that his attitude was sane and patriotic.

Yet, strangely enough, Buchanan is generally looked upon as the sole example in our history of a Chief Executive lacking fixed principles and strength of purpose. This is, to a great extent, due to the fact that unfortunately the general run of writers do not make their own investigations.

In truth, none of our Presidents, not even Washington or Jackson, could in the circumstances have done what Buchanan has been condemned and berated for not doing. McKinley, Wilson, or Hoover under similar conditions would have reacted more or less as the fifteenth President did. Jackson, Cleveland, or Roosevelt might have been more arbitrary, and the Civil War might have started several weeks sooner, but none of them could have saved the situation by violence.

In his special message of January 8, 1861, President Buchanan said:

"In the beginning of these unhappy troubles I determined that no act of mine should increase the excitement in either section of the country. If the political conflict were to end in civil war it was my determination and purpose not to commence it nor even to furnish an excuse for it by any act of this Government. My opinion remains unchanged that justice as well as sound policy requires us still to seek a peaceful solution of the questions at issue between the North and the South."

Buchanan was not to blame for the failure to keep the country at peace.

FEDERALIST.

Time to Squelch Fool Highway Signs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The action of the American Automobile Association in requesting State highway officials to remove the "ghoulish signs" along highways merits the indorsement of every motorist.

The puerility of such warning signs as: "Death Awaits You Around the Corner;" "Judgment Day Is Here;" "You Will Meet God at the Next Turn," and many others of a similar type are insults to the intelligence of American drivers.

It is high time that taps should be sounded over the advertising grave of the "bright young man" who gave birth to the idea that every automobilist is a moron who would be frightened to safety by flamboyant words rather than be guided to sane driving by the consideration of his own welfare and that of others. Of course highways should be provided with conspicuous warning signs where necessary, but in erecting them it should be remembered that "Safety First" is the twin of "Sense First."

MOTORIST.

Employers Should Regard Employes as Customers and Try to Keep Them at Work.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If the employers would look into the unemployment question, as we look into abolishing disease, I think we could eradicate unemployment.

If the employer looked upon the employes as his customers, it would be to the employer's interest to retain that customer and see to it that his buying powers were not diminished by unemployment. If 5,000,000 people are out of employment in America, with their families, it may reach an average of 25,000,000 customers unable to buy from the manufacturers. If they are given employment they can absorb the surplus of production without foreign markets.

TSINANFU, SHANTUNG CAPITAL, CAPTURED

Nationalists Apparently Lose Heavily as Northerners Cross Yellow River.

NANKING GAINING HONAN

Shanghai, June 25 (A.P.).—Northern rebels crossed the Yellow River today and captured Tsinanfu, capital of Shantung, but in other sectors of China's war fronts the Nationalist government claimed victories.

Whether the capture of Tsinanfu was attended by severe fighting was uncertain. It was widely reported, however, that hospital facilities in several towns were crowded with 50,000 to 100,000 wounded Nationalists. It seemed established the rebel army had won a decisive victory and the Nationalists were retreating southward.

Nanking advices said President Chiang Kai-Shek had ordered government forces on the Haichow-Tungkwan Railway front to intensify their drive toward Kaifeng, Honan capital.

Rebels Lose in Honan.

In two days, it was reported in Nationalist circles, government troops virtually have swept the rebels from the sector running from Kweiteh to midway between Lanfeng and Kaifeng. Contrary claims were made by the Northerners.

Nationalist circles admitted things looked dark for the government until the new drive, due to military and economic reverses. They emphasized, however, that Nanking is concentrating men and supplies in the Honan sector in hopes of a decisive victory there over the Northern war lords.

Reports from Hunan Province indicated the Kwangsi rebels who last week threatened to capture Hankow, Fuchang and Hanyang, had been driven to southern Hunan. Ten thousand of them were reported to have moved eastward to Wantsai, attempting to reach Nanchang, important northern Kiangsi province city. Nationalists were pursuing with 10,000 men from Changsha.

Soldiers' Mood Ugly.

Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek, wife of the president, is leading a movement to dispatch clothing and other comforts to Nationalist troops on the Honan front. Yesterday she supervised the shipment of much clothing, foodstuffs, medicine and other supplies all popularly subscribed. Persons returning from the battle zone said Nationalist facilities to care for the wounded were inadequate.

Authorities handled many cases of self-wounded soldiers seeking escape from the battle lines. Many of these were in an ugly mood. When a doctor at Nanking attempted to treat the hand of one of these men the soldier became enraged, seized a meat chopper and attempted to murder the physician, who fled.

$1,000,000 Fire Levels Two Chicago Hangars

Chicago, June 25 (A.P.).—Heaps of charred debris and ashes represented today what had been flying equipment and two hangars valued at considerably more than a million dollars before fire swept through two sheds of the Municipal Airport early today. The Universal and the Stout Airlines were the chief losers. The fire followed an explosion, probably due to static electricity, while the night force of mechanics was at luncheon. They had left a hose attached to a plane to drain its gasoline tank.

Candidate in Florida Charges Ballot Fraud

Tampa, Fla., June 25 (A.P.).—Joe Mickler, defeated candidate for the State Legislature in yesterday's second Democratic primary, today charged that in at least eleven city precincts more votes were reported by election officials than there were voters.

Mickler said he would not contest the election of his opponent, John H. Bledsoe, but intended to lay the matter before the county grand jury when it convenes next Monday.

Alabama Klan Chiefs Deny Warning De Priest

Birmingham, Ala., June 25 (A.P.).—High officials of the Ku Klux Klan here today denied that the telegram warning Oscar De Priest, Negro representative in Congress from Chicago, to stay away from Birmingham was sent from the State grand dragon's office of the Klan.

Klan officials said the message may have been sent by a small group of Birmingham Klansmen, but that it was not authorized by the State executive office of the organization.

without giving authorities any additional information on the accident.

Dr. Lawrence Gregory, of the Emergency Hospital staff, who treated her, said her condition was not serious.

The body of an unidentified colored boy, about 12 years old, was discovered by a fisherman in the Anacostia River near the Benning Bridge late yesterday afternoon. The boy had apparently been in the water two days or longer.

The Fire Rescue Squad and a Casualty Hospital ambulance responded to the call of John Walker, colored, the fisherman.

The body was later taken to the District morgue.

Farm Board Wheat Aid Asked.

Topeka, Kans., June 25 (A.P.).—Asserting that Kansas, the country's largest wheat-producing State, "is facing a catastrophe caused by an unhoped depressed wheat price," Gov. Clyde M. Reed today suggested that the Federal Farm Board enter the market and purchase an additional 15,000,000 bushels or more at current prices.

Hotel Rum Injunction Granted.

New York, June 25 (A.P.).—Federal Judge Knox today granted an injunction restraining the Hotel Manger, one of Broadway's largest hotels, from selling liquors, but denied a padlock order sought by the Government against sixteen rooms and the hotel grill.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

REGARDLESS of what the cost of the new veterans' plan develops to be, whether it is as costly as the controversial scheme or not, President Hoover is likely to profit immeasurably by the events of the last few days.

A lot of the Washington correspondents who a few weeks ago were sending out right critical stories were busy at their typewriters yesterday preparing stories of the "new Hoover" that has emerged from the veterans' fracas.

There were all sorts of versions of the complete flip-flop of the House Republicans Tuesday night. Generally their action was a surprise. Before they went into caucus there were estimates that not more than 50 votes could be mustered to override the President's anticipated veto.

* * * *

INSTEAD, 154 out of the hardly more than 200 Republicans present agreed to sustain him.

On the surface, one readily sees a moving influence and that is the substitute plan that was worked out which will embrace many more veterans than the 77,000 which the other bill would have provided for.

But there was more than that behind the flip-flop. Strong words were said to have been spoken in that caucus behind closed doors.

For one thing, the word came right authoritatively on behalf of the President that he had stood just about as much from Congress as he intended to stand, that the issue was now well drawn, that the members could choose between supporting him and taking the consequences.

* * * *

THAT'S the big stick that characterized Roosevelt and Wilson and left them popular idols, although neither got everything that he wanted, of course.

Even aside from this, there is no question that Mr. Hoover shone in an entirely new role when he issued his denunciation of the veterans' bill Tuesday at noon. Less able men could have expressed the sentiments which he had in that statement only by profanity which would have been unfit to print. Mr. Hoover called the bill everything he could think of and through the statement ran his feeling, hardly disguised at all, toward men who could enact such a bill.

It had the effect together with subsequent White House activities of getting results.

Of course, he is yet to run up against the Senate on the whole business, but regardless of that body's attitude, if he continues to wield the big stick over the House he will win. There is no doubt about that.

Jews' Wailing Wall Claims Dated From Temple's Fall

Dr. Adler's Memorandum Read to International Commission Sitting on Jerusalem Dispute; New Property Offered Moslems, Safeguarding Site.

Jerusalem, June 25 (A.P.).—A memorandum tracing the historical connection of the Jewish people with the wailing wall, a source of contention between the Jews and Moslems in Palestine, from the destruction of the Temple of Solomon, of which it is a vestige, to the present day, was submitted today to the international wailing wall commission at its first public sitting. The commission is here to investigate Moslem and Jewish claims to the wall.

Prepared by Dr. Cyrus Adler, president of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, and of the American Jewish committee, the 100 page memorandum was presented on behalf of the Jewish Agency, the Jewish National Council and the United Rabbis.

The session as described by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, opened with an address by Dr. Mordecai Eliash, chief of the Jewish Council, who criticized the Moslems' move in claiming that the Jews do not have any rights at the wailing wall. When Dr. Eliash began speaking there were present in the room besides Jewish leaders prominent Arabic advocates from Damascus and local Moslem leaders in addition to the Moslem lawyers.

A proposal that the Moslem supreme council should vacate the properties now occupied by the Mughrabi Wakf along the approach to the wailing wall and accept in place of it new buildings of an equivalent size upon some eligible site in Jerusalem was suggested in the memorandum prepared by Dr. Adler.

The memorandum recognizing the peculiar sentiment attached to the Wakf suggests that the ground be leased for a long term to the Palestine government that it may be used for prayer, and that new property which the Jewish agency should, through the government, provide for the houses of the poor should equally be leased for the Wakf of the Mughrab community.

Other suggestions made by the memorandum with regard to the Wailing Wall were that the commission give recognition to the immemorial claim that the Wailing Wall is a holy place to the Jews, that they should have the right of access to it for prayers to be conducted in accordance to their ritual in a decent and dignified manner, and recognizing that the Wailing Wall is a holy place not only for the Jews who live in Jerusalem or Palestine but for the Jews of the entire world, and that these requests are based upon immemorial uses which have never been denied within 1,200 or 1,300 years except during the political and racial excitement.

Referring to the British White Paper of November, 1928, dealing with the Wailing Wall, Dr. Eliash said the Grand Mufti, the Moslem's religious leader, had accepted the white paper and praised its impartiality.

Questioning whether the wall really was part of the Moslem Wakf, the religious committee which holds Moslem religious property in trust, Dr. Eliash urged the commissioners to consider not merely the existing but preexisting rights. He insisted on article 13 of the mandate which guaranteed free access to the holy places, the free exercise of worship as well as the preservation of existing rights.

year, and the end of their pensions is not yet in sight.

The question yesterday, of course, was whether the Senate would accept this plan or try to make the House back down and override the President's veto. There was a lot of talk of doing this among the Democrats and the Progressives. The procedure would be to substitute for the new bill when it comes over from the House the bill which the President has vetoed.

Many senators said that Senate action would probably be governed by the Legion's attitude. Funny enough, the impression was gained in Legion quarters that that organization intends to sit tight and say nothing at all. House Republicans were right confident, however, that the Legion would gladly accept a $50,000,000 or $60,000,000 plum as it was described.

Messages from a large number of members of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, many of them leaders in their organizations, pledging support to President Hoover in his proposed veto of the veterans' bill were received at the White House yesterday.

But the silent attitude at this stage would seem to be the best one for the legion to take because the whole veterans' scheme has been predicated upon the assumption that it would never ask for pensions.

Steam Roller in Shape.

It can not be said that the legion is quietly pressing this pension business either. The whole trouble lies with the fact that every representative and every senator has a file full of letters and telegrams from veterans wanting something and it is a case of their wanting to do something irrespective of the legion's legislative program.

It was right funny when the House concurred in the Senate amendments to the pending bill yesterday. When the bill was called up, Representative Johnson moved for concurrence. The hot-headed Rankin was instantly on his feet. Speaker Longworth, however, had had his experience. Ignoring the shouting Rankin, he said:

"All in favor say 'aye,' all opposed say 'no;' the 'ayes' have it and the amendments are agreed to."

The steam roller was back in shape.

In the meantime the country got the spectacle of the members voting for a bill which they knew will be vetoed today and in the knowledge they will sustain that veto, and that furthermore the bill was considerably modified over the one they originally passed.

There may have been more amazing legislative procedures. It is doubtful.

Governor of Alabama Asked to Aid De Priest

The Ministers Interdenominational Alliance of Washington and Vicinity, a colored organization, yesterday wrote a letter to Gov. Bibb Graves of Alabama urging his protection of Representative Oscar De Priest, of Illinois, when the latter speaks in Birmingham to a colored audience on July 17.

The letter also protested against the burning of Representative De Priest in effigy at Birmingham on June 20 and cited the threatening letter addressed to the colored representative signed "Ku Klux Klan."

statement. He declined to say, however, upon what he based his optimism.

The resolution offered by Senator Bingham for a fiscal relations commission is the third that has been introduced in recent weeks, the others having been introduced by Senator Jones (Republican), of Washington, and Representative Moore (Democrat), of Virginia.

Make-Up of Commission.

The commission proposed by Senator Bingham would be composed of one senator, to be appointed by the Vice President; one representative, to be appointed by the Speaker; the director of the Budget Bureau, a District Commissioner, one citizen representing the business interests here and one representing the civic interests, and an outstanding economist, who shall neither be a resident nor a taxpayer here. He would be appointed by the President.

The commission would make a study of the fiscal relations problem, settle on a figure to be paid by the Federal Government, and make its report to the President. The President in turn would recommend that the sum recommended be included in the District budget.

Agreement "Seems Improbable."

The resolution continuing the 1930 appropriation was approved at a meeting of the appropriations committee attended by more than a score of members. A report submitted with the resolution by Mr. Simmons said that an agreement on the 1931 bill "seems improbable."

The bill, the report said, was passed by the House on March 27, by the Senate on May 12, and has been in conference since May 19.

"In view of the long-standing controversy over the question of a Federal contribution, the position taken by the House, and the very short time remaining between now and the date when the District government will be absolutely without funds," the report concluded, "the committee is of the opinion that this resolution should pass."

Bridge Fender Bids to Be Asked.

Bids for fenders on the bascule draw span on the Arlington Memorial Bridge, now being constructed across the Potomac River, will be sought by the bridge commission early in July, and the contract is to be let about August 1. The fenders will protect the bridge from vessels passing through the span.

FRANCE ACTS TO END TROUBLE WITH ITALY

Briand Tells of Efforts to Settle Present and Future Questions.

FRIENDLINESS IS NOTED

Paris, June 25 (A.P.).—Aristide Briand, foreign minister of France, today told the Senate foreign relations committee that the French government was doing all it possibly could to arrive at an amicable settlement of all questions now existing or likely to arise between France and Italy.

Widespread reports that France and Italy were conciliating their viewpoints, after a somewhat strained relationship, were received with interest in political circles.

Economic Problems Urgent.

France, it was indicated by government observers, had yielded to the idea that there must be political peace in Europe so that economic problems, daily growing more urgent, might have the full consideration of the best minds of all countries.

Friendliness in the Franco-Italian status was noted and Foreign Minister Briand's statement to the Senate today confirmed the official sincerity of that attitude.

It was the expressed belief in political circles that naval parity and boundary considerations would receive early and amicable settlement.

Italian Office Apologizes.

Recent apology by the Italian foreign office for demonstrations of anti-French character at Bari were accepted as still further hopeful signs.

It was pointed out that none would be more pleased at an early entente with Italy than M. Briand, author of the recently promulgated idea for an economic "United States of Europe."

This feeling would be shared, it was pointed out in business circles, by the commercial and industrial interests which, since adoption of the new American tariff, had been constrained to regard more favorably the Briand continental union.

3 Washington Cadets Honored at West Point

Three Washington cadets at the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., have been named officers in the school by Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the academy. Appointments as officers are made on records in all branches of activity at the school.

Those named were Charles H. Bonesteel, son of Maj. C. H. Bonesteel, 3220 Klingle road northwest, to be a captain; Merillat Moses, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Moses, 1377 Quincy street northwest and Edward A. Brown, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Brown, 3528 S street northwest, to be lieutenants.

Thomas Arnold Robinson, a wealthy American importer, and Senorita Ernestina Calles, were married at Nogales, Mexico, in 1927. A son was born to them, the then president's seventh grandchild, June 8, 1928. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson are known as close friends of Ambassador Morrow.

Gen. Sandino Reported Wounded in Battle

Managua, Nicaragua, June 25 (A.P.). Gen. Augustino Sandino was said today to be suffering from a wound in the leg, received in a recent encounter with American Marines and Nicaraguan constabulary.

Gen. D. C. McDougal, United States Marine officer, who is in charge of the Nicaraguan National Guard, said that the insurgent leader had been operating in the mountains north of St. Rafael. His informant was a native Nicaraguan captured by Sandinistas, who escaped recently, but while a captive recognized Sandino.

French Financier Dies In Elevator Accident

Paris, June 25 (A.P.).—Charles Georges Picot, 74, one of the foremost financiers of France, and president of the Credit Industrial Commercial was accidentally killed today.

Putting his head in an elevator well to see if the lift was coming up, he did not perceive that the car was descending instead. His skull was crushed.

Receptions Continue, With Admiral Attending Two Functions.

New York, June 25 (A.P.).—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd today continued the round of receptions that have been held in his honor several times a day since his return from the South Pole flight last Thursday and which will continue until July 12.

Today's program included a luncheon of the American Arbitration Association and a dinner of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. For the Arbitration Association Mrs. Vincent Astor presented a gold medal.

He arrived at the luncheon shortly after returning from Albany. Before he retires to private life, to write a book and devise means for paying off the expedition's deficit, Admiral Byrd will attend several more receptions here and will also visit Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and St. Louis.

Marie Briggs Widow Of Artist, Court Says

New York, June 25 (A.P.).—Marie C. Briggs' claim that she is the widow of the late Clare Briggs, cartoonist, was upheld today by a surrogate court.

The surrogate held she had established that she was the common law wife of the artist. The will left most of the estate to Ruth Owen Briggs, divorced wife of Mr. Briggs. The decision enables Marie C. Briggs to contest the will of the cartoonist, who died last January 3. It had been argued for Ruth Owen Briggs and her three children that Marie Briggs had obtained a divorce from a previous husband under circumstances precluding a remarriage in New York State.

INDIA LEADER URGES BOYCOTT OF PARLEY

Gandhi Followers Exhorted to Refuse to Purchase Foreign Goods.

SIMON FINDINGS ARE HIT

Bombay, India, June 25 (A.P.).—Boycott of the forthcoming round-table conference on India's political status today was urged upon Nationalist followers of Mahatma Gandhi by Pundit Malaviya, outstanding congress leader.

In a fiery address before a great meeting in Delhi, Malaviya told the "civil resistance volunteers" to go forward with their program. He commanded them to intensify the ban on foreign goods and to have nothing to do with the round-table conference unless discussion of immediate full dominion status for India was assured in advance.

The Nationalist leader said the conference must be held in Delhi, not London.

The Malaviya address was typical of the violent reception of the Simon commission report which continued in native circles throughout India today. Bombay and Calcutta were particularly agitated. The newspapers kept up their dire predictions of an impending crisis which, the prediction was made by the Simla Herald, could be averted only by action of the viceroy or the home government.

Britain, the newspaper said, must make a bold declaration that the round-table conference would not be bound to the Simon report findings, but would be consistent with the declaration of Viceroy Lord Irvin last November, regarding a dominion status.

Several of the largest and most influential native organizations in India today were put under ban by the Punjab government on the ground that they were interfering with maintenance of law and order and endangering public peace under the criminal law amendment of the act of 1908.

State Department Staff Depleted by Recent Transfers.

By JEAN ELIOT.

WITH the appointment of Mr. Dana G. Munro as United States Minister to Haiti, the State Department staff, already somewhat depleted, will lose another of its capable officials. Mr. Warren Delano Robbins, who has been serving as ceremonials officer of the White House—a post on the State Department's roster—is on the eve of sailing for Central America to resume his duties as Minister to El Salvador. Mr. James Clement Dunn, who was Mr. Robbins' predecessor at the White House and remained at the department for a while after being detached from the former post, was sent a few months later to Haiti with President Hoover's commission of inquiry and more recently has been sent to London to replace Mr. F. Lammot Belin as First Secretary at our Embassy.

Moreover, last autumn Mr. Nelson Johnson, Assistant Secretary of State, who had been at the State Department until he was regarded as almost a fixture, was sent out to China as minister, and on top of his transfer President Hoover named Mr. William R. Castle, jr., also an Assistant Secretary of State, to the post of special Ambassador to Japan for the period of the naval conference.

Altogether there hasn't been such an exodus of foreign service officials from the department in a few months since the time some two years ago when four were named to important foreign posts at one fell swoop. On that occasion Mr. Joseph Grew, who had been serving as Undersecretary of State, was made Ambassador to Turkey; Mr. Butler Wright was dispatched to Hungary as Minister, Mr. Hugh Wilson to Switzerland and Mr. Leland Harrison was sent to Sweden. More recently, however, he has been transferred to Uruguay.

To ease the situation a bit, however, Mr. Castle is home again. With Mrs. Castle, he arrived in town on Monday after a sojourn in Tokyo during which he made many friends among the Japanese and won the affection of members of the American colony in Tokyo. He has resumed his post as Assistant Secretary of State, but with a different line of duty, being now in charge of Far Eastern affairs instead of European affairs.

Mr. Munro is expected to leave for his post in Haiti as soon as his appointment is confirmed by the Senate. He is familiar with conditions in the island republic from previous service there and more recently has been chief of the Latin American division of the State Department.

Ambassador Dawes Guest at White House.

President Hoover has as his guest Mr. Charles Gates Dawes, United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James, who arrived in Washington yesterday. Mr. Dawes is on his way from his home in Chicago to New York and will sail shortly for England. His son, Mr. Dana Dawes, is a passenger on the S. S. Republic, which sailed yesterday.

Mr. Paul Mellon, son of the Secretary of the Treasury, has returned from England, where he has been taking post-graduate work at Cambridge University. He will visit his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. David K. E. Bruce, on Long Island, before coming to Washington to be with Secretary Mellon.

Mr. Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy, will return to town today from Newport. Mrs. Adams has gone to her home at Concord, Mass.

M. Jules Henry, Charge d'Affaires of France, will go to Boston early next week and will be the principal orator at the Independence Day patriotic exercises at Faneuil Hall. When Mr. Henry arrives in Boston on July 3 he will be met by the French Consul General, M. Flamond, and representatives of the mayor of the city. He will be the guest of Representative Platt Andrew at Eastern Point, Gloucester, where he will pass the night. He will motor to Boston on July 4 with his host. Following his address, M. Henry will be the guest at luncheon of Mayor Curley and the following day will see the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Couzens To Give Garden Party.

Senator and Mrs. James Couzens will entertain at a garden party at their home on Woodland drive on Tuesday in honor of Miss Carol Herndon, of Suffolk, Va., who is the guest of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffries Chewning, jr. A group of the younger members of society will be their guests. On the preceding evening, Mr. and Mrs. Chewning will give a dinner in honor of Miss Herndon.

Yesterday, Mrs. Chewning was hostess at a luncheon for Miss Herndon, having as guests the debutantes of the past season and other young people who have remained in town for the early summer.

Impromptu Luncheon Party at Quaint Inn

Miss Huston And Mr. Lewis Dance Guests

Father and Sisters Hosts to Bride-elect and Her Fiance.

Mr. Claudius H. Huston and the Misses Katherine and Mildred Huston entertained at a small dance last evening for Miss Alice Huston and Mr. Fulton Lewis, jr., who are to be married on Saturday. There were 150 guests, all young people. Among them were Miss Marjorie Mondell and Mr. Alfons Beaumont Landa, whose wedding will take place today, and members of their bridal party. They had previously been entertained at dinner by Miss Mondell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Mondell, as a climax to a round of festivities for this charming bride.

Prior to the dance Miss Huston, Mr. Lewis and their bridal attendants were guests at a buffet supper given by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Lewis, in their Georgetown home.

Mr. Huston and his daughters have as guests for the wedding the girls' uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Jordan, of Chattanooga, Tenn., with their small daughter, Peggy Jordan, who is to be flower girl at the wedding; Miss Henrietta Kephart, of Philadelphia, and Miss Emily Ewers, of Independence, Kan., one of the bridesmaids.

Gen. and Mrs. M. B. Stewart have as their guest for several months Mrs. Peter Stewart, of St. Augustine, Fla. Mr. Stewart will come to Washington in July and return south with Mrs. Stewart by motor.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Warren have taken possession of the cottage on the Potomac below Pohick, which they have recently completed and in which they propose to spend the summer.

Mrs. Archbold Spending Summer at Sea Coast.

Mrs. Anne Archbold has left Washington for Bar Harbor, Me., to occupy her summer home there. She was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Moira Archbold and her son, Mr. Armar Archbold.

Miss Laura Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Curtis, is a guest of the Minister of Hungary and Countess Szechenyi and their daughter, Miss Sylvia Szechenyi, at Newport. Mr. and Mrs. Curtis are passing the season at their house at Roslyn, Long Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Hagner have returned from Hot Springs, Va., where they went on their honeymoon, and are living in their house in Georgetown, at 3304 O street. Mrs. Hagner was Miss Caroline Roebling and one of the summer brides. She is the daughter of Mrs. Arthur O'Brien.

Honoring Miss Natica Nast, of New York, Mrs. George Grant Mason 3d gave a luncheon on Tuesday at the Casino, in New York. Mrs. Mason, who was Miss Jane Kendall, of Washington, will sail for her home in Havana in about a fortnight.

Day-Edmonds Betrothal Announced by Plane.

The engagement of Miss Mary Edmonds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howard Edmonds, of Wellesley, Mass., and niece of Mrs. Owen D. Young, of New York, to Mr. John Arthur Day, of Newport, has just been announced. The wedding will take place in July.

A unique way of announcing the engagement was employed. Capt. Walter Meuther, a friend of Miss Edmonds, circling about the Edmonds home in a plane, dropped a message cylinder containing word of the approaching marriage.

Miss Edmonds is a graduate of St. Lawrence University and was the first woman qualifying as an aviator at the Newport Airport. She makes her home at Newport.

The first Secretary of the Polish Embassy, Mr. Victor Podoski, left Washington yesterday for Boston and will pass several days at Harvard University. He will then join the Ambassador, Mr. Tytus Filipowicz, in Newport for the week-end and will return to Washington on Monday. Mr. Podoski will sail on July 17 for Europe to pass the rest of the summer at his home in Poland.

Mrs. William O. Hankins and son, of Danville, Va., and Mrs. Robert W. James and daughter, of Richmond, are spending some weeks with their parents, Maj. and Mrs. Hampden Wilson, on Kilbourne place.

Mrs. E. L. McClelland Departs for West.

Mrs. E. L. McClelland will leave town for Chicago today to meet her daughter, Mrs. Nan Barclay, with whom she will go to California. They will make the trip West through the Canadian Rockies, afterward going to La Jolla, Calif., to remain through the summer. In the autumn Mrs. McClelland will return to her Washington residence and Mrs. Barclay will go to New York, where she has an apartment.

Mrs. Henry Breckenridge, of New York, is at the Carlton Hotel for a few days, accompanied by Miss Grace Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Southgate, who are in Atlantic City, will go from there to New York, where Mr. Southgate will represent the Department of State at the official farewell to Dr. Enrique Olaya, president-elect of Brazil, when he sails for Columbia on July 2. They will stop to see their children, who are visiting Mrs. Southgate's mother in Connecticut, before returning to Washington on July 5.

Mrs. Stephen O. Fuqua entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Army and Navy Club for Mrs. Henry Bartlett, of New York, who is visiting Maj. and Mrs. Davis Wills. Tomorrow, Mrs. Walter Wells will give a luncheon at the Carlton for Mrs. Bartlett.

U. S. Attache Enjoys Leave In Baltimore

Mr. C. E. Lyon to Have Tour of Duty in Capital Later.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Lyon, who have been in Berne, Switzerland, where Mr. Lyon has been serving as commercial attache for the last three years, are now in Baltimore, but are making frequent visits to Washington, the girlhood home of Mrs. Lyon, who was Miss Helen Gill. They returned to this country at Easter and have spent the intervening time as guests of Mr. Lyon's mother, Mrs. James Lyon, at her place in the Green Spring Valley.

Now on leave, Mr. Lyon will later have a six months' tour of duty at the Department of Commerce. Mr. and Mrs. Lyon have their two children, Helen and Charles Herbert Lyon, with them.

Mrs. Lyon's father, Mr. Herbert A. Gill, and her sister, Miss Mona Gill, who usually go abroad for the summer months, are lingering in Washington this year, but will go later to Maine.

Gen. and Mrs. Scott Have Golden Wedding.

In honor of the golden wedding anniversary of her parents, Maj. Gen. Hugh Lenox Scott, U. S. A., retired, and Mrs. Scott, Mrs. David H. Stockton gave a small reception on Sunday at her home on Kingston road, in Princeton, N. J., where Gen. and Mrs. Scott also make their home.

Although retired from the Army, Gen. Scott, famous as an Indian fighter and made chief of staff of the army in 1914, takes an active part in civil life and is serving as chairman of the New Jersey State Highway Commission. Mrs. Scott was Miss Mary Merrill, widely known in Washington society for many years.

Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayre, daughter of the late President Wilson, sailed yesterday for Europe on the U. S. S. Republic.

Mrs. Joseph Davies is spending some time at her old home in Madison, Wis. Miss Rahel Davies, who spent last winter at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, has rejoined her father at their Washington residence.

Miss Mae Vance was hostess to a group of friends at a garden party last night. Miss Vance will leave by motor the last of the week to spend the remainder of the summer at her home in Cleveland.

Garden Scene For Nuptials Of Mrs. Allan

Mr. John G. Baldwin and Capital Resident Are Married.

In the picturesque setting of the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Aspinwall's house at 2340 Kalorama road, their daughter, Mrs. Margaret Aspinwall Allan, was married yesterday to Mr. John G. Baldwin, of New York. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, with the setting sun casting long shadows across the little pond near which the bridal party stood. Trellises covered in rambler roses formed an effective background. Urns filled with lilies and garden flowers were used as decorations.

Given in marriage by her father, Mrs. Allan had Mrs. John F. Metcalfe, of Kansas City, as her matron of honor and only attendant. Mrs. Metcalfe, who was formerly Miss Charlotte Caldwell, of Spokane, Wash., was a student at the Cathedral School and has many friends in Washington.

The bride wore a gown of powder blue chiffon, made on long trailing lines with a graceful cape drapery over the arms, and a picture hat of thin blue straw banded with velvet in a darker tone. She carried talisman roses, delphinium, gardenias and lilies of the valley. The matron of honor wore a pink organdie costume, also made on long lines, and her hat was of pink straw banded with blue. She carried a bouquet of garden flowers.

Mr. Baldwin's father, Mr. Alexander Baldwin, of San Francisco, was his best man, the small group of ushers including Mr. Elliott McAllister, jr., of San Francisco; Mr. Breck McAllister and Mr. Albert Hayston, of New York.

Only relatives and a few close friends attended the wedding and the informal buffet supper in the garden, which followed the ceremony. Mrs. Elliott McAllister, jr., and Miss Frances Baldwin, of San Francisco, sisters of Mr. Baldwin, were present and other guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Scoville, of Madison, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. F. H. S. Hyde, Mr. Stillman Hyde, of Watertown, Conn.; Miss Cornelia Ingersoll, of New York, and Miss Ethel Nicholls, of San Francisco.

For her going away gown the bride wore a dark blue silk suit, with a blue hat and matching accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin will sail today on the S. S. Lafayette for Europe. After a honeymoon abroad they will return to Greenwich, Conn., to pass the rest of the summer. Their home will be in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Etz will be hosts at the dinner at the Arts Club of Washington this evening, after which the classic tragedy, the "Antigone" of Sophocles will be presented by the Arts Club Players under direction of Mr. J. Milnor Dorey, chairman of the dramatic committee, who has adapted and arranged the one-act version of the play. Mendelssohn's incidental music for the play will be given by a chorus and orchestra under direction of Miss Sade C. Styron, chairman of the music committee of the club.

Mr. Clifford Brooke, director of the National Players, will be the club's guest of honor on this occasion.

Mrs. Rawls Hostess At Hotel Luncheon.

Mrs. Rawls, wife of Maj. W. O. Rawls, entertained a small company at luncheon yesterday in the garden restaurant of the Carlton.

Dr. and Mrs. Macpherson Crichton entertained at dinner Tuesday evening at their home in H street for their guest, Mrs. Edward du Pont Bradford, of Wilmington, Del. Other guests were Senator and Mrs. Royal S. Copeland, Representative and Mrs. Fred Purnell, Col. and Mrs. Osmun Latrobe, Col. and Mrs. Andrew White, Mrs. Robert E. Lee, Maj. and Mrs. Frank Kennedy, Mrs. Thurston Maitland, Miss Gladys Wood, Mrs. John Burnett, the Secretary of the Jugoslavian Legation, Mr. Nikola Perazic; Mr. O'Connor and Col. Paul Hunt.

Stimpson-Moore Wedding Held in Washington.

In St. Stephen's Episcopal Church yesterday occurred the marriage of Miss Lydia Ann Moore, daughter of Mr. Charles Moore, of Washington, and Mr. William Hubbard Stimpson, with the Rev. Dr. Charles Barnes officiating.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ames, 113 Webster street, and the couple left later for a honeymoon in the North. Upon their return they will be at home at 2950 Thirteenth street northeast.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John E. Moore, wore a wedding gown of satin in old ivory tones, combined with princess lace. It was made with a small yoke and puff sleeves of the lace and a long train. A veil of tulle held with orange blossoms fell to the end of the train. White roses and lilies of the valley formed the bridal bouquet.

Miss Helen G. Turner, the maid of honor, wore green chiffon trimmed with green lace in jacket effect. Her hat was of matching tones and she carried pink roses.

The attendants, Miss Ann Calhoun Ames and Miss Gene Ames, nieces of the bride, wore dainty frocks of pink organdy with large hats of pink horsehair and carried old-fashioned bouquets with streamers of green velvet. Miss Barbara Ames was the flower girl. She wore a dress of green organdy.

Mr. Edwin G. Stimpson, of Baltimore, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Ushers were Mr. Norman Ames, Mr. Robert Miller and Mr. William Molster, of Washington.

Mrs. Charles S. Deneen Is Luncheon Hostess.

Mrs. Charles S. Deneen, wife of Senator Deneen, entertained informally at a luncheon on the Willard Roof yesterday.

Representative Francis Seiberling, of Ohio, has returned to the Mayflower from Akron, where he accompanied Mrs. Seiberling the latter part of the week.

Miss Cecil L. Jones has returned to Washington from Kentucky and joined her mother, Mrs. E. Lester Jones, at the Mayflower. They will spend the next few weeks at their summer home near Norway, Me.

The newly elected president of Goucher College, Dr. David Allen Robertson, is giving a series of lectures this week at Purdue University. Dr. and Mrs. Robertson will leave Washington next week for Baltimore and will make their home in the president's house of the college.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Friedlander will be at home on Sunday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock at their residence, 1825 Irving street, entertaining in honor of their daughter, Miss Helena Friedlander, and Lieut Morris Goldberg, United States Army, whose engagement was announced recently. The wedding will take place on July 14.

Mrs. G. Tinsley Creech and Miss Jean Elizabeth Creech, of Manchester Lane, will leave today for a stay in Atlantic City.

Sorority Members To Hold Picnic.

Washington members of Delta Delta Delta are to meet for a picnic supper at 6 o'clock on Friday at Camp Site, No. 16, in Rock Creek Park. The committee on arrangements consists of Mrs. T. B. Nickson, chairman, and Mrs. W. L. Fulton, Miss Dorothy Ross and Miss Eleanor O'Neal. This will be the last social meeting of Washington Tri-Deltas until fall. Mrs. Fulton, recently re-elected president of Washington Alliance of Delta Delta Delta, will make arrangements for those wishing to attend from her home, 5510 Thirty-third street northwest.

Lieut. John Upston, U. S. A., was among those entertaining at the dinner dance at the Plage Deauville at the Wardman Park Hotel last evening.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

WASHINGTON, though the Capital of the United States, is not leading in the modern trend of equipping schools with radio, two Pennsylvania high schools at Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, having been provided with centralized radio systems, which are believed to be the largest school installations in the United States.

They will radiate not only programs received from broadcasting stations, but the high school teachers also can utilize it to broadcast lessons to a large number of classrooms simultaneously.

The Poughkeepsie intercollegiate regatta will be carried by both networks this afternoon.

The program of Icelandic music tonight may cool things off (WMAL, 8:30 o'clock).

FORMERLY a Mississippi River stevedore, George Dewey Washington, Negro barytone, will add a realistic note to the Mardi Gras tonight (WMAL, 9 o'clock).

Police Commissioner Mulrooney's radio premiere tonight doesn't mean that he is disappointing Mayor Walker by talking too much. It will be at the graduation exercises of the New York police college (WJZ, 9 p. m.).

The finest yodeling since the real Swiss variety was brought to the audience by means of special electrical transcription last New Year's Day is to be heard each Friday evening in a program originating in WCCO, Minneapolis (WMAL, 9:30 p. m.).

There's one employe of the N. B. C. whose initials are W. J. Z. He is William James Zabski, a page.

THE business of trying to impress the radio audience by making them believe they are hearing this or that selection for the first time is rapidly becoming a joke.

"We were listening to a half hour of dance music, originating in a West Coast station, I believe KFI, Los Angeles, when the announcer said that seven selections would be played from new pictures out there —music that had never been played on the radio before—a musical preview, as it were," Don B. Reed, an unofficial observer for this department reports. "Five out of the seven played we had heard on another dance program here in the East a short time before, including 'Promises' and 'Here Comes Jenny Brown.'

"Ahead of each selection the Pacific Coast announcer would repeat that the piece to be played had never been heard before, that special permission had been obtained from the copyright owners and all that sort of stuff. The program was very nice, but we couldn't see any reason for the announcer lying about it."

This voteless community is advised that having been scheduled to receive the Slumber Hour twice a week, Tuesday and Friday (WRC, 10 p. m.) (where last summer we had it five nights) that now we are to be gypped out of half an hour of it each Tuesday night.

THE Prince of Wales will be heard again from London early next month but who is going to know he is actually speaking if he sticks to the royal custom of not allowing any one to announce him?

We still don't know positively whether the prince was the one who told the joke about the Scotchman selling the Scotch scenery and still being able to keep it. Maybe choking off the announcers is a new method of establishing a royal alibi.

An inventor is working on a machine which shuts a radio set off when the advertising talk is started by the announcer.

The designing of a system whereby 200 broadcast stations may be assigned in the space now occupied by one, is claimed by Sydney N. Baruch, of New York.

DR. J. H. DELLINGER, chief of the radio research laboratories of the Bureau of Standards, has sailed for a meeting of the International Electrotechnical Commission, in Copenhagen.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

CHOCOLATE SOUFFLE.
(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

5 eggs.
2 tablespoons flour.
2 tablespoons butter.
¾ cup of milk.
1½ square of unsweetened chocolate.
½ cup of fine dry bread crumbs.
½ cup of sugar.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
¼ teaspoon of salt.

Melt the butter, blend the flour with it, add the milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Melt the chocolate over steam and add the white sauce, together with the bread crumbs and sugar. Add the hot mixture into the stiffly beaten egg whites containing the salt. Bake in a buttered dish in a very moderate oven for 1¼ hours or until the mixture is well set in the center. Serve hot with hard sauce.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Rather an intricate coat is this of beige wool, with its incrustations, brown binding, and the effect of a cape in the back. (Courtesy of Philippe et Gaston, Paris.)

Paris, June 25.

WE don't hear as much these days about getting thin as we used to, but still we get thin once in a while for various reasons and we're always pleased about it. I've just about decided that I won't give going up or down the scales another thought as long as I live, having just shed ten pounds or so for no reason at all and liked it.

But in doing so I was reminded by a lot of silly people that losing weight too rapidly made you flabby, made your face sag and look old and haggard, and things like that. True enough, it sometimes does, and more often with certain types of faces than with others. As to losing weight rapidly for any unusual reason, you can do a great deal to avoid having this be harmful to your face or arms or thighs.

In the first place, you can take a clay or an egg or milk facial every day. Then you can pat those trying-to-be-flabby face muscles into tautness with a flexible whalebone or one of the face patters which work on the same principle, that you can buy anywhere. For your body, you can be faithful with one of those hard rubber or wooden roller things that you manipulate with your hands, which gives you a cetrain amount of exercise as you are doing this, or one of the electric massage machines.

And at night you can pat a plumpening skin food into your face with this same whalebone or patter, and there won't be the ghost of a danger of your face or muscles dragging or looking older. Only, as you know, you have to be faithful to any and all of these things.

• • • •

They seem to cost as much as a whole dress and that always makes you mad. So it's our idea that you actually have a whole dress and a blouse besides for the same money! Chiffon blouses are so lovely for summer—and no wardrobe is complete without a summer chiffon frock. So send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet. With these careful directions you can make a chiffon blouse to wear with your silk tailleur or your light wool suit, and a matching skirt which turns it into a delightful cool and dressy afternoon frock for the warmer days. And there's a vestee pattern that you shouldn't live without! All in one leaflet and all for the same stamped envelope.

In the back a cape effect, on the sleeves incrustations, on the hips the same incrustations—the coat beige with dark brown binding. Philippe et Gaston are coat-famous elsewhere, and this was one of their ideas of coat chic. Like it?

For Him.

The young man may be forgiven for not wearing a morning coat on occasions when it is "the thing to do," but he can not be pardoned if the suit he wears in its place is not black or navy blue, preferably the dark blue. With it, a white shirt and turned down collar, a dark tie matching the suit, and a derby.

ANSWER TO INQUIRIES.

DID YOU think that three-inch potted plants of helianthemums will live and establish themselves on a sunny terrace if the soil is poor? JOANNE McG.

Yes, provided you add some bonemeal to the soil before planting and are careful to keep them well watered.

Am inclosing a portion of the frond of a hardy fern. Please diagnose the trouble. The base of the plant and the top seems to be quite healthy, but the remainder is in the condition of the inclosed frond. A. R. H.

The frond you inclosed was covered with seed cases, which is a natural condition. Do not attempt to dislodge these spores.

Please tell me how to care for a yellow calla when it has finished flowering. Would you advise me to transplant it to the garden when the weather permits? In winter how shall I care for it? CONSTANT READER.

The golden yellow and spotted-leaved callas are not suitable for winter flowering unless you have a greenhouse, as they are really summer flowering varieties. They are very democratic and will do beautifully under the same conditions in which a geranium will flourish. They demand a great deal of moisture during their growing and flowering periods. They are frequently planted about the borders of a pond or stream. Plant the bulb in the garden and before frost lift it and keep it in a palce during the winter where the temperature does not fall below 45 degrees.

(1) Should narcissus that have always bloomed profusely until this year be lifted and replanted? (2) Please tell me the name of the inclosed leaf. I know it is a phlox of some sort. (3) What do you suggest to make a bittersweet vine bloom? (4) When is the best time to divide pyrethrums? (5) Do tuberous begonias like leafmold? (6) I have some lilies-of-the-valley which had very small flowers this year. Do you think this is a sign that they should be transplanted? (7) Please suggest some annuals for planting in front of a porch. (8) Please suggest a ground cover plant or vine for planting under a tree. MRS. CHARLES H.

(1) Yes, but be sure to add some bonemeal to the soil before planting the bulbs. (2) I am sorry, but it is impossible to identify a variety of phlox from a single leaf. (3) Try stimulation, either by liquid manure or bonemeal. Also keep the vine well watered and occasionally turn over the surface soil about its roots. (4) Divide the plants in the spring. (5) Yes. They also do best in semi-shade. (6) Yes, lift and divide them at any time before frost. Better add some bonemeal to the soil before planting. (7) I think zinnias are well fitted for such a location, although if you can afford it some permanent form of foundation planting is better. (8) Japanesee spurge (pachysandra is one of the best and surely one of the most decorative ground cover plants.

I have just purchased a most beautiful pandanus. I have it on my sun porch, where it gets light from the north and west. Is that a suitable place or does it require more sun? I could place it on the open part of the porch if you think it best. How often should it be watered? MRS. FREDERICK B. S.

Keep your pandanus outside in summer. Do not remove it from its pot, but place it in the sun and water it every day. Also spray it once a week with cold, soapy water.

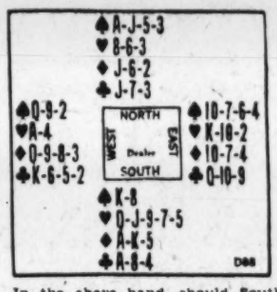
WORK ON BRIDGE

A. WELL-PLAYED HAND.



In the above hand, should South bid two Hearts or two No Trumps? His hand justifies either declaration; it contains more than six tricks, three of them high-card tricks, and so is a two-Heart bid; it counts 17 with four suits stopped, and so qualifies for a No Trump. In the duplicate Contract contest at Philadelphia in which it was played, about one-half of the South players selected Hearts, and about one-half No Trump, all bidding up to game.

The success of the contract hinged upon West's first card. If he led a Diamond, either three No Trumps or four Hearts could be made; if a Club, either contract would be defeated.

When choosing between two four-card suits, one headed by King and the other by Queen, neither containing another honor, and the small cards about the same size, the King-suit should be led against a No Trump, the Queen-suit against a trump; so when this principle was followed the Declarers who had guessed Hearts succeeded, and those who had guessed No Trump failed.

However, many of the leaders prefererd to open a Diamond against a No Trumps because the Queen of Diamonds was accompanied by the Nine and Eight, while the next Club below the King was the Six. Most experts would select the Diamond, but in this case the preferred play would fail.

With the Diamond led and Hearts the trump, North won with the Jack and led a Heart. West won with the Ace and shifted to Clubs. East finessed, forcing South's Ace. As continuing Hearts would result in the loss of two Hearts and two Clubs, the clever play was to lead the King and the small Spade, finessing in dummy. When the finesse won, the Ace of Spades was led and a Club discard obtained. After this the trumps were continued. The Spade finesse might have thrown away a trick, but it afforded the only chance for game.

At No Trump, with the Jack of Diamonds taking the first trick and the Ace of Hearts the second, South made game by holding up the Ace of Clubs until the third round.

Miss Berenice Helene Simon, daughter of Mrs. Louis Simon, of Washington, was married last night at 7 o'clock at the Mayflower Hotel to Mr Merryle Stanley Rukeyser, son of Mrs. Isaac Rukeyser, of New York. Friends and relatives were present at the ceremony, which was performed by Dr. Abram Simon, of Washington, and Dr. Nathan Krass, of New York.

Mr. James H. Simon gave his sister in marriage. The bride wore a gown of old ivory satin made in mid-Victorian style with bertha and train of the same material. Her veil, of rare old rose point and duchesse lace, was arranged in cap effect, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Flora Lyon, of Washington, was maid of honor, wearing a heaven blue lace gown and carrying talisman roses. The matron of honor, Mrs. Charles G. Robin, of New York, sister of the bridegroom, was attired in a gown of sunset embroidered silk net, and carried a bouquet of delphinium.

The bridesmaids were Miss Bertha Meyer and Miss Ruth Simon, of Washington; Miss Jane Oppenheimer, of Philadelphia, and Miss Alice Ruth Greenwald, of Chicago. Their frocks of sunset tulle appliqued with handmade taffeta flowers of sunset and blue, were made in the bouffant style. They carried bouquets of delphinium and African daisies. Miss Jane Simon, who wore a sunset georgette dress, acted as flower girl.

Mr. Elliott W. Sanger, of New York, was best man. The ushers included Mr. Julian Rosenberg, Mr. Charles Robin, Mr. Ira Goldstein, Dr. David Granger, Mr. Milton Samuels, Mr. Noah Solomon, Mr. Lawrence Rukeyser, Mr. Morton Blumenthal and Mr. Harold Rosenheim, of New York, and Mr. Morris Simon, of Washington.

The couple went South on a short honeymoon and on their return will reside in New York.

The bride attended Goucher College and has been active in social service work in Washington.

Mr. Rukeyser, a graduate of Columbia University, is a member of the faculty of that institution, and is a financial writer for newspapers and magazines. Mr. Rukeyser is a member of the Columbia University Club, the Columbia Faculty Club and the Newspaper Club of New York, and is an honorary member of Sigma Delta Chi. He is author of several books.

Mrs. John R. Williams Leaves Capital Today.

Mrs. John R. Williams will go today to Beverly Farms, Mass., where she has a cottage. Over the Fourth of July holiday Mrs. Williams will be hostess to a house party, entertaining at Edgewater Beach, seaside estate of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter, which is just across the way from her own little cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Leiter are at present in Europe. Among Mrs. Williams' guests will be Dr. and Mrs. Harry Kerr, Mrs. Kenna Elkins, Mrs. Joseph Noell and her son, Joseph Noell, jr.; Mrs. Ormsby McCammon and her son, Joseph McCammon, all of Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. Huston Rawls, of New York, with Mrs. Rawls' sons, John and Duncan Pitney. Mrs. Rawls is Mrs. Williams' daughter.

TARIFF BARRIER HIT AT ROTARY SESSION

Sir Henry Worth Thornton Cites Menace to Peace at Chicago Jubilee.

ELECTIONS TO BE TODAY

Chicago, June 25 (A.P.).—International reactions to American foreign policies were paraded today in a frank discussion by Sir Henry Worth Thornton, chairman of the Canadian National Railways, before several thousand delegates and visitors to the Rotary International's silver jubilee anniversary.

He said the sole bleak spot on the horizon of international peace was modern industry's competition in seeking adequate market outlets for production. This he called the "real menace" to world peace.

Following Sir Henry's address, the nominating committee reported the names of Raymond J. Knoeppel, New York attorney, and of Almon E. Roth, business manager of Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif., as candidates for the presidency. Ten men were nominated for the five American places on the directorate of Rotary International. Elections will be held tomorrow with the result to be announced Friday.

The international aspects of the convention will be increased tomorrow with the address of Prince Ivesato Tokugawa, president of the Japanese House of Peers and a delegate to the Washington naval conference of 1922. The prince is expected to discuss Japanese attitude on disarmament.

In his address today Sir Henry marshalled his native tact in dealing frankly with a subject closely affecting all the countries in which Rotary Clubs are organized. He warned his audience that modern industry should use care in driving through tariff barriers and national pride and said that Washington, were he alive, might change his ideas about foreign entanglements.

"Today signs are not wanting of the effect of tariff barriers upon international political and commercial relations," he said. "I have no opinion to express, or criticism to make of the commercial or trade policies of any nation, but he is a poor observer who does not recognize and assess their effects on international relations."

Today's convention program closed with a ball tonight honoring President and Mrs. Eugene Newsom, of Durham, N. C.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

A printed dimity that is just as smart as it is simple and practical.

To be certain, it flares its skirt and marks the joining of the bodice in curved seaming.

The rever neckline and cuffs of short sleeves offers splendid opportunity for contrast.

To make it: Close shoulder and side seams of the two-piece bodice and attach the two-piece skirt. Cut through perforated line from neck at center-front. Underface and roll with collar into revers. Stitch cuffs to kimono sleeves and it's finished.

Style No. 526 may be had in sizes 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. It takes but 2 yards of 32-inch material with ⅝ yard of 27-inch contrasting for the 8 year size.

Pique, gingham, tub silk, linen and printed lawn are very cute ideas for its development.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Address Fashion Dept., Washington Post, 289 Fifth Ave. New York City.

With NELSON B. BELL

It seems to me a strange anomaly that a picture so preponderantly about men, so largely enacted by men and so vigorously appealing to masculine audiences as "The Big House," opening at the Columbia on Saturday, should have been written by a woman. This is what is customarily known in the trade as "a man's picture," yet it was written by Frances Marion, one of the most deft of the screen's feminine scenarists.

Although "Mike" Cullen, majority vote of the Loew interests in the Capital, went to considerable trouble to run off this engrossing close-up of the penitentiaries and the jailbreaks at the earliest hour it was possible to hit upon last Tuesday morning—12:01 a. m.—for the benefit of one of the smallest matutinal audiences of record, it still will be no part of the purpose of this column to review this M-G-M release so far in advance as this.

It may, nevertheless, be said that "The Big House" is the first one of its kind and may unfailingly be relied upon to set a fashion in grim drama that will find itself perpetuated by a long line of similar productions. From the first dully monotonous thud of the lockstep, during the flashing of the main title, to the final fadeout, after some of the most horrendous action ever caught by the cameras, your eye is pretty apt not to wander away from that silver sheet.

An aspect of the picture that impresses me even beyond the skill of the three splendid actors cast in the trilogy of stellar roles, is the skill with which the producers have assembled a prison yard full of convict types—to the number of some 3,000—so admirably chosen as to create a vivid and realistic effect of actuality.

That is, in so far as some of us who have never enjoyed a term in the penitentiary are able to judge!

As an easy means of replying to numerous phone calls and personal inquiries that have come to this desk the last few days, it might be well to say here that the Warner Brothers new Apollo Theater in Northeast Washington is the same one announced in this, and Mr. Cahill's real estate, department of The Post on April 24.

And while we are on the topic, it might be well to remind you that there are still more new theaters to come for Washington—some in the residential precincts of the city, others in the big, downtown, first-run area. And, according to our ear-to-the-ground department, they are not all necessarily to be Warner Brothers projects, at that.

When Esther Ralston takes possession of the stage as special added attraction at the Earle Theater tomorrow, I trust she may see fit to appear in the pajama costume in which she is shown parading Fifth avenue, New York, with Jack Osterman in a news picture that has just come to the rotogravure editor. Since the usually suave and composed Mr. Osterman looks just a little silly and self-conscious, it will perhaps be just as well that he is not to be present.

It just goes to show the power of example, or something.

The fact that this pyramid of paragraphs seems to deal principally with the Warner Brothers, their joys and sorrows, hopes, fears and inhibitions, if any, is no doubt to be attributed to receipt in today's mail of my regular subscriber's copy of Variety and an additional complimentary copy from the publisher—the two of which together I can hardly lift—dedicated to the Warner Brothers and First National pictures and personnel.

There are 260 pages in this cumbersome issue, the greater part of them devoted to the Warner interests and their representatives in various parts of the country. Many of the company's leaders are photographically emblazoned upon the various pages, among them John J. Payette, general manager for W. B., in the District, Maryland, Virginia and a part of West Virginia.

If one were to read this issue of Variety from cover to cover—heaven forbid!—he would know more about the Warner boys than they know themselves.

Next week's attractions, while we think of it, will be as follows: Columbia, Wallace Beery, Robert Montgomery, Chester Morris and Leila Hyams in "The Big House"; Earle, Billie Dove in "A Notorious Affair" and Esther Ralston in person; Fox, Lois Moran and Walter Byron in "Not Damaged;" R-K-O Keith's, Lowell Sherman and Betty Compson in "Midnight Mystery;" Palace, Dolores Del Rio and Edmund Lowe in "The Bad One;" Metropolitan, Bernice Claire and Raymond Hackett in "Numbered Men."

I see the commissioners have joined the rest of us in giving three hearty jeers for the Michaelson bill!

What Today Means to You

"CANCER."

IF June 26 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to noon, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.

A change is prophesied for this date, which will inure to your financial benefit. Old ties will be broken and new ones will be begun. Push affairs during the morning hours, as an element of danger is foreseen later in the day, when the influences change color.

The child born on this June 26 will have positive virtues, a decided little mind of its own, high spirits and enterprise. It will make impulsive plunges, but will extricate itself from its own muddles with fortitude. It will be rather domineering with its playmates.

You ought to make your sojourn through life an interesting, a happy and successful one, as nature has given you the tools with which to hew your way. You have the determination to turn the "oughts" of your life into facts. You sense the beautiful things in life, the things to which so many are blind, sunsets, views, bird-songs, flower gardens, and the hundred and one things which are free to all.

You have an independent mind—it is not simply a parking place for any one's spare opinions. You so positively know what you like and what you do not like; your convictions are not wobbly ones. You are keen about things, never half-hearted. Your cheerful mind triumphs, for it coaquers doubts and difficulties which depress other people, and carries you through your daily work sleanly and gayly. It may almost be said that you do not know fear, you are so self-confident and so hopeful. You have a sane and healthy optimism. Your common sense would prevent your chasing rainbows.

Your love of ownership is very pronounced, and you are apt to become too fond of mere "things," which will tie you down at very fatal moments. This is probably your one big weakness; sense and sentiment within you are often at war with each other. You have a very tenacious moral character, deep affections, with occasional glimpses of jealousy.

Successful people born June 26:

1—Thomas Clap, president of Yale College.

2—George Bruce, type founder.

3—George W. Flagg, artist.

4—Thomas W. Knox, author, traveler and inventor.

5—Sir Robert L. Borden, Canadian premier.

6—Frieda Hempel, actress, operatic soprano.

Youth Gives Alibi In Theft Charges

Floridian Is Held Following Report of Robberies in Hotel in Capital.

Information secured by police yesterday tended to establish an alibi for William L. Curry, 19 years old, a salesman, of Tampa, Fla., who was taken in custody in connection with the report of two robberies at the Powhatan Hotel.

The salesman, a guest at the hotel, was taken in custody, it was reported, after Miss Mabel Anderson, of Duluth, Minn., and Miss Mary Lewis, of Moose Lake, Minn., are said to have identified him as having entered and purloined two purses and a wrist watch from their rooms. A young woman guest, however, told police that she had invited the salesman to her rooms for breakfast and he was looking for his hostess' room, according to his story, when he was accused by a bell boy and arrested.

Detectives declared that a search of Curry's room revealed a revolver and an amount of money equal to the amount reported stolen from the purses of the two complaining women guests.

Virginia Farmer Killed by Train

H. W. Grimm Fatally Hurt in Crash at Crossing Near Leesburg.

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., June 25.—H. W. Grimm, 35 years old, a tenant farmer, was fatally injured at 6 o'clock tonight when his truck was hit by an eastbound Washington & Old Dominion train at a crossing a half mile from here. A fractured skull and numerous body injuries caused his death at the Loudoun Hospital an hour later.

Grimm, who lived on the farm of Dr. R. E. Caldwell, near Clarksgap, was on the way home at the time of the accident.

A native of Frederick County, Grimm had lived on the farm since January of this year. He leaves a wife and two small children. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

Baptists Hold Excursion.

The nineteenth annual excursion of the Fifth Baptist Sunday School, Sixth and E streets southwest, was held yesterday at Marshall Hall.

POLICE DISCIPLINE METHODS ALTERED

Minor Infractions of Rules Will Be Dealt With by Captains.

SCHEME NOW EFFECTIVE

Minor infractions of discipline or regulations by policemen hereafter will be dealt with by their commanding officers under a new scheme approved yesterday by the District Commissioners on recommendation of Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police.

The proposal to simplify the punitive machinery of the Police Department was made several weeks ago by Maj. Pratt and it met with the immediate approval of Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby. Under the new scheme precinct and bureau commanders are constituted summary trial boards to deal with minor infractions of regulations and discipline by the members of their command.

They may impose penalties in the form of reprimands, which shall be noted on the record of the policeman, forfeiture of leave of absence not to exceed five days in any one case, or fines not to exceed $25 in any one case.

The decisions of the precinct and bureau commanders would be subject to review by the superintendent of police, who now has no authority of review of the decisions of the Police Trial Board, and the superintendent's approval shall make findings of the trial commander final and conclusive unless the convicted officer appeals, in which case the major and superintendent shall send the case to the full trial board, after which it will follow the usual course, and only the Commissioners shall have power of review, and they may only soften the trial board verdict and may not increase the severity of the punishment meted out by the trial board.

The new scheme was made effective immediately in the Commissioners' order. It is one of several proposals by Maj. Pratt for the improvement of discipline in the department. A few days ago the Commissioners approved the recommendation that conviction of certain offenses, including taking of a drink of liquor, shall be punished by dismissal from the Police Force.

Events of the War 13 Years Ago Today

JUNE 26, 1917.

The Senate rewrote the food bill giving President Wilson additional powers on the "liquor" question.

German forces withdrew from 2 miles of trenches in the Lens district.

The new export council decided to license all cargoes going abroad.

United States Navy began search for German U-boat base, reported in Cuba.

4,500 AT NAVY YARD TO GET DOCKED PAY

Joint Resolution Passed by House to Reimburse Inaugural Loss.

SENT TO WHITE HOUSE

The joint resolution to reimburse 4,500 navy yard workers here for the $6 each was docked last Inauguration Day, was adopted by the House yesterday and sent to the President for his signature.

The resolution, which was adopted by the Senate several weeks ago, would have gone through the House before, but Representative Blanton (Democrat), of Texas, objected to it.

The per diem workers at the navy yard, together with a few at the Naval Air Station, in Anacostia, and at the Naval Reserve Laboratory at Bellevue, were the only Government employes who failed to draw pay for the time they were off on March 4, 1929.

Parking Law Violation Admitted by Policeman

Judge Ralph Given in Traffic Court yesterday took under advisement charges of illegal parking brought against Traffic Policeman Vance V. Vaughn by Policeman J. E. O'Neill, of the Thirteenth Precinct.

Vaughn is alleged to have parked his motorcycle at a 45-degree angle at Georgia avenue and Colorado avenue last Saturday. The traffic policeman pleaded guilty and declared he had not violated the spirit of the law, asserting that his vehicle did not take up any more space than an automobile parked 6 inches from the curb.

Man's Name Wins Him Light Fine for Speeding

Philip H. Keys, of Tenth street northwest near O street, drew a lenient fine in Traffic Court yesterday, all because he was arrested on Key Bridge on a speeding charge.

Keys, who was arrested by Policeman J. E. Fondahl, of the Traffic Bureau, was charged with making 38 miles an hour. Judge Ralph Given remarked that due to the similarity of the defendant's name and the designation of the stretch over which the alleged infraction was said to have occurred that he would make the fine $5 for a first offense instead of the customary $10.

THE GIRL IN THE AIR

BY JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER XII.

The barn in which Susie, the amphibian, had been since Hugh Temple's disappearance was not more than 20 minutes ride from Curtiss Field. Tolbert, Dick and the two detectives drew up before the abandoned building and with the aid of flashlights threw back the two wide swinging doors and entered.

Tolbert grunted curiously as he saw the orderliness in which the plane had been put away. A wing ran parallel with the fuselage on either side and the king-pins hung by a wire from the cabin door handle. The canvas covers had been carefully fitted over the propeller blades neatly tied at the hub.

"Whoever put her away," Tolbert mused, "had more than the average respect for planes. Temple himself couldn't have done it any better."

"That's the way we doped it out, Mr. Tolbert," the older of the two detectives informed him. "It's the work of an expert. I'd say that the man who put this airplane in storage had a soft spot in his heart for this particular plane. Of course, I'm not saying——"

"Let's not beat around the bush," Tolbert interrupted. "You men are on this case to determine the truth, if possible, and state frankly your suspicions. From what I've told you about Temple's affection for the amphibian you conclude that he himself dismantled her. Is that right?"

The detective nodded hesitantly. "Well . . . yes. That's about the way it looks, Mr. Tolbert."

"And," Tolbert resumed, "that being true, it is only reasonable to suspect that Temple, and not bandits, went off with the money. Do you agree."

Again the detective nodded. "What sort was this Temple?" he asked Tolbert. "I mean, aside from what we've seen here, is there anything that might make you think he did this job?"

Tolbert did not answer at once. When he did, he seemed to be feeling his way, trying on the one hand to give the detectives the benefit of his own reasoning and, on the other, striving to be fair to Temple. "My son here," indicating Dick, "will tell you that Temple was honesty itself. More than that, he will remind me that Temple had no more use for money than I have for a snake farm, and would have kept more to his character had he run away with the amphibian and left the money in the barn."

Dick strolled out of the barn and joined the group of mechanics engaged in replacing Susie's wings.

Tolbert said in a low voice: "The boy's a good bit hurt by all this. He and Temple were rather thick." He stared after his son for a moment, then turned back to the detectives. "However, gentlemen, there's something to put down in your book. The fact that Temple's best friend is ready to hear evidence against him is significant."

It was after 3 o'clock when the amphibian was finally put into a hanger at Curtiss Field and Tolbert and Dick bade good night to the detectives. Beyond saying that they would post a guard to watch the old barn where the plane had been hidden, the detectives revealed nothing of their plans. It was possible, they said, that some one might go back to the barn, in which case either the guilty or an important witness would be turned over to the police.

Riding to the city in a taxi, Tolbert said to his son: "I'm sorry I've had to upset your faith in Temple, my boy; but there's a large sum of money involved and I can't afford to let sentiment interfere with business."

"Dick turned this over in his mind before he answered: "I've got to be man enough to see things squarely, Dad, even though they hurt." He drew heavily on a cigarette and blew a cloud of smoke against the dim light in the taxi top. "But it's an uncomfortable thing to face when you stop to think that Hugh wouldn't take the same attitude toward me if the situation were reversed."

"I don't think I understand . . ."

"Oh, you know Hugh's style. No matter what sort of difficulty I might get in he'd swear I was right and the world was wrong. What's more, he'd die by his oath to that effect."

Tolbert said evenly: "Loyalty is a fine thing, Dick; but blind loyalty doesn't get us anywhere. I prefer absolute honesty in all things.

". . . Which reminds me, son,"—Tolbert put a hand on Dick's knee companionably—"are you being entirely honest with Miss Decker?"

Dick turned on his father as if he had been cut with the lash of a whip. "With Janet?" he asked sharply. "I haven't had any relations with her one way or the other. Certainly there hasn't been an opportunity to be dishonest with her. What are you driving at?" His voice was challenging, but his eyes moved from one object to another nervously.

"At nothing, son. I'm merely asking you a casual question. She's entirely too attractive to ignore, and—if you'll pardon my mentioning it—I've seen you gazing at the child as I've never seen you gaze at Helen Morgan." He chuckled softly. "Bored, son, I don't blame you. She's really a masterpiece . . . not so fine and fragile as Helen, perhaps; but a wholesome, animated beauty for all that. And she's full of good horse sense, Dick. Why, damn it . . . I could fall in love with the girl myself if she wasn't so discouragingly young."

Dick could not resist a hearty laugh. "And yet you've the nerve to warn me against her," he chided amiably.

"Nothing of the kind," Tolbert declared. "I'm warning you against yourself. You're engaged to one young woman, and an engagement, for all the poppycock of the modern ideas, presupposes love. If you love Helen, you must let Miss Decker understand as much, son. If you don't love Helen—but I'm getting deeper all the time," he snapped suddenly. "The point is, you can't be married to but one woman at a time, Dick, and you've got to make a choice."

"I say," Dick protested, "you're jumping at conclusions, aren't you, Dod? I'm engaged to Helen, as you say, and the natural assumption is that I wouldn't be engaged to her if I didn't love her. But there's no reason why I can't love Helen and at the same time be civil to Janet."

Tolbert replied gravely: "Of course not, boy. It isn't a question of privilege. I'm thinking about Miss Decker. Suppose she mistakes your attentions—merely civil attentions, mind you—for gestures of affection and as a result falls in love with you? . . . Do you see what I'm getting at, Dick?"

Dick moved uneasily. "Oh, I suppose so," he said sullenly. "The hell of it is that falling in love with Janet is the logical thing to do when you've been around her a day or two. I certainly wish harems were customary in America."

Just outside the revolving door of the hotel Janet stood for a moment to be sure of her directions, then went off at a run toward Forty-fourth street. And as she ran she put a hundred natural questions to herself as to her actions once she had found the hotel and the public telephone booths in it.

Should she rush in and grab the man by the coat tail and scream for help? Would any one believe her when she told them he was an air bandit, that he had practically admitted that he was holding a man for ransom? And even if she could persuade them that he was a criminal, could she prove it in court?

Moreover, there was the possibility that the man might attack her before she could get help. Even at this hour of the night there would be some one in the hotel lobby, but there was no assurance that the man wouldn't injure her, or even kill her, before those about realized what was taking place.

That, Janet told herself, was cowardice. Whether he hurt her was of no importance. This man knew where Temple was and if she could get him in the hands of the police he might be made to talk.

She ran on, breathless, spurred on by the fear that she would be too late. And then, before she realized it, she had halted suddenly before a conservative sign and was entering the Fourty-fourth Street Hotel.

The lobby was practically deserted. An elderly man sat in a deep chair against the left wall, reading a newspaper. Behind the desk a clerk was inserting a fresh leaf into the register. Neither appeared to see Janet as she stood just within the door, her determined eyes sweeping the lobby in search of the telephone booths.

At last she found them, three booths set back in a little alcove from the main lobby. Slowly she moved toward them, her nerves taut. And then as she came near enough to see through the glass doors she experienced the sensation of having all the strength seep out through her toes. There was a man in each of the three booths.

She sank weakly into the nearest chair and gazed at the three silhouettes behind the glass doors. "Of all the thick-headed saps," she told herself severely, "I'm the worst. Within ten feet of me are three men. Two of them, as far as I know, are innocent of any wrongdoing. The other is a criminal and knows at this second where Hugh Temple is. But which is he?"

Even as she asked the question the booth on the right opened and a young man came out, a nattily dressed young man with a cane hung on one arm and a pair of light gloves held in the other hand. He glanced at Janet indifferently and walked out of the hotel.

Had she let the bandit go?

Then the center booth door swung back and in, like a hinge, and a man barely past middle age stepped out and stood for a moment to count his change. He was modestly but neatly dressed. Janet thought that he was more like a harassed married man than a robber and a kidnaper.

"Still, I don't know," she thought, confused. "How should a bandit look, I wonder? He won't wear a mask and carry a gun; that's certain. And the chances are he'll look like anything but what I expect him to. What an idiot I was to come racing around here without figuring there might be more than one man in the booths!"

The man who came out of the booth on the left was in the neighborhood of 45 years of age. He was dressed in excellent taste, but had a certain air of the outdoors about him; very much, Janet thought, as Tom Mix would look on Broadway. He was quite tall and noticeably thin, his arms hanging limply at his sides and accentuating his height.

Here, Janet decided, was a man from the great open spaces come to New York on an annual orgy of shows and night clubs.

He passed quite close to her as he walked toward the street door, and as one lean hand swung by on a level with her gaze she realized with a start that two of its fingers were missing.

Janet leaned back in her chair and closed her eyes. "Ye gods! I'm getting soft," she thought. "All my life I've seen men who have lost fingers in the shops at home, but just because I happen to be thinking about criminals this man's shortage of fingers gives me the creeps. I'd better go back and go to bed. Maybe a little sleep will give me a hold on my nerves again."

Disgusted that she had come within reaching distance of the man who had tried to get Tolbert on the telephone, without being able to identify him, Janet went out and started back to her own hotel less than two squares away.

Forty-fourth street was emty save for a dark and apparently deserted automobile that stood by the curb, and a small, bareheaded figure that leaned against a building half a square away. This, thought Janet, was New York at low ebb. In less than an hour the street would be filled with traffic, and by daylight would be alive with human beings and vehicles.

She wondered if the boy leaning against the building ahead was a newsboy and whether he had been all night in the street or was waiting for his papers; but she had little opportunity to pursue this thought for the youngster suddenly gave a startled cry and started running toward her.

Instinctively she halted in her tracks. The boy screamed: "He's behind you! Run!"

She wanted to run, then. A wild, weird note in the boy's frantic cry made her feel that some unseen monster was swooping down upon her from behind. But her legs were suddenly like lead.

And then her arms were pinned to her sides and a rough, bruising hand was clapped over her mouth, and, she realized with a deep sense of nausea, from which two fingers were missing.

KOOLMOTOR
the original high test, anti-knock green gas combines them all in ONE!

SOME gasolenes are built to make a showy effect in starting—some in pick-up—some in anti-knock performance. Unfortunately these effects are produced at the sacrifice of other phases of performance equally important.

Koolmotor, the original high test, anti-knock green gas, combines the best points of all gasolenes in one superior motor fuel.

Koolmotor — the gas that is good throughout—excels in all the 11 points of gasolene quality. It is laboratory tested 11 times in the most exhaustive tests ever given any gasolene — tests for starting, acceleration, anti-knock, power, vapor pressure, odor, corrosion, sulphur, gum content, distillation, and mileage.

You don't have to try 11 different gasolenes to get the good points of each. They're all combined in one; Koolmotor, the gas that gives you the greatest mile-by-mile performance money can buy — one gasolene that really justifies its premium price.

I know—but with Wilma—well—all right—I'll try it.
I sent Hancock to Wilma with a message.
Well, he can just stay in his office and talk to himself.
But this is official! The captain says to report to him at once!
My scheme got me a chance to talk to Wilma, but—
Wilma, won't you please let me explain?
I am not interested in your personal matters, sir. Since you have no official commands for me, I beg to be excused!

WASHINGTON'S GIANTS FAVORED IN CREW CLASSIC

Close Battle Expected Today

Navy and California Rated Chief Contenders in Test.

Rivals Awaiting 33d Annual Race at Poughkeepsie.

By TED VOSBURGH.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 25 (A.P.).—On the eve of the thirty-third annual battle of oars on the Hudson, the word that was passed along from camp to camp on both banks of the river tonight was a warning to "Watch Washington."

The slogan has a familiar ring. For nearly a decade the huskies from Seattle have more than held their own against the combined assaults of rivals from the East, Middle West and even their own Pacific slope.

First under Ed Leader, then under Rusty Callow and now under young Al Ubreckson, the tall Redwoods of the Northwest have rolled up a record of finishing either first or second every year but one since 1922, and they have come East this season with a varsity crew that has yet to taste defeat.

Washington Crew Of Giants.

Probably never in the long history of this Intercollegiate Rowing Association Regatta, that goes back to 1895, has a crew appeared on the Hudson built on such gargantuan lines as this Washington varsity. Amazingly tall, the crew contains one man who is 6 feet 5 inches, another who is 6 feet 4, and none who is less than 6 feet 1½. The average height is 6 feet 3 and the average weight in the pink of physical condition is 179.

This giant eight is boated in a supershell that is regarded as the finest piece of rowing furniture ever launched. Built of polished Alaska cedar, the craft rides low in the water and takes the wavelets like a bird. The Washington shell is almost white in color instead of the usual mahogany-red and its sides are so paper-thin as to be slightly translucent.

In this boat, dubbed the "Pay Streak," six of the same men who rowed second to Columbia last year, reinforced by two giant sophomores, will defend their position of favorite against eight rivals, all of whom figure that to beat the huskies is to win the race.

Navy Seen as Chief Rival.

The Washington oarsmen themselves appear to feel that their principal opposition will come from their old rivals from the Naval Academy, who have a perfectly balanced eight, combining rugged power with fluid smoothness. There is little concern in the Washington camp over California, but the Golden Bears, with a crew that is brawny if none too smooth, believe they can beat the husky eight that trimmed them by a bare fifth of a second when they raced for Pacific Coast supremacy more than two months back.

Columbia, under young Rich Glendon, shares with the Navy, coached by his father, the honor of being the principal Eastern standard bearer against the West. Four of last year's champions are still on deck and with them are four members of the strong junior varsity of 1929.

Of the other five contestants, Cornell, Syracuse and Pennsylvania have not won here in a varsity event since the World War, and Wisconsin and Massachusetts Tech have yet to finish first. A victory for any of the five would be an upset, but the general standard of rowing quality this year is high and there is not a really bad-looking crew on the river. All the advance dope points to a close and hard-fought race in the 4-mile main event.

Huskies Aim for Clean Sweep.

Washington, unbeaten in junior varsity and freshman classes as well, is among the favorites in all three events and cherishes some hopes of achieving a clean sweep.

Other strong contenders in the junior varsity class are Cornell and the Navy. The freshman race, with its eight entrants, is as wide open as the varsity, but the Navy, Washington and Cornell have made probably the best records in earlier competition.

Forecasts tonight were for fair weather, and all hands were hoping for smooth water with a view to preventing a repetition of last year's race, when the crews finished in semi-darkness and four out of nine were swamped by rough water, the officials promise to adhere to the starting schedule, which calls for the freshman race at 2:30 (Eastern standard time), the junior varsity at 3:30 and the varsity an hour later.

College Golf Field Now Cut to Eight Men

Oakmont, Pa., June 25 (A.P.).—Two 18-hole rounds today swept 24 college golfers out of the intercollegiate championship and left a sturdy band of eight to carry on over the longer 36-hole route, beginning with the quarter finals tomorrow.

The competition continued to furnish wide variety with seven institutions represented in the last eight. Only Harvard had two players still in the running. Phil Finlay and Charlie Eaton, of the Crimsons, won two matches, and the others to hurdle the two rounds were Sam Perry, Alabama; Larry Moller, Notre Dame; Marshall Forrest, runner-up last year, Yale; Winston Fuller, Southern California; George T. Dunlap, Princeton, and Sam Parks, Pittsburgh.

ASHER WINS CLUB GOLF TOURNEY

Card of 72 Is Best in Racquet Clubs Annual Play.

CLYDE B. ASHER, who won the low gross prize in the recent golf tournaments of the District Bankers Association and the Rotary Club, yesterday added to his string of victories when he annexed the handsome silver trophy offered for the low gross score in the annual tournament of the Racquet Club, played on the course of the Manor Club.

More than fifty members of the Racquet Club, with some 20 or more guests, participated in the competition, which was a round of eighteen holes, medal play, with handicap allowance.

Asher played steady and consistent golf, as shown by his card of 36—36—72, one stroke over par. He had no less than thirteen holes in par, being one over on the fifth, twelfth and fourteenth holes, where shots were missed, but he had birdies on the seventh and fifteenth. He was even par for the first nine and one over on the second. His card:

Out ..... 5 3 4 4 5 4 3 3 5—36
In ..... 4 3 5 4 5 4 4 3 4—36—72

A. W. Howard, despite the fact that he plays golf with only one arm, won the first low net prize with a card of 85—20—65. There was a tie for second low net between Hugh Mackenzie, 83—15—68, and Frank P. Wilcox, 92—24—68. Charles T. Clagett and Ray F. Garrity missed out with net 69s. There were other prizes, including one for the best-dressed golfer and one for the contestant scoring the greatest number of pars, the decision on these two important matters not having been reached when the tournament adjourned last night. However, Ray Semmes received a box of balls for the highest score, 65—59—124, and John Brewer won a prize for the highest score on any one hole—appropriately thirteen strokes on the

Lipton Is Confident His Yacht Will Win

Glasgow, June 25 (A.P.).—Sir Thomas Lipton, on his arrival here today, expressed confidence in the ability of his Shamrock V to lift the America's Cup this September in the races off Newport, R. I.

"I think I can manage to wrest the cup from my American friends," said the Irish sportsman, "I have a big secret in store for them but I am not going to say anything about it until my yacht arrives at Sandy Hook."

Referring to the fact that Charles Francis Adams, now American Secretary of the Navy, had sailed the Resolute to victory over Shamrock IV in 1920, Sir Thomas added:

"He will be competing against me this year again, but I am determined to beat him on this occasion."

McCarthy, Hilltop Star, Joins Toronto

Special to The Washington Post.

Boston, Mass., June 25.—Ralph McCarthy, hard-hitting centerfielder and captain of the Georgetown University Nine the past spring, has signed to play with the Toronto Club of the International League, it was learned here today. McCarthy resides in Peabody, a Boston suburb.

McCarthy, who graduated June 10, starred for Georgetown for three years and finished the 1930 collegiate season with a batting mark of .427, which ranked him second to Jim Shevlin, of Holy Cross, in Eastern circles. He hit safely forty-seven times in 110 trips to the plate.

American Colt Third In English Stake Race

Newbury, England, June 25 (A.P.). Forum II, owned by C. J. Ryan's Oakridge Stable, finished third in the Netheravon Maiden Plate, a race for 3-year-olds over a mile and a half, here today. The American-owned colt was quoted at 20 to 1.

The Oakridge colt, which was sent abroad last fall, along with the speedy Chestnut Oak and others of Ryan's stable, finished a neck back of Lord Fairhaven's Bay of Acre, which was held at 7 to 1, which in turn was beaten only a head by the winner, W. Murray's Kilkenny at 100 to 8.

COAST STAR WINS FROM MITCHELL

G. U. Netman Loses in College Tennis by 6-3, 6-4.

Special to The Washington Post.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 25.—Dennison Mitchell, of Georgetown, Washington, D. C., public courts luminary, put up a game but losing battle in the fourth round match with Elbert Lewis, California University netman, in the national intercollegiate tennis championships on the Merion Cricket Club courts here today.

The teammate of Gregory Mangin, stellar performer who is playing in the British championships at present, was eliminated by the scores of 6—3, 6—4.

Mitchell started well and put up an even battle in the first four games of the opening set. Lewis, however, was in rare form and succeeded in reeling off four straight games to run out the set.

The Hilltopper representative again started giving the Westerner trouble in the second set, but it was the same story with Lewis proving steadier and stronger toward the finish and clinching the set.

Mitchell Fights Hard.

Mitchell threw caution to the wind in his endeavor to reach the quarter-final round. He drove hard and tried many daring placements. Lewis was steady and covered the court well, besides coming up for quite a few valuable net points.

Clyde Yeoman continued his outstanding play in the consolation tournament. He reached the third round today with a sweeping triumph over Paul Stagg, Chicago, son of the famous football mentor, Alonzo Stagg. The scores were 6-2, 7-5. Paul who, besides playing tennis, held the quarter back post on the Maroon gridiron eleven, was easy picking in the first set, but put up a great struggle before he gave way in twelve games in the second set.

Enterprise Is Winner Of Newport Yachting

Newport, R. I., June 25 (A.P.).—The Enterprise, smallest of the four candidates for the right to defend the America's cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V, won the Eastern Yacht Club series cup in the third and final race today. The Weetamoe, Morgan-Nichols entry, came in second and the Yankee third.

The Enterprise won yesterday and the previous day's race went to her when the Weetamoe withdrew voluntarily after a protest by the Enterprise.

The Yankee, skippered by Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy, was awarded second place. She finished second yesterday by beating out the Weetamoe.

In today's race the Enterprise beat the Weetamoe by 1 minute 37 seconds and the Yankee by 3 minutes 15 seconds. The Vanitie, Whirlwind and Resolute crossed the finish line in that order.

MACKS SPLIT BILL WITH CHISOX

Drop Second by 7-2 After 8-1 Victory; Braxton Stars.

PHILADELPHIA, June 26 (A.P.).—The Chicago White Sox held the world's champion Athletics to an even split in a double-header here today, taking the second game, 7 to 2, after the Athletics had an 8-to-1 romp in the opening contest.

Ted Lyons was walloped hard in the first affair while George Earnshaw was limiting the Sox to seven hits. The Mackmen solved Lyons for twelve hits, Haas, Foxx and Dykes starring in an attack that netted six runs in the second and third innings.

Walberg Pounded Hard In Second Game.

Chicago finished Rube Walberg in four innings of the second game. Hunnefield hit the left-hander's first pitch of the game for a home run. In the fourth inning Chicago clinched the decision with four more runs, three being scored on Moe Berg's double with the bases filled. Al Simmons hit his fifteenth homer of the year off Caraway in the sixth. Garland Braxton relieved Caraway with none out in this inning and pitched no-hit ball the rest of the way.

Reds Pound Donohue To Defeat Giants, 11-3

Cincinnati, June 25 (A.P.).—The Reds drew up to even terms for the four-game series with the New York Giants by slamming out an 11 to 3 victory in the final game today.

Cincinnati began hitting against a former Red, Pete Donohue, in the second inning, scoring two runs, and drove him from the mound after the fifth. They collected nine more runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings. Charles "Red" Lucas had an easy pitching task, giving nine hits, and seldom was in trouble.

Durocher and Gooch led Cincinnati's eighteen-hit attack, with three blows apiece. Joe Stripp got two triples, one of them coming on a technicality when Donohue lost his glove in fielding the ball, and the umpires ruled he had thrown it and deflected the ball to Jackson.

Tigers Solve Russell To Beat Red Sox, 4-3

Boston, June 25 (A.P.).—After holding Detroit scoreless for seven innings here today, Jack Russell was blasted for four runs, enough for the Tigers to defeat the Red Sox, 4 to 3, in the last game of the series. The victory gave Detroit four games out of six.

Two of the Red Sox runs today were unearned. They followed a muff by Johnson in right field for the Tigers. On the other hand, three Detroit double plays helped Hogsett register his win.

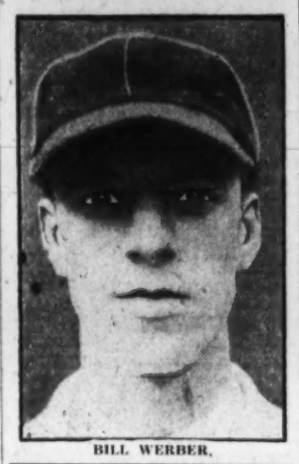
Werber, D. C. Boy, Stars In Debut With Yankees

Ex-Tech Ace Gets 2 Hits, Handles 9 Chances.



BILL WERBER.

ANOTHER Washington sandlot and high school product crashed into the major league baseball picture yesterday when Bill Werber, graduate of Tech High School, made his debut with the New York Yankees, performing at shortstop in place of Lyn Lary, injured, in the second game of the double-header with the Browns.

Werber, recently graduated from Duke University, where he starred in basket ball and baseball four years after leaving Tech High, was one of the most-sought-after college baseball players during the season of 1929 and 1930.

His initial showing yesterday proved the judgment of the scouts was not wrong, for he collected two hits in three times at bat, and handled nine out of ten chances in the field.

Manager Bob Shawkey placed him second in the Yanks batting order, thereby indicating he had confidence in the youngster's offensive power.

During his career at Tech High and on the Capital sandlots, Werber was classed by himself as an infielder here and many were the predictions that he ultimately would find a position in the big leagues.

CUBS DEFEAT PHILLIES BY 13 TO 12

Harnett's 2 Homers and Single Bring Victory.

CHICAGO, June 25 (A.P.).—"Gabby" Hartnett swung the biggest club of all today as the Cubs won a free-hitting game, 13 to 12, from Philadelphia and advanced to within one game of the league leading Brooklyn Robins.

Hartnett hit his fifteenth and sixteenth home runs of the season in succession to bring the Cubs into the lead and then capped his attack with a single in the ninth that brought home the winning run. With his other single he accounted for a grand total of six runs.

Nine pitchers were used—five by the Cubs and four by the Phillies. Guy Bush was credited with the victory, although he pitched but one-third of an inning. The Phillies hammered Osborn, Nelson, Shealy and Blake for seventeen hits, one of which was a homer by Davis with two on. Cuyler also hit for the circuit in the big Cub sixth, which netted seven runs.

Brooklyn opens a four-game series here tomorrow with first place at stake.

RAIL INDEX TOUCHES THREE-YEAR BOTTOM

30 Carriers Hit 1930 Lows in Extremely Irregular Stock Turnover.

AMERICAN TOBACCO UP

New York, June 25 (A.P.).—This was a day of extreme irregularity on the financial markets. Stock prices jumped about erratically as bear traders alternately sold short and covered, but the list closed on a late rally that pulled the composite price for 90 issues slightly more than a point higher. Many stocks, however, were off moderately.

The railroad shares again received a thorough shaking and the price index dropped nearly a point to another minimum for the last 3 years. Some 30 shares, including some of the best grade investment equities, went to new lows for the year or considerably longer.

Grains steadied after July wheat had broken under 88 cents. Closing prices on this important commodity were up ½ to ¾ of a cent, but corn was unable to recover all of its extreme losses and was off half a cent or less. July cotton advanced on the day, but other futures closed irregularly within a narrow range.

The bond market was noticeably weak. Liquidation was obviously for the purpose of raising cash for stock market operations, both to protect margin accounts and to make purchases. The liberal offerings, especially of secondary issues, was reflected by a rather sharp drop in the averages.

Market's Sentiment Confused.

Stock market sentiment was just as confused as the movement of prices. There seemed to be some evidence that the bears, who have had their own way for a month, were becoming nervous and were covering on the first appearances of support, although Wall street has become convinced that there can be no lasting improvement until commodities have hardened and business has definitely turned the corner. In this connection, a prominent Cleveland banker went on record to the effect that "an abrupt and consequential" upward movement of both stock and commodity prices "should be well under way by Labor Day."

The weekly steel trade reviews called attention to the seasonal influences which tend to obscure the outlook for that industry. Iron Age said that "an impending general business recovery is sensed by the leaders of the steel industry who have passed through many cycles of trade expansion and contraction."

Further declines were reported in iron and steel prices. Pig iron was reduced 50 cents a ton in Chicago, while Iron Age's composite for finished steel was shaded to 2.185 cents a pound from 2.214 cents after having held at the latter figure for five weeks.

Selling predominated at the opening of the market, although declines were small. Supporting orders attracted short covering in the general list and before midday active shares were one to three points above the previous close.

Bears Regain Control.

The bears regained the upper hand soon after noon, however, making a fresh raid on the rails which subsequently embraced members of the steel, merchandising, motor and accessory, utility, copper and chemical groups.

The rise was resumed in the last fifteen minutes when pivotal industrials touched their best figures for the day.

U. S. Steel, which has resumed its old post of market leader, went down to 151⅛ but efforts to equal the panic low of 150 were unavailing. Other stocks making new minimums for the year included American Car, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, Kennecott, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Texas Gulf Sulphur, North American, Western Union, National Cash Register, J. I. Case and Goodyear Rubber. Railroad stocks yielded 3 to 5 points and only a few, among them New York Central and Baltimore & Ohio, closed higher, Atchison off 5 points to a new low, recovered all but a small fraction of its maximum decline.

American Tobacco "B" was strong, reflecting renewed rumors of a split-up, confirmed after the close. The stock closed 6¾ points higher. American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey, Radio, U. S. Steel, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Can and Westinghouse improved 1 to 3 points net.

Foreign exchanges were firm, although weakness persisted in the Spanish peseta which went to a new 1930 low.

WASHINGTON: THURSDAY, JUNE 26, 1930. 13

NATS TROUNCE TRIBE, 13 TO 5, FOR 5TH STRAIGHT

Pegler

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—Prize fighting in Philadelphia possesses a certain rugged charm. It is low and rowdy and larcenous, and the chairman of the Pennsylvania Prize Fight Commission, Mr. Frank Weiner, has no notion that it ever will be otherwise. Yesterday he revoked the professional license of Old George Godfrey, the fat, bluegum Negro who fouled Primo Carnera in a bout that drew $180,000, fined Godfrey $5,000, or half his pay for the bout, and suspended the professional privileges of Primo's entire company, including all his known managers and all prize fighters under contract to any of them.

These suspensions, however, were not along of any complicity in the foul, although Mr. Wiener was willing to be convinced that Old George threw in the low punch at a signal from Primo's corner or from his own.

Old George is an obedient boy. He probably won't see much of the $5,000 awarded to him, because his manager, Mr. James Dougherty, has been saying that George is into him for a long spell of board and keep, but then George's wants are simple and a small bundle of $10 bills will do for him.

Wiener Doesn't Know Why.

If the white folks told Old George to foul out for any subtle reason that may have occurred in the mysterious mental processes of prize fight managers, it wouldn't be his to reason why. But Mr. Wiener just doesn't know why Old George hit Primo those fouls, and having no evidence as to that, he couldn't very well suspend Primo and his crowd on any such account.

But during the evening, long after the prize fight, it developed that Mr. Will Duffy, one of Primo's American managers, who keeps a night club on Broadway, beat up one of Mr. Wiener's deputy commissioners, one Francis Connelly, in a dispute over a routine matter. This Connelly was ordered to attend the dressing of a preliminary fighter named Jack Silvers, belonging to Mr. Duffy. The Silvers boy was to go on in a six-round fight of no importance after the main event. Mr. Connelly gave his testimony by telephone from his bed of pain. He had merely insisted that Silvers wear the prescribed type of body armor as provided by the rules of the commission. Mr. Duffy is high-strung and he was greatly upset by the excitement of Primo's adventure with Old George. And so, it was alleged, Mr. Duffy hauled off and knocked him down and kicked him about the dressing room, assisted by Mr. Good Time Charley Freedman, one of Primo's other managers. And when they had done kicking him they put him away in a small closet because he was becoming unsightly. Mr. Connelly's injuries were listed as abrasions of the upper lip, loosening of some teeth and something wrong with one of his arms.

For this disrespect of the prize-fight commission's authority Mr. Wiener suspended Primo and all his associates.

Prize Fighting Racket, He Admits.

At the ringside, just after Old George had fouled Primo, an excited customer rushed up to Mr. Wiener, yelling: "Yah, Wiener! Another one of those things. How long do you think the public is going to stand for this?"

Mr. Wiener's job is a thankless one. He frankly acknowledges that prize fighting is a racket and says no prize-fight commission can do any more than punish larceny when and where it is apparent. He was beset by troublesome official problems at the moment and this ingratitude on the part of a customer toward a harried public servant was more than his patience could endure. I didn't see this incident, but a gentleman who was standing by said Mr. Wiener just reached out and hit the customer a spank on the nose.

The job of the Pennsylvania prize-fight commissioner is lively and interesting, always. One day when he had suspended a preliminary boy for fouling, the young man's manager appealed to their local political leader, and when Wiener refused to reinstate the youth he got a telephone message.

"You will be crippled in the street on your way home today," he was advised.

Wiener Not Cripple Yet.

Mr. Wiener is no cripple yet, but the incident just goes to show that prize fighting is naive and natural and devoid of refinement in Pennsylvania.

After scanning the interesting company which attended the Carnera-Godfrey prize fight, I marvel that any of the ordinary patrons of blameless character escaped from the premises with their watches and small money. Still, I don't see wherein the public interest suffers. The customers should have no illusions as to

Tilden Beats Van Ryn in 3 Sets

Allison, Doeg, Lott and Mangin Are Other Survivors.

Mrs. Moody Wins in 24 Minutes at Wimbledon.

By FRANK H. KING.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 25 (A.P.).—Five of America's foremost men tennis stars today stroked their way into the last sixteen in the Wimbledon men's singles championship along with eight players from the British Empire, two of the French aces and a representative from Czechoslovakia.

Big Bill Tilden, Wilmer Allison, Johnny Doeg, George Lott and Gregory Mangin were the Americans to survive today's play, while Johnny Van Ryn and Berkley Bell were eliminated. Accompanying the advance of the men stars were Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, the defending women's champion; Helen Jacobs, Mary Greef and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, an American resident of England. Sarah Palfrey, 17-year-old Boston girl, was the only member of the United States women's squad to be defeated.

Tilden-Van Ryn Match Features Day.

As the men's singles play swings into the fourth round tomorrow, Great Britain will be represented by H. K. Lester, G. P. Hughes, H. F. David, H. W. Austin, E. J. Perry and J. C. Gregory, in addition to P. D. B. Spence, of South Africa, and E. D. Andrews, of New Zealand. The French, although losing Christian Boussus and Pierre Landry today, still pack a threat in Henri Cochet, the wiry little defendnig champion, and Jean Borotra, veteran of many a tennis tournament. Jan Koseluh, of Chechoslovakia, brother of the world's professional title holder, completed the list of survivors.

The all-American match in which Tilden defeated Van Ryn, 7—5, 6—4, 6—1, featured today's play. The young American Davis cupper, who holds the Wimbledon doubles title together with Allison, fought gamely against the veteran but Big Bill was in one of his finest tennis moods. Playing beatifully throughout, Tilden climbed another step nearer the anticipated final match with Cochet, who eliminated Bell, the Texan, in five sets, 6—2, 6—2, 5—7, 4—6, 6—1.

Doeg with his southpaw drives and youthful Boussus held the famous center court until late in the evening in a slow uninteresting contest, which like Doeg's first Wimbledon encounter, saw the Californian pull from behind to win comfortably by the scores of 5—7, 6—1, 12—14, 6—0, 6—2.

Lott-Allison Impressive In Victory.

Lott and Allison played convincing tennis to eliminate the Australian, Harry Hopman, and the Irishman, Lyttlton Rogers, respectively. Lott won 7—5, 6—3, 6—3, while Allison's score was 6—3, 6—3, 6—2. Mangin had little difficulty in disposing of R. Miki, the Japanese veteran, 6—4, 6—3, 6—2.

It took Mrs. Moody just 24 minutes to finish her match with Miss Elsie Goldsworth, of England, and enter the fourth round by the scores of 6—1, 6—2. Miss L. E. Messuries, of Australia, forced Miss Greef to three sets before the Kansas City girl won, 6—3, 2—6, 7—5. Miss Palfrey also battled youthful Joan Ridley for three sets, but the English girl played strong tennis in the last set to win, 3—6, 6—3, 6—1. The second ranking American woman star, Helen Jacobs, advanced at the expense of Miss Mellows, of England, winning 6—3, 6—1, while Miss Ryan defeated Miss V. M. Montgomery, also of England, 6—2, 6—4.

H. W. Austin, ace of the English representatives, eliminated Pierre Landry, of France, 6—0, 6—3, 6—2. Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingtall, English star, was defeated by Mme. Rene Mathieu, of France, in straights sets, decided by scores of 6—4, 6—3, but Betty Nuthall, 19-year-old English girl, disposed of Miss Y. Lyle, 6—2, 6—4.

Miss Ryan starts the center court program tomorrow against Mlle. Josane Sigart, Belgium's No. 1 ranking woman's star, who yesterday eliminated Miss Edith Cross, of the United States. Helen Jacobs plays M. Slaney, of Great Britain, in the other singles match. Doubles will occupy most of the day's program. Tilden and his German partner, Fraulein Cille Aussem, play F. H. Perry and Miss M. Heeley, of England, while Mrs. Moody pairs with Miss Ryan to meet Misses B. Burr and G. M. Thompson, of Great Britain.

Allison and Van Ryn, the defending doubles champions, get their first test against E. C. Metcalf and A. W. Vinall. Doeg and Lott, who held the United States doubles title, are assigned to play V. A. Cazalet and J. C. Masterman.

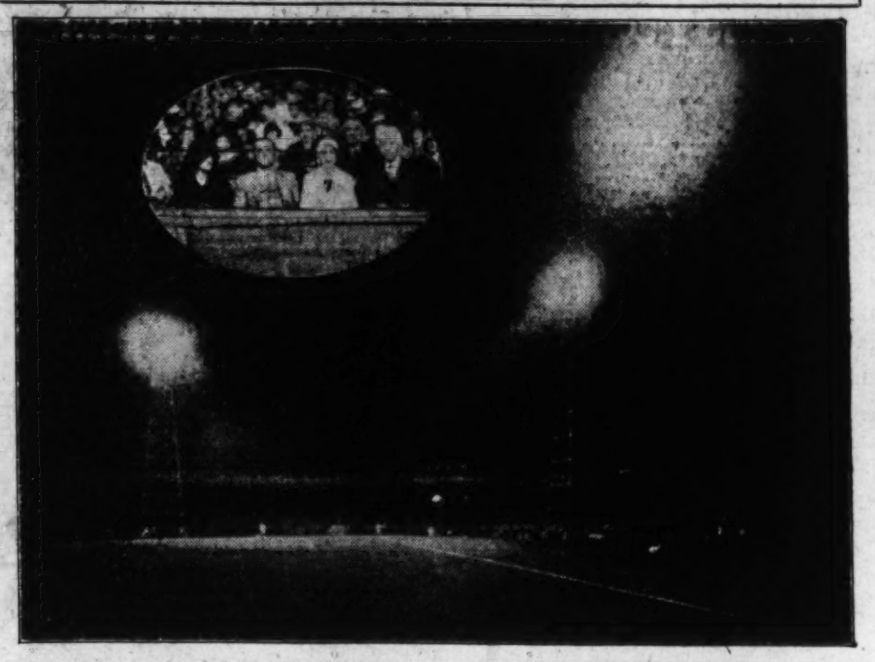
NIGHT BASEBALL IN MINORS



Night baseball was inaugurated recently in Indianapolis under 75,000,000 candlepower light. Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, witnessed the game. He is shown in the insert at the right. Behind him is Gov. Harry G. Leslie of Indiana. Others are Mrs. Cook, Russell Cook, director of the National Americanism Commission of the American Legion, and Mrs. James Barton, wife of the national adjutant of the American Legion. Norman A. Perry is owner of the Indianapolis American Association Club.

Exhibition at Night Listed for Cincinnati

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 25 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds will have the experience of playing night baseball. President Weil will have a lighting system installed at Peoria, Ill., the Reds' farm, and the team will play an exhibition game there the night of July 30.

Kansas City Ring Fans Will Get "Foul Checks"

Kansas City, June 25 (A.P.).—Apropos the epidemic of unsatisfactory endings in fight circles, "foul checks" will be issued for the heavyweight battle between Babe Hunt, Ponca City, Okla., and Al Friedman, Boston, here July 9.

If a fighter, says Gabe Kaufman, promoter, wins on a low blow, intentional or otherwise, the cash customers will find solace at the box office.

Giants Pay $40,000 For Coast Fly-Chaser

New York, June 25 (A.P.).—The New York Giants today announced the purchase of Harry Rosenberg, star outfielder, from the Mission Club of the Pacific Coast League, in a $40,000 deal.

In confirming the transaction, Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, said the Mission Club would receive $25,000 in cash and two players, to be delivered in the spring of 1931, each valued at $7,500.

Rosenberg has been ordered to report to Manager John McGraw on July 10, when the Giants will be in Philadelphia.

Rosenberg has been playing sensational ball, recent averages showing him to be hitting close to the .400 mark.

D. C. Players Defeated In Md. Women's Tennis

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., June 25.—The last two remaining Washington players in the Maryland State Tennis Tournament for Women on the Baltimore Country Club courts were eliminated today.

The match between Mrs. Ruth Martinez, of the Capital, and Mrs. Delloyd Thompson, of Washington, Pa., was a hard-fought one, with long rallies, although the score of 6—2, 6—2 does not indicate that it was closely contested.

Miss Louise Omwake was the other District player to pass out of the picture, she being easily downed by Miss Margaret Carspecken, of Morgantown, W. Va. The scores were 6—1, 6—1.

In the semifinals tomorrow, Miss Carspecken will be pitted against Miss Eleanor Cottman, of Baltimore, while Mrs. Thompson will meet Miss Anne Townsend, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Martinez and Miss Frances Walker, also of Washington, lost to Miss Townsend and Miss Cottman in the doubles semifinals by the score of 6—1, 7—5.

Max Schmeling to Sail For Home Saturday

New York, June 25 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, world's heavyweight boxing champion in the eyes of the New York State Athletic Commission, today booked passage for his return to Germany Saturday. Schmeling said urgent business in Germany required his presence there.

FIGHTING TWINS LOSE.

New York, June 25 (A.P.).—The Perlick Twins, Kalamazoo, Mich., lost their fights at Ebbetts Field tonight, Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle Negro, winning a 10-round decision from Herman in the feature bout and Ralph Lenny, of Union City, N. J., getting the verdict over Henry in a 10-round preliminary.

Flowers weighed 137½, Herman Perlick 138½ while Lenny and Henry Perlick scaled 137½ pounds each.

GOLF UPSET IN WEST.

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 25 (A.P.).—L. B. Maytag, Des Moines, entered the quarterfinals of the transmississippi golf championship today by defeating Dr. L. D. Bromfield, of Denver, the tournament medalist, 2 up. Walter Chadwell, Omaha, contributed a surprise by defeating Emerson Carey, jr., Hutchinson, Kans., in the second round, two and one.

Indianapolis O.K.'s Baseball at Night

Indianapolis, Ind., June 28.—Night baseball is concerned in Indianapolis. Washington Park, the "tepee" of the Indians, the American Association Baseball Club in Indianapolis, has been illuminated with 75,000,000 candlepower lights, the largest in the country. All home games except Sundays and holidays will be played after dark.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, and Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American Association, and other notables of baseball, were guests of Owner Norman A. Perry at the premiere of night baseball in Indianapolis recently and approved the nocturnal presentation of the national pastime.

Illumination of the ball field in Indianapolis so that the highest fly, the bounding grounder or fastest pitched ball may be seen as well as during the day was accomplished by the General Electric Co., of Schenectady, N. Y. Six high steel towers each hold a battery of 24 to 36 1,000-watt lights, making a total of 180 lights playing on the field.

Players and fans alike approve the soft, even glow of the artificial light. It is not like day baseball with its sun glare, for is it bright one moment and cloudy the next so that eyes are not thrown out of adjustment at a critical time in the game.

Bobby Jones-Braid Win Benefit Match

London, June 25 (A.P.).—Bobby Jones, playing at a benefit today with James Braid, defeated the veterans, Ted Ray and Harry Vardon, 4 and 3, in a four-ball match.

The match was played as a benefit for the Professional Golfers Association Benevolent Fund.

Higgins, Texas U. Ace, Grabbed by Macks

Philadelphia, June 28 (A.P.).—They kept it a secret until today, those unusually silent officials of the Athletics, that the newcomer who prances around short and second in the pre-game fielding drills these days is a Texas University phenom, sought by half a dozen big league clubs.

His name is Frank ("Pinkey") Higgins, until quite recently captain of the Texas University Team, which again won the Southwest championship this year.

The Yankees thought they had Higgins sewed up for future delivery, according to those of the Athletics who were instrumental in bringing the college ace to Philadelphia. Mike Drennan had scouted Higgins for two years and a few weeks ago he returned from Texas with the recruit's promise to report to the Mackmen after he was through with college. "He's big, fast, a wonderful hitter and a real ball player," Drennan said. "Hit over .400 his last two years in college. He was the best man in the Southwest conference this year and all the scouts were after him. I never saw a young player who looked better."

ELEVEN ENDS TOUR.

Karlsruhe, Germany, June 25 (A.P.) The German-American football team concluded its German tour today by defeating the Karlsruhe team, 7 to 3. The score was 4 to 1 at the half.

WILD 7TH INNING NETS 11 RUNS AS NATS SWEEP SERIES TO CUT LEAD OF MACKS TO 1½ GAMES

In the Wake of the Game

ONLY one Nat was charged with a time at bat in the first inning, Myer walking, and was picked off second after Rice had sacrificed. Then Manush rolled out to Hodapp.

Umpire Hildebrand, behind the plate, overruled Ormsby, at first, in giving the Nats credit for a double play in the second. After Myer's error, with one out, had given Averill life, Porter rolled sharply to Brown, who had to wait until Cronin got to second. The latter took the peg with one hand, but Ormsby called the batter safe on the throw to first. It was here the plate umpire stepped in and called Porter out, too.

Goldman tried to throw the ball before he caught it on Cronin's grasser opening the home second, something no player ever has been able to do. This miscue helped the Nats score their first run of the game.

Umpire Ormsby should be given an assist for his help in retiring Rice in the third, with Myer on first. Morgan "booted" the ball, which caromed off behind first. Had it not hit Ormsby, Morgan never could have recovered it in time to beat the batter to the bag.

Seeds raced back to the wall in deep left to fasten himself on the end of Cronin's looper ending round 3. It would have been a homer in practically every other park in the league.

Cronin went to short center to make a nice catch of Seeds' near-Texas leaguer in the fourth canto.

A foul from Bluege's bat almost tore the left foot off of "Umps" Hildebrand in the fourth. "You'll find 'sympathy' in the dictionary," a fan yelled to the "guesser," after the laughter in the stands had subsided.

Averill obtained the first Cleveland hit of the game off of Brown's slants when he bounded a triple high off the score board, with one down in the fifth. It was a real clout.

Cronin and West, due to the former's interference, pulled an "Alphonso-Gaston" act in the fifth to give Hartley a scratch hit.

Ruel had Harder picked off of second in the sixth, but Bluege, who had rushed in for an unexpected bunt, could not get back to third in time and the pitcher was given credit for a theft of third.

West had every one puzzled when he made the return peg to third in the sixth after Morgan had singled. His shot obviously ahould have been to the plate, as Burnett was on second and Seeds on first at the time. Fortunately, Burnett did not try to score, so all that this clean single did was to fill the bases.

Trying for a double play on West's tap in the home sixth with Shires on first, Goldman's throw hit Shires on the head and bounded fully 30 feet in the air and all the way from second to close to the Cleveland dugout back of third. Shires went down after crossing second and seemed to have completely lost his bearings when he got up. He gamely "shook it off," however, and trotted back to the Washington dugout as though nothing unusual had happened. What a man!

Seeds twice previously in the game had come tearing in and knocked down drives with his knees or body, but he tried it once too often on Rice's drive in the seventh, it going for a triple when it skidded past him. This scored Myer and broke a 2-all deadlock.

Shires scored Rice with an intended "squeeze" play in the seventh, but the pop-bunt was so good that the first sacker easily beat the ball to first. Johnson then decided to let Shires bathe his bruised head and put Joe Judge on first to run for him. The Nat captain, who has been out with a charley horse since June 9, continued in the game at first.

Averill came in fast for Ruel's looper opening the Nats' eighth.

Bluege, Rice, Myer Lead 15-Hit Attack; Shires Hurt.

Brown Coasts to Win; Game Close Before "Big" Frame.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

FOR six innings yesterday the Nats and Indians battled hammer and tongs, and then with the score deadlocked at 2-all the Johnsons suddenly unleashed an attack which swept the Tribe off its feet and which had the scorer worn to a frazzle trying to record everything that happened.

Finally it was generally agreed in the press box that the Nats had scored eleven runs in this seventh-frame stand, and except that it is a quaint old custom to go nine innings, play might just as well have stopped then and there. The final count was 13 to 5.

Nats Gain Half Game On Leaders.

The victory, the Nats' fifth in a row and their fourth straight over the Indians, who have lost 11 of their last 12, enabled the home team to pull up to within a game and a half of the leading Mackmen, who divided a twin bill with Chicago. The Yankees twice beat the Browns, crawling up to within half a game of the Nationals.

Yesterday's contest was a most unusual one. Of the first four runs scored, only one was earned and that by the Indians. The Nats broke the ice with the aid of an error in the second, while the visitors knotted the count on Hodapp's triple and Porter's "squeeze" play in the fifth, this three-base clout representing the first alien safety off Lloyd Brown, who went the route for the natives.

In the sixth, Shires' error paved the way for another Cleveland run, while three alien miscues enabled the Nats to again tie the string in the home half. Until this frame, Mel Harder, on the hill for the Peckmen, had twirled fine ball, but he began to wilt and gave way to Melbern Shoffner.

Seven Nats Up at Plate Twice in Seventh.

The latter retired the side in the sixth, but then cracked wide open in the next frame, which saw Pete Jablonowski come and go, and Salvatore Gliatto take a world of punishment before the final out was turned in. Because of the extreme heat, fans will be spared a play-by-play account of this hectic frame. All told, 16 Nats went to the tee, seven having two chances, with Rice tripling and doubling on his two tries, his two-bagger clearing the packed bases.

Six bases on balls were given, two of these forcing home runs, while three Nats crossed the plate on as many errors. In addition to Rice's extra-base blows, the others to contribute hits during the excitement were Myer, Manush, Shires, Judge and Bluege, with Cronin walking twice.

The long rest, coupled with a spell on the bases, seemed to take away from Brown's effectiveness and the Indians hopped on his slants for three runs in the eighth, when he walked two and granted three singles, just exactly one-third of the aliens' total for the day. These runs did no good, merely serving to stretch out the game-time to 2½ hours, which was much to much for a hot day like yesterday.

Bluege Hits 4 Safeties In Succession.

Although he did not lead in driving home runs, Ossie Bluege made his presence felt at the tee with four clean singles in his first four trips to the swinging block, with Buddie Myer running him a close second with a trio of safeties. The old-timer, Grover Hartley, who worked behind the bat for the Indians, was their high gun, with three one-basers.

Cronin and Bluege contributed the best fielding plays, while the less said about the Cleveland defense the better, for seven errors were charged them, giving the Nats five unearned runs.

Marberry to Face Tigers; Little Hope of Getting Hale

BUCKY HARRIS and his Tigers will open their second series of the year here this afternoon against the Nationals. On their last visit they divided four games with the homefolk while the Nats took two out of three in the Ford City early this month. Since the last meeting between the two teams, the Johnsons seem to have taken on a new lease on life and they are confident that they will take at least two of the three games listed in this series.

It was Adolph Liska's turn to pitch for the Nationals this afternoon, but he has been having trouble with an abscessed tooth, which was yanked Tuesday, and has been told not to pitch for a couple of days. This forced Manager Johnson to change his plans, and he has decided to use Fred Marberry. The big Texan worked in Monday's double-header and is coming back today with but two days rest. He is a powerful fellow, however, and is confident that he will give a good account of himself this afternoon. Harris is expected to call on "Lefty" Earl Whitehill.

Manager Walter Johnson suffered a painful but not serious injury while pitching to batters before yesterday's game when a drive from Heinie Manush's bat struck him on the heel of his left hand. At first it was feared that a small bone was chipped, but Acting Trainer P. Riley (Bobo) Baxter administered first aid ice-pack treatments and by the time the club physician had arrived most of the swelling had disappeared.

Nats Fail to Get Word on Hale.

Evidently the Nationals are not going to land Infielder Sammy Hale, for whom they put in a waiver claim Tuesday, for the telegram usually sent by E. S. Barnard, league head, advising that the Nats had landed the player, did not arrive yesterday, which would have been the case had the Nats been awarded the player.

Trainer Mike Martin, home because of illness, is reported greatly improved and it is hoped that he will

Rosenbloom Beats Slattery On Decision to Annex Title

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

BUFFALO, June 25 (A.P.).—After ten long years of milling, mostly up and down the back roads of fistiana, Maxie Rosenbloom, the clown prince of Harlem, came into his own tonight and stripped Dancing Jimmy Slattery of the world's light-heavyweight championship.

The slapstick star of the prize ring, most unorthodox gladiator since the days of the late Harry Greb, won the decision over Slattery after 15 rounds of hard but often slow battling in the tall Irishman's own ballwick and did it to the satisfaction of most of the crowd of 13,500 that all but filled the International League Ball Park. The boos of the minority when the decision was announced found backing in the difference of opinion among the judges and referee.

Patsy Haley, white-haired little arbiter who once fought as a featherweight out of Slattery's own home ward here, voted in favor of the champion, but was overruled by the decision of the two judges. George Kelly and George Patrick, both of whom awarded their votes and the title to Rosenbloom. The Associated Press score sheet gave Maxie eight rounds. Slattery five, with two even.

Tonight's engagement, although rough to the extreme in spots, and marred by frequent clinches, provided the faithful with a welcome reprieve from the foul fiascos that have been spoiling the climaxes of major flaticuffs of late. Maxie, abandoning for the most part his jumping jack tendencies, slapping, cuffing and general unorthodox deportment, got away to an early lead, fought off Slattery's vicious rally in the later rounds, and closed with a rush that clinched the title.

Although there were no knockdowns, Maxie staggered the titleholderin a rough exchange in a neutral corner near the close of the second round and had Jimmy very weary and hanging at every opportunity in the final sessions.

JOCK, FAVORITE, BEATEN AT WASHINGTON PARK

Canaan Wins Feature by A Neck

Passes McLean Star in Brush Midway in the Stretch.

Aqueduct Feature to Questionnaire With Workman Up.

WASHINGTON PARK, Chicago, June 24 (A.P.).—Canaan, the Le Mar Stock Farm's 6-year-old campaigner, racing in improved form and benefiting by a hustling ride by Apprentice Jockey J. Marcum, surprised the public today by taking Jock into camp in the Blackstone Hotel Handicap. Stars and Bars was third in the field of six. The mile and 70 yards was run in 1:41 3-5.

Canaan conquered Jock in a sharp brush midway in the stretch and the crowd, which had made Jock the odds-on choice, groaned as it saw Canaan pass him and come on to win.

Jockey Marcum, riding in this race minus his allowance, rated his mount carefully until the stretch turn was reached. At this point Jock, hard urged by Jockey Ambrose, had taken the lead from Double Heart. Marcum, on the outside, began driving Canaan hard and he responded, rushing past Jock and winning by one length. Canaan paid $8.28 for $2.

Questionnaire, Favorite, Aqueduct Winner.

Aqueduct Race Track, N. Y., June 25 (A.P.).—James Butler's Questionnaire, odds-on favorite, won the Broadway Handicap at 1 1-16 miles here today and it broke Workman's long losing streak. Sonny had the mount and he made no mistakes on the colt. He got him away on his toes, but instead of going to the front he eased back and let Buckeye Poet make the pace. It was a wise move. Buckeye Poet set a sizzling pace, but he could never get far away from Questionnaire. The favorite was under restraint, and when Workman called on him Questionnaire took command and drew away to win by three lengths. Starpatic closed with a rush in the stretch and was next best. He beat Buckeye Poet six lengths for the place.

The race was worth $4,050 and the attendance was estimated at 5,000.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

—Washington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE feature today at Washington Park will be the Thomas Hotel Purse. SUPREME SWEET stands out in this event, with PANCHIO the nearest rival. ROMANY BAW, a very good 3-year-old sent west by the Greentree Stable, will improve, and is regarded as one of the contenders, but may want more distance. SUPREME SWEET was beaten last out, but is clearly best of the field and carrying only 100 pounds. PANCHIO prefers mud and a longer route than six furlongs, distance of this race.

FIRST RACE—CHARM is picked to beat PAGAN LADDIE. While these two are believed to have the edge over the field, several horses may offer dangerous opposition. Track conditions suit CHARM better than PAGAN LADDIE, which is a mud horse. NORA D is a swift filly, and the distance suits her. She may be hard to catch if she gets away first.

SECOND RACE, for 2-year-olds. TAN FACE looks like the winner. The distance is increased to 5½ furlongs. THE DUKE, a maiden, is rated next best and dangerous. SISTER MARY has the edge on the others. TAN FACE has outraced anything in the field.

THIRD RACE—ZETA seems much the best. SHIFT has shown improvement and probably will be a strong factor. FAVORITE II should do better than last race and is probably the third horse. ZETA is a consistent filly, the daughter of Zev, and outclasses the field.

FOURTH RACE—For 2-year-old fillies. CANFLI is the best of a very good field. CHICAGO GIRL, from a strong stable, may be the contender. OVER SHADY has not been running up to her best form, such as she displayed in Maryland in the early spring, but should show in this company.

SIXTH RACE—A good spot for VERMICULITE. OUTPOST should make it a close race. OUTER HARBOR also will figure in the race. VERMICULITE has run few bad races and seems able to cope with this field, and at a good price.

SEVENTH RACE — VOLTMETER will have HERNAN CORTEZ, winner this week, to beat. There may be a doubt about the latter to go a mile and a furlong, but VOLTMETER can go any route. JOVIAL FRIAR should get some part of the purse.

OTILLA, off forwardly and never far off the pace, responded well when called upon entering stretch, took lead from MARIE JOHNSTON and drew out reaching final eighth, but tired and was under pressure at the end. FLORHI gained steadily from a slow beginning, closed a big gap and, finishing fast, outgamed LOUISE WILSON. Latter, a factor from the start, saved ground on inside, made a strong bid in final furlong and outlasted MADCAP MARVIN, far out of it in early stages, made up much ground in final quarter.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—KAMILA, $65.58, $25.42, $13.48; BROWN HILLS, $6.34, $4.70; MODERN MAIDEN, $4.52.

KAMILA, outpaced first three furlongs, came with a great rush reaching the stretch turn and, going across to the outside, went into the lead and easily won. BROWN HILLS raced forwardly, saving ground on the inside, took the lead a quarter out when BEIGE ran out, continued well, but was no match for the winner. MODERN MAIDEN was raced prominently from start close to the pace and, notwithstanding running wide at stretch turn, came again and finished gamely. BURNAM gained steadily.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:22. Off at 3:22. Winner, F. E. Brant's b. g. (6), by Whiskbroom II—Sun Glow II. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:22 3-5, 0:46 2-5, 1:12 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GRACIOUS GIFT, $6.30, $3.54, $2.96; CHEERS, $4.82, $3.20; FLAG TIME, $4.40.

GRACIOUS GIFT, racing in his best form, gained gradually in first four furlongs and, coming to outside for final drive, gradually wore down and headed CHEERS, outfinishing latter in hard, final drive. CHEERS had good speed forcing the pace, overtook and disposed of HOT SHOT on the stretch turn, went into the lead but, despite hard tiring, could not match the winner's challenge. FLAG TIME, outrun in early stages, closed a big gap in the stretch and finished fast on outside. HOT SHOT set early pace for three furlongs, then tired and gave way gradually in run home. ELLICO showed a poor effort.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. The Hammond. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:52. Off at 3:55½. Winner, Rancocas Stable's b. c. (2), by Lucillite—Siren. Trained by S. N. Holman. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:47, 1:00, 1:06 4-5.

† Hupp and Judy entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHARMER, $6.96, $4.16, $3.00; PITTSBURGHER, $7.02, $4.22; DICK MORRIS, $4.86.

CHARMER moved into the lead quickly after the start, set all his own pace and, after PITTSBURGHER, MARY COBB, steadily drew away to win as rider pleased. PITTSBURGHER, prominent in pursuit of the pace first half mile, came again to dispose of MARY COBB in a drive and, holding on better than usual, easily outfinished DICK MORRIS. Latter saved ground on inside, but could not keep pace with CHARMER and tired in final stages. MARY COBB made her move entering the stretch, but faltered under pressure.

FIFTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,700. The Blackstone Hotel Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:23½. Off at 4:35. Winner, Le Mar Stock Farm's ch. c. (6), by Hourless—La Chanaenenne. Trained by M. Lowenstein. Value to winner, $1,300; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23, 0:46, 1:12, 1:37 2-5, 1:41 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CANNAN, $8.28, $2.80, $2.32; JOCK, $2.68, $2.24; STARS AND BARS, $2.62.

CANAAN, in close pursuit of the pace to the home turn, came to outside under hard driving, gradually wore down and outfinished JOCK. JOCK went forwardly under strong restraint, overtook DOUBLE HEART in the stretch and drew clear, but could not match the winner's challenge. STARS AND BARS, away slowly, responded well entering the stretch, came up on outside of leaders, then hung at end. CHICAGO had no excuse.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward, fillies, mares. Start bad. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:01. Off at 5:02. Winner, M. E. Sruly's b. f. (3), by Hand Grenade—Millidale. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $900; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:24, 0:47 4-5, 1:14, 1:50, 1:54.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—AMELIA MAY, $138.26, $63.64, $25.18; ELIZABETH, $19.80, $8.70; NURSIE, $3.38.

AMELIA MAY, close up on inside, took lead at far turn and, continuing resolutely, held advantage and easily kept ELIZABETH safe at end. ELIZABETH, prominent on inside from start, held on well throughout and, closing gamely in stretch, disposed of LEAH JANE and outlasted NURSIE. NURSIE closed much ground from a slow beginning and finished fast on outside, outgaming the tiring LEAH JANE. Latter also came from far out of it and, reaching contention midway of stretch run, tired in final drive. BOYISH BOB raced well.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:33½. Off at 5:33½. Winner, J. N. Camden's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LADRONE, $10.32, $5.44, $3.96; MOROCCO, $9.50, $5.98; ROLLING SEA, $4.30.

LADRONE, restrained not far out of it first six furlongs, came on outside reaching last furlong and engaging MOROCCO in long, hard drive, was up in last strides to win. MOROCCO, saved for the first six furlongs, got through to the leaders on inside in the stretch, made a game bid and took a short lead, but could not withstand winner. ROLLING SEA, always a forward factor, held on well in long, hard final furlong, to outrace the tiring DEVON. DEVON got a good pace under a strong ride to stretch before giving way badly in final furlong.

MANY CONVERTIBLE BONDS TOUCH LOWS

U. S. Governments Are Only Group Which Escapes Downward Move.

WARRANT LIST HARD HIT

New York, June 25 (A.P.).—Bonds fell under the spell of the stock market today. Sellers set the pace, which was the best of the week, and only United States Governments and the highest grade bonds found favor, as an easier tone dominated the irregular course of the listed market.

Share privilege issues and speculative bonds were under pressure and even the highest grade obligations failed to fully escape from the downward revision of prices. Widespread declines occurred in convertible bonds, and the closing prices found many at new low levels for the year.

The market practically ignored the strong fundamental conditions for a price advance. Undoubtedly the second grade rails and industrials have been affected by business uncertainty, but the absence of improvement in the best grade issues can only be ascribed, bond men say, to investors selling either to protect their marginal interests in equity issues or to make new stock purchases.

Warner Brothers Off 9½ Points.

The losses were most marked among convertible issues and some warrant bonds. Sales of convertibles were in large volume. Warner Brothers 6s, which closed 9½ points lower, was the sensation of the group. Dodge Brothers 6s, International Telephone 4½s, St. Paul 5s, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific 4½s, Atchison 4½s, and Baltimore 4½s, all sank to new low levels for the year. Atchison dropped 2¾ points, and the others from ½ to 1 point among warrant issues, Walworth 6½s lost 4½ points; Southern Pacific 4½s 5⅞; Pathe 7s, 2.

Bonds in the rail group moved both ways. An earlier tone was among secondary issues, but even among high grade issues there were many issues showing losses. Erie 5s of 1967 lost 1⅛ points to a new year's low. Denver, Rio Grande & Western 5s sold at a new bottom, off 1½. Missouri Pacific 5s lost ¾ of a point; St. Louis San Francisco 4½s 1¼. New York Ontario & Western 4s, International Great Northern 6s, Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, St. Paul Pacific 5s, and Spokane International Railway 5s sold at new lows. Union Pacific 4s, Northern Pacific 3s, and Canadian Northern 6½ were strong, with the latter at a new year's high.

Foreign Section Easier.

A decidedly easier tone dominated foreign bonds, although a few made headway. Bolivian issues were strong with gains of more than a point. Principal South American and European governments ruled steady. German 5½s held at 90 on a moderate turnover, while the Dawes issue advanced slightly.

The inquiry for United States Governments was smaller than last week, but prices were firm, and Liberty Registered 4th 4¼s and Treasury 3¾s of 1940-1943 were at new highs for the year. Others were close to the high level of the year.

Among new offerings tomorrow is the $20,000,000 4½ per cent general issue of the Colorado & Southern Railroad. A forthcoming offering is the $5,000,000 City of Boston, Mass., note issue.

ADDISON SELECTED PRESIDENT OF BANK

Maj. Julius Peyser Named as Chairman of Board of Security Savings.

NEW OFFICE IS CREATED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Elevation of Vice President Francis G. Addison, jr., to the presidency of Security Savings & Commercial Bank, succeeding Maj. Julius I. Peyser, who becomes chairman of the board, a newly created office, was announced yesterday following a meeting of the board of directors. The change is effective July 1.

Mr. Addison was born in Prince Georges County, Md., in 1887 and obtained his education in the public schools, specialized in business courses and later was graduated from Georgetown University Law School. He has resided in this city since 1904, is a director in the bank, treasurer of the Better Business Bureau, member of the Board of Trade and several other organizations. He is a past president of the District of Columbia Bankers Association and is a member of the American Bankers Association executive council.

Maj. Peyser was born in this city in 1875 and received his education in the public schools, Georgetown and George Washington Universities. His degrees include LL. B., LL. M. and D. C. L. He began practice of law in 1899 and has pursued that profession and banking ever since except for fifteen months he was in military service. He served as president of the former Traders National and Merchants & Mechanics Banks and organized the Security Savings & Commercial Bank seventeen years ago.

Hugh Reilly, jr., was elected a director of the National Metropolitan Bank yesterday to succeed his father, the late Hugh Reilly, sr.

Miss Mary J. Pearce Honored.

Miss Mary J. Pearce, Columbia National Bank, has the distinction of being the first woman to serve on the executive council of a section of the District of Columbia Bankers Association. She was elected to the council of the safe deposit section at the annual meeting yesterday and other members are: Frederick H. Cox, Commercial National Bank, chairman; Joseph D. Yerkes, Federal-American National Bank, vice chairman; Hans W. Ireland, American Security and Trust Co., secretary, and Earl D. Amick, Riggs National Bank.

The fiduciaries section of the association named the following members of its executive council, who will elect officers later: T. Stanley Holland, American Security and Trust Co.; Kenneth F. Brooks, Riggs National Bank; Maj. Erskine Gordon, Federal-American National Bank; Barnum L. Colton, District National Bank, and Leonard Marbury, Washington Loan and Trust Co.

Stockholders in District banks and trust companies paying dividends between now and July 1 will receive nearly $550,000. The board of directors of Second National Bank yesterday declared a regular semiannual dividend of 3 per cent and extra one of 1½ per cent payable July 1 to stockholders of record June 28.

At its regular meeting held yesterday, the board of directors of the National Bank of Washington declared the usual semiannual dividend of 6 per cent upon the capital stock of the bank, payable July 2, to shareholders of record June 30.

Tri-Utilities Offering.

The offering Tuesday of Tri-Utilities Corporation 5 per cent notes on a 5.55 basis is considered especially timely by G. L. Ohrstrom & Co. The issue of $5,000,000 size commands wide distribution and assures a ready market until retirement. Junior stocks have a market value today of over $19,000,000 and the interest on entire funded debt of the corporation is reported to be earned over three times.

It presents suitable temporary investments for those awaiting definite developments in the general security markets. G. L. Ohrstrom is known for issues distributed by several local houses. They have recently established a Washington office in the Shoreham Building.

At its latest meeting the board of directors of British Type Investors, Inc., declared the regular dividend of 9 cents a share on the class A stock, payable August 1 to stockholders of record July 1. This represents the thirty-fourth consecutive cash dividend to have been declared since organization of the trust in 1925.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

Adams Express and Others.

F. W. A.—It would be appreciated if I might be furnished information regarding the following common stocks: Adams Express, Ajax Rubber, American Telegraph & Cable, Baldwin Locomotive, Eureka Vacuum Cleaner.

Answer—Adams Express Co. now functions only as an investment trust of the general management type. Earnings on common stock for 1929 were $4.90 a share. Initial dividend on new common of 40 cents a share quarterly, after 10-for-1 split up, was paid December 31, last, and balance of $4.50 was paid on old $100 par stock. Stock looks quite attractive as a speculative investment. Ajax Rubber, which pays no dividend, is a radical speculation. Even though the present yield on American Telegraph & Cable is in excess of 20 per cent, the stock is by no means attractive from an investment viewpoint.

On April 22, last, an order was issued to show cause why company should not be dissolved. A suit to prevent Western Union Telegraph Co. from taking over property of American Telegraph & Cable and from dissolving it is now pending. Baldwin Locomotive, which pays $1.75 annually in dividends, looks quite attractive at prevailing prices, especially as it is stated that shipments by company in four months ended April 30, last, trebled output for the corresponding period of 1929. Eureka Vacuum Cleaner is regarded as reasonably priced in relation to present earnings. Net income for year 1929 equaled $4.60 a share, compared with $3.15 in 1928. Current dividend rate of $4 a share annually has been maintained since May 1, 1925, with occasional extras in cash and stock distributions in 1927 and 1928.

Cuneo Press.

F. A. R.—Can you advise me where there Cuneo Press, Inc., is located and whether their stock may be purchased on the installment plan? Was prompted to write you because of the item in regard to Cuneo in The Post of June 18.

Answer—Company has five modern plants, with total floor space of 1,600,000 square feet in Chicago. A complete and independent production unit is located in Milwaukee, Wis. In addition to these, 200,000 square feet of floor space in New York and Brooklyn is occupied by subsidiaries. Company has facilities for loading and unloading 60 freight cars simultaneously at Cuneo Terminal in Chicago. Printing, binding and distributing capacity approximates 21,000,000 national magazines and trade papers a month. So far as known, stock can not be purchased on installment plan. It is listed on the New York Curb Exchange. In any event, would strongly advise against purchases of this or any other stock on installments.

Curtiss-Wright Common.

A. P. H.—Please give me some information in regard to Curtiss-Wright common stock as an investment or a speculation.

Answer—Stock is not to be classified as an investment, as no dividends are paid on it. Moreover, there is little likelihood of one being disbursed in the near future. Company reported for year ended December 31, 1929, a deficit of $2,127,714, or a loss of 68 cents per common share. Considered from a speculative viewpoint, the stock undoubtedly has considerable attraction for the long pull, on account of the outstanding position occupied by the company in its particular industry.

Fisk Rubber.

P. W. B.—Will you kindly explain the reason why Fisk Rubber common has declined to $2.50 per share? Is the company financially strong or is it due just to the condition of the rubber market? Is it a safe investment?

Answer—Stock by no means to be classified as an investment, as no dividends are being paid and from all indications none likely to be for a considerable time to come. Unsatisfactory earnings principal reason for decline in stock. On that account, dividends on both first and second preferred were passed in latter part of 1928, and have not since been resumed. However, balance sheet of December 31, 1929, showed strong financial condition, with total current assets of $25,205,516, total current liabilities of $2,239,963 and net working capital of $22,810,553.

Davison Chemical.

B. H. A.—What are the prospects for Davison Chemical? Is the stock cheap at current prices? What are the assets, &c?

Answer—The outlook appears favorable, being helped by the tariff, which is expected to be of aid to the farmer, who, in turn, should develop a larger purchasing power. Income last year was $3.34 a share on the common, while 1930 indicated profits are $5 per share. The writer does not advise on day-to-day fluctuations in stocks. It is merely guess work, upon which sound investment is not based. Davison is in a strong position, current assets last June 30 amounting to $10,270,500, including $3,225,300, cash and call loans, and $4,127,000 receivables.

Current liabilities totaled $2,610,300, leaving net working capital at $7,660,200, an increase of $3,000,000. The stock has a book value of $61.49, which does not include certain properties held apart from the business and estimated to have a salable value equal to $40 a share on Davison stock, whose prospects may be viewed in a favorable light.

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Curb Review

New York, une 25 (A.P.).—Curb shares were driven still lower today, as bearish pressure was unabated in the more active issues, and the less active shares dropped heavily on light offerings.

Short covering appeared in large volume in the last half hour, however, and a few prominent issues closed higher, after recording new lows earlier in the day. Trading was highly professional, but somewhat more active than yesterday, sales exceeding 940,000 shares.

Electric Bond and Share again dropped close to 70, but rallied to close at 75½, up more than 3 points. Duke Powder and American Gas each dropped 4 points, the former reaching new low levels for the year. U. S. Electric Power was a soft spot in the low-priced utility group, sagging to 11½, a new low, and closing at 12⅛, off ½. United Founders, which is heavily interested in U. S. Electric, was sold in heavy volume, reaching a new minimum for this market at 17½, and closing at 18½, off about 2.

Industrials were mostly under pressure, but Deere, after dropping to a new bottom at 83, closed at 89, up nearly 4. Glen Alden Coal was a weak feature, tumbling 18½ points to 78½, and closing at 80. In the chain store group, Great Atlantic and Pacific sagged about 5 points to 180¼, a 1930 low, in a few odd lot sales. This issue sold up 494 shortly after it was listed on this market last year, but the floating supply has always been small.

Newmont Mining was again a soft spot, tumbling about 6 points to 79½, another new minimum, and about 10 points below the bottom level of 1929. The oils moved uncertainly. Humble lost a couple of points, but the Standards generally were steady to firm. Cities Service sold off nearly a point, then rallied to close at 26½, off only ¼.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 25 (A.P.).—Grain exchange tradition collided squarely today with the recent habit which some commodities have acquired of breaking low-price records almost each successive 24 hours. Largely as a result of the tradition that this was a calendar date to purchase wheat and corn, wheat values averaged higher, notwithstanding that wheat, corn and rye temporarily touched new bottom levels.

Wheat made its advance in the face of distress reports from the Southwest that exhaustion of elevator space for wheat in that section is imminent, with harvest progressing fast and export demand inadequate.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, ¼ to ¾ cent a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅛ to ¼ cent off, oats ⅛ to ⅜ cent up, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to a rise of 17 cents.

Action taken today by Gov. Reed of Kansas looking to Federal Farm Board purchase of 25,000,000 bushels of wheat as a relief measure to offset wheat-price depression was apparently not a factor in today's wheat dealings. News about the governor having telegraphed to Chairman Legge of the Farm Board was not received in Chicago until after the wheat market had closed for the day.

On the other hand, however, incentives to obtain profits from speculative selling ventures were minimized by the fact that farmers were reported as obtaining as little as about 59 cents a bushel for newly harvested wheat in some parts of the Southwest. Comparative firmness in Liverpool wheat quotations today was also a buying inducement, together with word of heavy damage to wheat crops in Greece, as well as advices that a constant demand to fill immediate European requirements was being looked for abroad.

"Calendar" purchasing of wheat future deliveries was in accord with a widespread belief which frequently influences many grain traders either to buy or sell and is based on long-time experience of past dealings and of world-wide seasonable developments as to crops and shipping needs, rather than on any arbitrary assumptions as to luck or the reverse. Nevertheless, scattered selling which came on the wheat market at the outset today from discouraged holders and from other sources proved sufficient to bring about a temporary spasmodic break to a new bottom-price record, outdoing any heretofore since 1914. Then the wheat market began an irregular upward course, one which, though, was visibly hampered from time to time by stock market setbacks. Export business in North America, wheat today was estimated as totaling 700,000 bushels, including some new hard winter wheat from the United States.

Weakness of the corn market was ascribed largely to talk current that high prices of corn as compared with other cereals could not be maintained, barring a calamity to the new corn crop. Oats were influenced by the Government weekly crop report, which said the oats crop was heading short in some sections.

Provisions averaged lower because of liquidating sales by holders of July land contracts.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July, 86, 91; September, 89¾ to 89⅞, 94¾ to 94⅞; December, 95⅛, 1.00. Corn—July, 73½, 76; September, 72⅛ to 72¼, 74¼ to 74⅜; December, 66⅝ to 67, 69 to 69⅛. Cash grain: WHEAT—No. 2 yellow, hard, 88½; No. 2 Northern spring, 88¼. CORN—No. 2 mixed, 77. OATS—No. 2 white, 38½@39½; No. 3 white, 37. RYE—No sales. BARLEY—45@55. GRAIN AND PROVISIONS FUTURES:

SCHOOL HEADS GET APPEAL ON BEHALF OF KINDERGARTENS

Miss Watkins, in Delayed Speech, Brands Pending Plan Step Backward.

GILLIGAN SAYS BOARD IS OPPOSING SYSTEM

Ballou, in Denial, Asserts No Differences Exist With Superintendent.

Further curtailment of District kindergartens will be a blow to the public school system of the National Capital, Miss Catherine Watkins, superintendent of kindergartens, told the Board of Education yesterday afternoon when she was given a hearing that has been delayed for several months.

After Miss Watkins was given an audience, the issue was shelved until next September upon the recommendation of Frank W. Ballou, Superintendent of Schools. Members of the board explained that they are powerless to act on the kindergartens until they know what disposal Congress will make of the 1931 appropriation bill.

Gilligan Renews Charges.

Henry Gilligan, board member who recently accused Superintendent Ballou of interfering with Miss Watkins' appearance before the board, made another attack on the school administration yesterday when he charged that he believed it was the policy of the administration to curtail development of kindergartens.

This was denied by Superintendent Ballou, who asserted that there had never been any difference of opinion or personal difficulty between him and the kindergarten superintendent.

Superintendent Ballou had previously explained that the reason he had advised Miss Watkins not to appear before the board was because the time was inappropriate and also because the kindergarten issue was in controversy in Congress.

Transfer of 75 kindergarten teachers to the elementary grades has been proposed by the House District committee. Miss Watkins said yesterday that such action would mean a backward step in education of small children from which the District would not recover. She appealed to the board to oppose such action.

Would Continue Schools.

Miss Watkins also asked the board to advocate continued operation of the five under-school-age kindergartens and that kindergartens be opened to children under 5 years old. She has two stalwart supporters on the board, Mr. Gilligan and Mrs. Mary McNeil. Other members would not commit themselves until definite action is taken.

Contract for cadet uniforms for next year was awarded by the board to Jacob Reed's Sons, of Philadelphia. Announcement was made that Frederick Cronch Roop, of Central High School, has been selected to represent Washington in the Edison scholarship contest.

Adkins to Preside At Special Court

All Indicted Prisoners in District Jail to Appear Before New Justice.

Coincidental with the assumption of his new judicial duties by Justice Jesse C. Adkins, it was learned yesterday that for the first three weeks of the month of July he will preside in a special Criminal Court which is designed to clear the District Jail of all prisoners under indictment.

Justice Adkins began his new duties in Equity Court No. 1 and probably will remain there until the court recesses on July 1. At that time he will take over the only Criminal branch of the court, swearing in the summer grand jury and carrying on for the next three weeks.

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover announced that at least two first degree murder cases would be calendared for that period. These involve the murder of Lee King, alleged Chinese narcotic informer, and the death of Lamar Watson York, a prohibition agent. It also was understood that the new justice will be asked to dispose of a number of minor pleas in abatement which have been interposed by defendants named in indictments.

Wife Denies Knowledge Of Mate's Conviction

Dorothy E. Painter, of Bethesda, Md., who on Monday was refused an annulment of her marriage to John T. Painter on grounds that she knew the man had a criminal record when she married him, yesterday denied that she had such knowledge.

Mrs. Painter insists that she believed Painter when he told her he was serving a term in Leavenworth Penitentiary to protect another and she did not learn of his alleged bad check passing activities until after the marriage, whereupon she left him. Painter is now serving time in the District Jail.

City Coal Merchants To Hold Outing Today

Coal merchants of Washington, comprising the coal division of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, and their wives and children, will hold their annual outing today at Bay Ridge, Md. More than 250 are expected to attend.

The party will be given a police escort from Rhode Island avenue and North Capitol street at 9 o'clock. The day's activities will include water sports and games for the men, women and children. The outing is in charge of a committee composed of Fred Hessick, chairman; Fenton Fadeley, jr., and Edward D. Shaw, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

Towser's License Tag Expires Next Monday

Chatham M. Towers, dog lover and collector of taxes of the District, yesterday asked newspaper reporters to remind people of the District that the license tags for their dogs expire next Monday and unless they get their friends new tags trouble will ensue.

This year Mr. Towers will not have to buy a tag for his three-legged dog who was his companion and friend for years, for the dog died a few months ago. Each year Mr. Towers takes to the White House tag No. 1 for the first dog in the land. It is a special gold tag inscribed with the name of the dog and the name of his owner and his address.

Helwig and W. E. Johnson.

PRESIDENT INVITED TO JULY 4 DISPLAY

Many Capital Dignitaries Are Expected to Attend Fireworks Exhibition.

ON MONUMENT GROUNDS

Invitations to President and Mrs. Hoover and many others prominent in the political, social and business life of the Capital to attend the display of fireworks on the Monument Grounds on the night of July 4 have been extended by the Independence Day committee.

The list of invited guests will include members of the House and Senate, members of the Diplomatic Corps, Cabinet members and justices of the various courts in the District as well as others who have had parts in all outstanding civic events.

Those accepting invitations by Saturday will have special chairs reserved for them in the stands erected this year on the north slope of the Monument Grounds. Other seats will be sold for the first time and proceeds used to pay for the fireworks display and the cost of erecting the stands.

Previous to the fireworks display there will be a band concert by the Marine Band at 7:30 o'clock in the Sylvan Theater followed by a short patriotic program and then the massing of colors around the Monument. The fireworks will begin at 9 o'clock.

Organizations planning to participate in the massing of colors include the Grand Army of the Republic; Ladies of the G. A. R.; Sons of the American Revolution; Children of the American Revolution; Dames of the Loyal Legion; Daughters of American Colonists; Society of Colonial Wars; National Society of Daughters of 1812; District of Columbia Society of Daughters of 1812; Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War; Order of Indian Wars; Spanish War Veterans Auxiliary Department; United Spanish War Veterans; Army and Navy Union; American Legion; Headquarters Sixteenth Brigade, U. S. A.; Rainbow Division Veterans; James E. Walker Post No. 26, American Legion; American Legion Auxiliary of the District; National Patriotic Council; District of Columbia American Red Cross; District of Columbia Girl Scouts; District of Columbia Council, Boy Scouts of America, and Woodmen of the World.

$20,000 Suit Filed For Auto Injuries

Man Says Skull Fractured When He Was Thrown Against Car Top.

Claiming to have been severely injured when the automobile in which he was a passenger hit a rut in the road and caused him to be thrown forcibly against the top of the vehicle, Charles Riemer, of 1015 Quebec place northwest, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court seeking to recover $20,000 damages from Frank J. Albus, of 1338 Kalmia road northwest, alleged to have been the owner and operator of the machine.

Riemer tells the court that he was riding in the defendant's automobile on June 26, 1927, when between Orkney Springs, Va., and Mount Jackson, Va., the car was driven negligently over a rut in the road. The plaintiff asserts that he was hurtled from his seat to the top of the automobile, causing him to strike his head in such a manner as to render him unconscious for a space of time.

Riemer also asserts that he suffered a fracture of the skull, suffered permanent disfigurements and was prevented for a long time from engaging in his occupation as a stock broker. Attorney Ralph A. Cusick appears for the plaintiff.

Chinese Interpreted To Convict Two Men

Edward Brown and Alfred Brown, Negroes, were convicted in District Supreme Court yesterday on charges of housebreaking and larceny on testimony given in the Chinese language and passed on to the jury by an interpreter.

The two Negroes were charged with having robbed the laundry operated by Lee Sing, Chinese, on F street northwest near First street, last May 12. Lee, was unable to explain to the jury the details of the alleged robbery except in his native language and Chin Chin, a Chinese, interpreted for him.

The trial was held before Justice Peyton Gordon and both Negroes testified on the stand that alleged confessions offered in evidence by the Government had been extracted from them by third-degree methods. The two Negroes were among more than a dozen arrested by the police in connection with the robbery. Assistant United States Attorney James R. Kirkland appeared for the Government.

POLICE REQUESTED TO LECTURE YOUTH

Letter of Father Suggests Scaring Chester Boy in "Shanghai" Case.

SECOND CAPITAL TRIP

John M. Thomas, 20-year-old youth from Chester, Pa., who landed here yesterday with a tale of having been shanghaied, will be "lectured" by members of the Police Department if they follow the instruction of Herbert A. Thomas, father of the boy.

The youth, now languishing in a cell at the First Precinct station, will be sent money for his return to Chester Friday, his father said in a communication to the Washington police. In his letter the senior Thomas indicated that his son had been in Washington once before and he ended with the observation, "This ought to be a lesson to him."

The boy told police here that he had been kidnaped in his home city Monday morning, had been taken to a farm house near Chester, where he was forced to spend the night, and was then brought to this city, where he was released by his three captors.

The boy's father wrote police: "Kindly give this boy a lecture, and scare him, as this is the second time he has come to Washington. I think this ought to be a lesson to him."

Demurrer Is Overruled In Army Discharge Suit

Lieut. Col. Harry E. Gladman, formerly an officer in the District National Guard, yesterday won a point in his legal battle to have War Department and District militia orders discharge him honorably from the service. Justice Wendell P. Stafford informed H. Winship Wheatley, attorney for Gladman, that he had overruled a demurrer to Gladman's suit, filed by the United States attorney.

In effect the ruling by Justice Stafford holds that Gladman has a legal cause of action. The Government may now appeal from the decision of the demurrer or file answer to the original declaration. Gladman, who was executive officer of the 121st Engineers, asserts he can not be discharged without a hearing before certain boards of Army officers.

CLEARED MAN FACES SUIT FOR $50,000

Detroiter Handed Papers in Case After Acquittal of Attacking Dentist.

GIRL FIGURES IN CLASH

As James A. Cummiskey, of Detroit, Mich., left the Police Court Building yesterday afternoon freed by a jury before Judge Isaac R. Hitt of a charge of assaulting Dr. Robert T. McCrystal, of the Wardman Park Hotel, he was served with papers citing him to appear in District Supreme Court to answer a suit for $50,000 damages filed against im last Saturday by the doctor.

Cummiskey, represented by Attorneys Harry Whelan and W. B. O'Connell, pleaded in Police Court that Dr. McCrystal, a dentist, had provoked the altercation, in which the latter alleges in his suit that he suffered a broken wrist nd other injuries which impair his practice.

According to testimony before Judge Hitt, Cummiskey and a young woman had attended a dance on the roof garden of the Powhatan Hotel and were on H street northwest near Pennsylvania avenue preparing to get into his car when Dr. McCrystal is alleged to have asked the girl, "Where did you get those pretty flowers?" No attention was paid to that remark, and when it was repeated without any rejoinder, the dentist is said to have asked Cummiskey, "Why don't you take up for your girl?"

Cummiskey and the dentist then mixed it up like a couple of real prize fighters, with the former landing quick lefts and rights which floored his antagonist, according to testimony. Recumbent on the pavement, the dentist was unable to arise and was taken to Emergency Hospital where he was said to have remained for a month.

Representative Clarence J. McLeod, of Michigan, and Attorney John J. Hamilton, of Washington, appeared as character witnesses for Cummiskey.

The jury was out less than 10 minutes.

Dr. McCrystal in his suit charges circumstances similar to those recited at the trial of Cummiskey. Attorneys Daniel S. Ring and Harvey Cobb appear for the dentist in his suit.

Enough Instruments For Band Are Stolen

In one swoop yesterday some one stole almost enough musical instruments to equip a band.

One drum, three cymbals, a saxophone and a clarinet, together with all the trimmings that go with those instruments, were stolen from Albert Senior, of the Arlington Hotel. They were valued at $250.

Man Held on Count Of Striking Woman

Screams Heard at Precinct, Reserves Give Chase to Fleeing Car.

Harry G. Bowers, 23 years old, of Massachusetts avenue near Sixth street northwest, will face a Police Court judge today on the charge that he struck a girl with his fist early yesterday morning and injured her with an auto as he attempted to escape the scene. The girl is Miss Elsie Beckford, 20 years old, of Twentieth street near K street northwest.

Bowers and the girl were arguing on the street only half a block from the Third Precinct station, police say, when the alleged attack occurred and the woman was injured, when brushed from the running board of the car in which Bowers made his escape.

The argument was over a postcard the man had received from another girl, it is said. The woman's screams were heard by reserves at the precinct station, who rushed to the rescue. The man fled, with the woman, as well as policemen, in hot pursuit. She leaped on the running board of his car and was injured when jammed between it and another auto. At Emergency Hospital it was said her hurts were not serious and she was allowed to go home. The man escaped, but was later arrested at his home.

BUCHANAN STATUE WILL BE UNVEILED AT MERIDIAN HILL

President Hoover to Deliver Address at Ceremony This Afternoon.

MORRIS WILL PRESENT MEMORIAL TO NATION

Cousin of Fifteenth Chief Executive Will Draw Curtains Aside.

President Hoover and a distinguished group of diplomats and Government officials will attend ceremonies in Meridian Hill Park at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in connection with the unveiling of a memorial to James Buchanan, first of the "cabin" Presidents.

President Hoover will deliver an address, and the monument will be unveiled by Mrs. Francis H. Denny, a cousin of the bachelor fifteenth Chief Executive of the Nation.

Not Open to Public.

Invitations have been issued, but the program will be open to the general public. Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and parks, will open the ceremony by introducing Lawrason Riggs, trustee of the Buchanan Memorial Fund, who will act as chairman.

Following an invocation by the Rev. Dr. Godfrey Chobot, Mrs. Denny will unveil the monument while "The Star-Spangled Banner" is being sung by Senor Pietro Gladiatore Gentile, vocalist of the Los Angeles, Calif., post of the American Legion. Senor Gentile will be accompanied by the Marine Band.

Mr. Riggs will then introduce Hans Schuler, sculptor of the memorial, and William Gordon Beecher, the architect. The formal presentation of the statue will be made by Roland S. Morris, former ambassador to Japan, who will represent the State of Pennsylvania, Buchanan's birth place. President Hoover will deliver a brief acceptance speech, and the audience will join Senor Gentile in singing "America."

Taps Will Be Sounded.

After Bishop William F. McDowell, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, pronounces the benediction, "Taps" will be sounded. The Newsie Cadet Band, from President Buchanan's home town of Lancaster, will play sacred and patriotic selections before and after the ceremony, under the direction of E. A. List. Detachments from the Army, Navy and Marine Corps will serve as ushers, according to plans announced yesterday by Maj. Douglas H. Gillette, assistant director of public buildings and parks.

President Buchanan, who occupied the White House prior to the war between the States, was born in Franklin County, Pa., April 23, 1791. The three Presidents who succeeded him—Lincoln, Johnson and Grant—were also born in cabins. When the memorial to Buchanan is unveiled today, only Johnson will lack a statue in the National Capital.

Alleged Numbers Center Is Raided

Women Among 12 Witnesses Booked by Police After Foray.

What police say is the headquarters of one of the numbers rings in Washington was raided late yesterday afternoon by Sergt. Oscar C. Letterman and his vice squad on Third street, near U northeast. The raid was one of three made during the afternoon.

Three women were among the twelve witnesses booked by the raiding squad. William C. King, 26 years old, was arrested for permitting gaming. A quantity of tally slips and $300 in money were confiscated.

After a lengthy search of a Fifth street place near M northwest, the squad found 25 quarts of liquor hidden in a piano and arrested Edward Butler, colored, 30 years old, on charges of sale and possession of liquor and maintaining a nuisance.

Robert Jones, 34 years old, colored, was charged with sale and possession of liquor following a raid on Third street near K northeast.

Taxi Hurts Policeman; Driver Is Arrested

Policeman Frank J. Hospidor, attached to the Fourth Precinct, was knocked down and injured by a taxicab at Sixth street and Florida avenue northwest last night. He was treated at the Garfield Hospital for a fractured right arm.

The officer, who lives at 636 Alabama avenue southeast, was detailed to the baseball park for special duty. On leaving the park, he started across Florida avenue and was struck by the cab just as he stepped onto the curb. The driver, Louis Solomon, Quincy street near Georgia avenue northwest, was arrested and charged with reckless driving.

Boy Scouts to Leave For Camporee Review

Eight Boy Scouts of Troop 17, of the Western Presbyterian Church, will leave Washington early this morning for Natural Bridge, Va., under the leadership of Scoutmaster James S. Hawley to participate in a regional review of camporee teams from four States.

The Capital team, winner in the third division contest, is composed of Bill Hammers, Tom Blair, Charles Blair, Ridgeley Parsons, Bud Hammerlund, Henry Bowles, Myron Smith and Edward Duffy.

HOWELL RATE HELD GAS CONSUMER AID

Senator to Oppose Merger Until He and Company Are in Accord.

SEES 10 PER CENT CUT

Senator Robert B. Howell (Republican), of Nebraska, who at one time was manager of a gas works in Omaha and who now is taking a deep interest in the local situation, estimated yesterday that the schedule of rates which he proposed in the Senate on Tuesday would result in a saving of 10 per cent to the average consumer of gas.

Senator Howell's schedule was offered as an amendment to the Capper bill to authorize a merger of the Washington Gas Light Co. and the Georgetown Gas Light Co., both of which are owned by the same interests.

The merger bill now is before the Senate with a favorable report, but Senator Howell does not propose to allow it to pass until he has reached some agreement with company officials regarding a reduction in rates.

"The company will benefit from this merger," the Senator said, "and I think it is only fair that the gas consumers should benefit also."

Among other things in disagreement between himself and the officials, he said, was the question of a minimum charge. His latest bill would permit the company to charge 60 cents for 500 cubic feet of gas or less. The company, he said, wants to charge this for 300 feet or less.

Speeder's Unique Plea Fails to Prevent Fine

Henry C. Stephanson, 31 years old, was fined $10 in Traffic Court yesterday morning on a speeding charge.

The man made the unique plea that his automobile will not go less than 48 miles an hour and asserted that if he sought to propel it at a lesser speed that it stopped dead. Judge Ralph Given, in imposing the fine, suggested that the mechanism of the vehicle be changed so as to bring its speed within the law. Policeman H. O. Tutt, of the Traffic Bureau, made the arrest.

Chi Sigmas Meet Here Today.

Chi Sigma Sorority will open its twelfth annual convention today in the Hotel Mayflower. Delegations are expected from chapters in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Indianapolis, Camden, Richmond, Va.; Elizabeth, N. J.; Little Rock, Ark.; Mansfield, Ohio, and Clarendon, Va. A tea dance is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon and a banquet and dance Saturday evening. Anne Knouse, of Washington, national president, will preside.

POLICE BOARD DROPS THIRD-DEGREE CASES

Five Men Accused Three of Abusing Prisoners Following Raid.

STORIES TOLD DIFFER

Charges that three policemen had used third-degree methods upon Negro prisoners were dismissed by the Police Trial Board yesterday when the evidence failed to substantiate the accusations.

The case developed out of a raid in which fourteen Negroes were arrested on May 19 on G street near Fifth street northwest, where a Negro club and rooming house is conducted under the name of International Brotherhood Welfare Association.

Two of the fourteen men, Edward and Alfred Brown, brothers, were convicted in District Supreme Court yesterday of housebreaking and larceny on charges resulting from the raid.

William O. Colpitts, who manages the brotherhood organization, and Lester Fitzmorris, William McCoy, William Rutledge and Ernest L. Waters, all colored, the latter four being among the men arrested, charged that Policemen R. D. Edwards and W. J. Mathews, of the Sixth Precinct, and R. J. Frasier, of police headquarters, had abused the prisoners after arresting them.

On the witness stand, however, the plaintiffs made so many conflicting and contradictory statements that the Police Trial Board held their testimony valueless as evidence upon which to base any conviction. Policemen Edwards and Mathews, who conducted the raid upon information supplied by Fitzmorris, who had been arrested earlier for investigation, denied the charges in their entirety, and testified further that the third policeman, Frasier, although he had been in the station house for a few minutes, had not been present when the prisoners were questioned nor had he taken any part in the arrests or subsequent investigations.

Patrolman's Rib Found To Have Been Broken

Patrolman J. M. Horton, of the Ninth Precinct, was relieved of duty and assigned to the police clinic yesterday when it was found that he was suffering from a fractured rib, received in a tussle with an intoxicated man last Friday.

While attempting to place the inebriate in the patrol wagon, Officer Horton was thrown against the side of the machine. Yesterday his side began to pain him. Dr. R. J. Bosworth, 811 Eighth street northeast, found that one of his left ribs had been broken.

LUTHERAN CHURCH MEMBERS OBSERVE AUGSBURG JUBILEE

Four-Hundredth Anniversary Fete Attracts Throng of Believers.

DEAN OF SEMINARY DELIVERS ADDRESS

Dr. Aberly Cites Doctrine of Confession; Several Old Hymns Sung.

The four hundredth anniversary of the Augsburg Confession, on which the Luthern Church is founded, was celebrated at the Luther Place Memorial Church last night with a mass meeting attended by representatives from all Luthern churches in the city.

The principal address was delivered by the Rev. John Aberly, dean of the Gettysburg, Pa., Lutheran Seminary. The Rev. Carl Rasmussen, pastor of Luther Place Memorial Church, sketched the history of the Augsburg Confession from its inception on June 25, 1530, until the present date.

Dr. Smith Presided.

The Rev. Richard Smith, pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, presided over the gathering, which was attended by several hundred persons.

In interpreting the doctrine of the confession, Dr. Aberly said that it was based on the belief that man is a sinner, for whom a Saviour exists. The confession also stresses Luther's doctrime of "justification by faith," he said.

21 Articles Explained.

Dr. Rasmussen explained that the 21 articles of the first part of the document dealt with those points which reformers held in common with the Roman Catholic Church and points in which they differed. The seven articles of the second part of the confession, he said, concern practices which Luther and his followers regarded as abuses in the church.

The services closed with the singing of several old Lutheran hymns.

Boy's Kidnaping Story Investigated by Police

After telling a tale of being kidnaped from his home in Chester, Pa., brought to this city and abandoned by his captors, John M. Thomas, 20 years old, was held for investigation by First Precinct police yesterday.

Thomas, according to police, said he was abducted from his home on Monday by three men and was brought to this city late Tuesday night. Early yesterday morning, according to the story told to police, Thomas walked into the First Precinct, told police that his captors, after playing cards all night, had given him 80 cents and his liberty. Police are waiting an answer to a telegram sent to Chester authorities, checking the story told by the prisoner.

Relief Sums Granted Two in Senate Action

Two local relief bills were passed yesterday by the Senate. Miss Elizabeth Lynn was awarded $1,000 for injuries received when an Army automobile hit a tree, knocking it on her. As the House had given her $5,000, the bill was sent back amended.

The House measure to pay Thomas T. Grimsley $652 for an injury he sustained in 1922 as an employe of the District government, was also passed.

Colored Youths' Camp Needs Cited in Report

Immediate establishment of a camp for colored boys was recommended yesterday by the recreation committee of the Council of Social Agencies.

Maj. Cambell C. Johnson, reporting for the interracial group of the committee, stressed the unusually low percentage of juvenile delinquency among colored children in Washington.

The report also recommended that Clariss Scott Camp for colored girls be enlarged to at least 20 acres, that the main building be erected, an artesian well bored, and that adequate beach facilities be provided.

More Park Police Held Capital Need

Force Should Be Increased 75 Per Cent, Declares Montgomery.

Although eight men are to be added to the United States Park Police force on July 1, Capt. Ray C. Montgomery, U. S. Army, superintendent, feels that the force still will be inadequate and has asked Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Public Parks, to take up with the Budget Bureau the matter of increasing the force by about 75 per cent.

At present there are 71 men in the park police service, but Capt. Montgomery points out that while park acreage has increased rapidly, the police personnel has remained practically unchanged. To police the parks properly now, it is held, would require keeping one policeman on duty in each area for 24 hours daily, which is impossible with the present staff.

Completion of the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway in 1932 will necessitate a substantial increase in the number of park policemen, and it is also proposed, as the park areas are expanded, to equip the park police with radio sets to facilitate communication.

Girl Trips, Breaks Elbow.

Alice Fletcher, 13 years old, of the Hillcrest Orphanage, 4119 Nebraska avenue northwest, broke her left elbow last night when she tripped on a rope at a carnival at Tenley Circle, at Wisconsin avenue. The girl was given first aid by Dr. William Stanton, of 4100 Nebraska avenue, and returned to the orphanage.

Church Carnival Repeated.

The carnival which is being held every night this week at St. Columbia's Episcopal Church was repeated last night on the grounds at Wisconsin and Nebraska avenues. A varied entertainment was offered.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA was a little longer than usual making the coffee—and I had an engagement downtown.

"Whassamattah with the service this morning, young lady?" I queried, pounding for attention.

She peeped around the corner of the kitchen: "Hold your horses, buddy," she snapped. "Rome, you know, wasn't built in a day."

"Certainly Rome wasn't built in a day; neither was Carthage; but, what has that to do with making coffee, I'd like to know.

Luella informed me: "I'm making coffee royal this morning——"

"Coffee royal? Never heard of it. Besides, plain, old-fashioned democratic coffee is good enough for me."

"Ordinarily, that's what you'd get," said Luella, "but I'm making coffee royal——"

"For why, are you making coffee royal?"

"In honor of the intrepid airmen who flew across the ocean in the Southern Cross."

* * * *

HONESTLY, Luella can figure out the darndest things. Coffee royal in honor of the Southern Cross.

"How come?" I gasped, looking at the clock. "Coffee royal, me eye. I'd just as soon have a regular cup."

"Well," said Luella, "if you had followed the flight, you'd know that the boys' supper consisted of snappy chicken sandwiches and coffee royal——"

There it was again, coffee royal.

"How do you know what they had?" I asked.

She ran, got the newspaper: "Here," she pointed, showing me a statement from Capt. Kingsford-Smith. "We had coffee royal. The coffee was not so good, but the royal was Jameson's Irish, seven years old."

"Jameson's Irish?" I mused. "I thought Jameson was an English name——"

"You don't get the point," she said, "Jameson's more than Irish. It's——"

"It's what?"

"More than Irish——"

"It couldn't be more than Irish," I told her. "The Irish wouldn't stand for that. You mean, I dare say, it's more than one-half of 1 per cent, eh?"

* * * *

SHE smiled: "And seven years old."

Then it dawned on me what coffee royal meant.

"But how're you gon-a make it, when there isn't any seven-year-old stuff in this country?"

"That's easy," she smiled: "I'm aging it."

Which was, of course, why it took so long to make the coffee royal.

In Again, Out Again, Back Again Is Senate's Dial-Log

Having put the local telephone company to the expense of removing some 811 dial telephones, the Senate yesterday adopted a resolution to permit the company to put them back whenever an individual senator wants them.

The resolution was offered by Senator Swanson (Democrat), of Virginia, whose colleague, Senator Glass, had driven the dials out.

The resolution was adopted after Senator Glass and Senator Dill (Democrat), of Washington, again had denounced the dials. Senator Glass said he would not object to the new instruments "so long as they don't pester me."

He wouldn't have objected in the first place, he said, if he had been allowed to keep the old manual telephone.

Senator Dill, who previously had accused the telephone officials of "lobbying" in an attempt to prevent the removal of the dials, said that these telephones were neither new nor representative of progress.

Senator Glass held up a stack of letters he had received in which he was praised for his war against the new telephones. These letters, he said, came from all parts of the country.
